Dry Organizations Declare Saloon Is Back Worse Than Ever

STRINGENT LAWS TO BE DEMANDED

Declare Jail Sentences For Drunken Drivers Should Be Made Mandatory

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1.—Declaring "The saloon has returned and in far worse form than in previous days," 11 state-wide dry organizations today demanded drastic tightening up of the present state liquor laws;

Resolutions prepared by a committee headed by John A. McSparran, former state secretary of agriculture, and adopted at a conference here called for more stringent laws on drunken driving with mandatory jail sentences for second and subsequent offenses.

Other resolutions adopted urged extension of local option elections and establishment of "dry" zones within a radius of 300 feet of churches, schools, colleges, hospitals and similar institutions.

Oppose Liquor Advertising

The organizations adopted resolutions urging that no liquor be sold to minors or intoxicated persons and that dispensation of liquor by minors or women be prohibited. The commonwealth was asked to give more stringent "protection" to territories which have voted "dry". Liquor advertising also was opposed.

"If Pennsylvania is to continue in the liquor business, we insist that the profits accruing therefrom be appled to the cost of takng care of the consequences of the traffic," another resolution urged.

Organizations represented at the conference were: Anti-Saloon League; Women's Christian Temperance Union; National Reform association; Lord's Day Alliance; Western Pennsylvania Sabbath association; Dry State committee; Pennsylvania State grange; State Council of Christian Education; Christian Endeavor Union and Pennsylvania Council of Churches.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Unless the weather man turns radical, March should be quite as it should be, both January and February this year, having been very close to the normal as far as the weather has been concerned.

Better have your 1935 driver's license with you if you are thinking of driving the car today, or at any time in the near future. State highway patrolmen are checking up on the drivers, and those not holding 1935 permits will be arrested.

Just in case you are not aware of it, this is St. David's Day, the natal day of the patron saint of Wales. The Welsh flower is the daffodil, and so if you see a daffodil in the coat of a citizen today he is not the advance agent of spring.

New Tariff Treaty Made With Belgium Is Strongly Assailed

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The reciprocal tariff treaty just signed with Belgium aroused congressional Republicans into a new assault upon the administration's tariff policy today.

Their leaders not only seized upon the treaty as a campaign issue but they planned an effort to create such widespread protests that further treaties may be halted. The Belgian treaty, first to be negotiated with a European nation, is expected to be followed by others in which mutual tariff concessions are made.

Industries Of East Sacrificed.

The Republicans charged that industries in the east are being sacrificed by the administration's tariff policy. But administration leaders declared agriculture and many industries would gain by the increased international trade fostered by the trade agreements.

House Republican Leader Snell of New York assigned members to investigate the Belgian treaty and its effect on American industry.

Freighter Captain Dies From Attack

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To Former Commander Of Byrd Supply Ships

(International News Service)

LYNN, Mass., Mar. 1—Captain Fred Melville, 57, commander of supply ships for Admiral Richard E. Byrd in Antarctic dashes of 1928 and 1930, died aboard his freight steamship Angeles while a hospital ship lost a race with death out of New York harbor.

News of the death of the famous "sea dog" was received by his wife and three children today as the Angeles with the dead commander aboard put into New York.

Captain Melville, who twice rescued the Bryd expeditions from the grip of the ice barriers of Christmas Bay, had been suffering from a heart ailment. Last week he refused hospital treatment and sailed aboard the Angeles from Boston to Philadelphia. Last night, on the return voyage, he was again stricken. A call went to the New York hospital ship but it was too late.

Cummings' Case Nears Completion

Fate Of Former Swissvale Chief Of Police Soon To Be With Jury

DEFENDANT DENIES SHOOTING HIS WIFE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1.—Tom Cummings, former Swissvale police chief, made a final bid for acquittal on charges he murdered his wife, shortly before the defense rested its case in criminal court here today.

Summations were begun immediately and the case may go to the jury before nightfall.

In a final attempt to acquit the former officer of charges he vehemently denies, the defense placed John Corey, Swissvale patrolman, on the stand. Corey testified he was called to the Cummings home a short time after the murder.

Describing the bedroom, he asserted:

"The top covers of the bed were bloody on the left side where the body was, and on the other side they were moved around and ruffled up."

Defense counsel hoped this testimony would offset that given by state witnesses who said the side of the bed on which Mrs. Cummings' body lay was in disorder while the other side was smooth, as if no one had slept there.

This testimony was designed to show that Cummings had not gone to bed on the night of the shooting as he contends.

Death Summons Philip Wagner

Aged Civil War Veteran Expires At Home Shortly Before Noon

READING PAPER WHEN END CAME

Philip Wagner, 92, pioneer business man of New Castle, joined his comrades of the Roundhead regiment today. At 11 o'clock as he sat in his home at 300 Rhodes Place, the Grim Reaper he had met on the field of battle beckoned him, and with no struggle he slipped away. Earlier in the morning he had seemed to be in his usual health. He had breakfasted and sat reading the newspapers when the end came without warning or struggle.

Mr. Wagner was one of the few remaining veterans of the Civil War in Lawrence county. As a boy of 17 he joined the 100th Pennsylvania Volunteers, the now famous "Roundheads", and served with them throughout the four-year conflict between the states. From Port Royal, S. C., on through 20 battles, at Bull Run, at Antietam, Knoxville, before Vicksburg, at Petersburg, he fought, and was wounded but once, that on June 7, 1862, when he was wounded in the knee. On May 12, 1865, he was made a sergeant of Company H, the company he enlisted with in 1861. Strangely enough, he had two brothers in the Confederate army.

Born in Union County

He was born in Union county on March 8, 1843, but as a boy of eight years he came to New Castle, just four years after Lawrence county was established. Returning from the Civil War, he was married shortly after to Miss Isabel Ray, who preceded him in death six years ago. In 1868 he entered the business world as a feed and grain merchant, and for 62 years he was engaged in this business on North Mercer street.

Despite his years he continued active in the business with his son,

BLAST THROWS TOWN IN PANIC

Mining Community Was Scene Of Recent "American Tragedy" Case

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Mar. 1.—Rescue workers today resumed digging for additional victims in ruins of the building at Edwardsville where a gas explosion killed four persons, including a new-born babe, and sent nine others to the hospital.

Although there were no immediate indications other victims were still in the ruins, authorities decided to sift all the debris as a matter of precaution.

Authorities meanwhile launched an official investigation of the blast that threw the little mining community, scene of the recent "American tragedy" slaying, into a state of near panic for several hours. Volunteer searchers aided police and firemen in clearing away most of the wreckage under the glare of searchlights last night.

Blame Gas Leak

Many of those in the hospital were in a taproom on the first floor that was reduced to splinters by the blast. The explosion shattered windows in scores of nearby building and damaged several others more seriously. A leak in a gas main near the building was found by employes of the Luzerne County Gas and Electric Company last night.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—March 1, 1932...A shadowy figure creeps into the nursery of a lonely mansion near Hopewell, N. J. Strong fingers close around the throat of a sleeping baby, tearing him from his crib.

Man and babe vanish into the blustery night.

The crime of the century has been committed!

March 1, 1935...The baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., lies in his grave. The "shadowy figure", who baffled the world's best police minds for two and one half years, at last sits in the death house of the New Jersey state prison at Trenton.

From Trenton this morning comes that word that Bruno Richard Hauptmann is crouching in the far corner of his bare cell while other death house inmates fling at him again and again the stark challenge:

"Where were you three years ago today?"

Thus reads the three-year synopsis of civilization's most notorious crime today as the world awaits the

Trio In Attempted Hold-Up At Bessemer Given Prison Terms

Homer Chrisner, confessed would-be robber of the Bessemer bank, "brains" of the hold-up of William Binzley in Ellwood City and the holdup of a colored club on Grant street, will have the next five and a half years to consider his actions in the Western penitentiary. In sentence court Thursday afternoon Chrisner received a total of 5½ to 11 years in the Western penitentiary for his crimes with severe sentences for his pals in the various jobs.

Edward "Jack of Diamonds" Scales, colored, who threw the gun on Cashier Weitz of the Bessemer bank on January 31, drew rfom 4 to 8 years for his participation. In addition, he has 18 months of a parole violation to complete, which bring his total up to 5½ years net.

Marie Arredondo, alias Nellie Sellers, drew from 2½ to 5 years in the Western penitentiary for her part in the Bessemer holdup attempt.

Three Sentences.

Chrisner drew three sentences. For the Bessemer job he got 4 to 8 years, for the holdup of William Binzley in Ellwood City on October 26, 1934, he got 1½ to 3 years and for the robbery of a colored club on Grant street the same dose. The latter two sentences run concurrently, but they follow the original sentence of from 4 to 8.

In addition, all three of the prisoners sentenced were fined $1 and costs of the prosecution.

Charles Haynes and Ben Higgins, colored, accomplices of Chrisner in the Ellwood City robbery, fared much better. Higgins was placed upon probation for three years and fined the costs of the prosecution. Haynes was sentenced to the Huntingdon re-

Order Strike Vote In Auto Industry

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mar. 1.—The American Federation of Labor today announced it has asked its membership in the motor plants to decide whether a general automobile workers strike shall be called.

Francis J. Dillon, chief auto plant organizer, announced that the auto workers' council of the A. F. of L. has ordered a strike vote in the federation's 175 automobile unions.

If the workers vote to strike, the council will call the walkout, affecting approximately 200,000 men, Dillon said.

Any widespread and effective motor strike would be certain to inflict grave damage upon the rising prosperity of the automobile industry, which is in the midst of its best year since 1929.

Compromise On Wage Rate Issue Is Not Accepted

BOTH SIDES REJECT COMPROMISE PLAN

Prevailing Wage Rate On Relief Work Controversy Grows Intensive

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—A finish fight between President Roosevelt and the senate on the issue of paying prevailing wage rates on his $4,880,000,000 work relief program loomed today after both sides rejected a proposed compromise.

The impasse strengthened the position of senate conservatives, who demanded the whole work relief program be scrapped as extravagantly wasteful and direct relief continued another year. This would call for a $1,880,000,000 appropriation for direct relief, but it could be used for so-called "made work" as is now being done.

Compromise Not Accepted

The compromise would have given the president permissive authority to pay prevailing wage scales in localities where he deemed such rates unnecessary to protect existing wage levels and pay his subsistence wage of $50 monthly in

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Mar. 1.—Quite a few of our writers are wondering why J. P. Morgan is selling his paintings. He is getting more for 'em than he give. That might be a small possible clew.

Headline in paper says he is "letting his miniature go." Then I guess he is letting that midget go.

Did you ever see pictures in the paper where a fellow had left his wife for another woman, that the wife he left wasn't better looking than the new one?

All you read about Washington is: How are they going to spend that four billions. There hasn't been even one suggestion as to where it was to come from. It must be marvelous to just belong to some legislative body and just pick money out of the air.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

The Irish have Saint Patrick and the English have Saint George both of whom were men of standing I'll agree, and your Scotchman has St. Andrew who I take it played some golf, though perhaps he never used a wooden tee. But the other nations also have their saints who they revere, and the list is much too long to list just now, but today I'd like to mention the patron Saint of Wales, who was also quite a citizen I trow. The name he has is David and he was a man of might, he reigned the folks I've heard historians say so I merely want to mention that today for this one saint, weather's warming and its forty-three today.

EARLE AGAIN TO BORROW TAX FUNDS

Local Districts To Get No Funds

Gas Tax Refunds and Liquor License Fees Will Not Be Paid Now

TO USE MONEY TO PAY STATE PENSIONS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1—Local governmental units, denied their gasoline tax and liquor license refunds last December because of pressing relief needs, will be denied their "take" from these funds again by Gov. George H. Earle's emergency program to provide money for old age and blind pensions.

Bills being prepared by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti for introduction in the legislature next Monday night provide for: transferring a total of $3,090,000 from these two funds to enable needy and blind to be paid pensions for February, March, April and May. Governor Earle has asked the legislature to remain in session five days next week to enact the bills.

The administration originally planned to take $1,200,000 from fire insurance tax fund, but a study showed there was no money available in this fund for transfer. With a balance today of $1,856,128 the fund cannot quite meet liabilities against it. About $600,000 is owed to local firemen's relief associations and $1,300,000 must be transferred to the general fund under the relief acts of 1934.

It was expected $2,000,000 will be taken from the liquor fuels tax fund which today contains $2,514,532. This money, representing one-half cents a gallon tax on gasoline, is due to be distributed among local communities June 1.

The remaining $1,090,000 probably will come from the liquor license fund which has a balance of $1,116,023. This money was scheduled to be distributed to local political subdivisions last month. It represents fees paid for by-the-drink liquor establishments.

Both these funds were tapped during the 1934 special session to provide for relief, thus preventing scheduled distributions of their balances in December. The legislature took $3,766,000 from the liquor fuels fund and $2,137,000 from the liquor fund.

Income Tax

No. 29

DEDUCTION FOR LOSSES OTHER THAN FROM SALE OR EXCHANGE OF CAPITAL ASSETS

Deductions for losses are divided into four classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income tax law. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business, or profession; (2) in any transaction entered into for profit; (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualties, or from theft; and (4) from wagering transactions.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish, the loss is deductible. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible, as it falls in class 3. If, because of faulty driving but not of "willful negligence," an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged, the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible.

Losses from wagering transactions, whether legal or illegal, are deductible only to the extent of gains from such transactions. The excess of such losses over the gains is not deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent to which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

epilogue...death in the electric chair for Hauptmann.

It is a far cry from that hopeless, frantic night of three years ago today.

Authorities knew that a strange kind of criminal was abroad—a man whose greed for money was matched by his twisted urge to commit "the greatest crime in the world". But that is all they knew. There were no clues except a weird ladder and a rude note, bearing cabalistic symbols.

How this ladder ultimately was traced to Hauptmann's attic, branding him as the long hunted freak among criminals, how the note was turned into a virtual "confession" that Hauptmann invaded the Lindbergh nursery are matters of recent history.

Only a few hours before the blast Mrs. Sheypuk had given birth to their infant who was killed. The mother was hurled from her second floor bedroom into the street and covered with wreckage as the blast ripped the building apart.

"Find my baby," she screamed to a neighbor, Albert Metzker, one of the first to reach the scene. The baby was found dead in a pile of wreckage. Another child, Peter, Jr., 4, was found in what remained of the bedroom and carried to safety. Mrs. Sheypuk was in a serious condition in the hospital where her husband and Peter also were taken.

other localities. It differed but little from the Russell plan, which was beaten by the senate.

The president notified senate leaders he opposed any provision which might restrict his use of the huge relief fund. He intimated he felt his personal honor had become involved in the senate controversy and indicated he believed the issue to be whether he could be trusted to spend the relief fund in a proper manner.

The compromise also was turned down by Senator McCarran (D) of Nevada, author of the prevailing wage amendment, and by other progressive leaders and by 50 national leaders of the A. F. of L.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS THEY SAY

But Legislators Resent Hint That Maybe They Stray Off Narrow Path Week-Ends

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1.—Two Beaver county legislators arose today to defend themselves and their colleagues from insinuations in a resolution offered by Rep. Blake B. Shugarts, Clearfield, asking appointment of a secret committee of three to "shadow" lawmakers and find out how they spend their week ends in Harrisburg.

In reply to Shugarts who later amplified his resolution by stating the great number of pretty women on Harrisburg streets made it a dangerous place for legislators temporarily not under surveillance by their wives, Reps. Reuben A. Nagel and Peter P. Reising today declared:

"We resent the implication that we waste our time in frivilous activities. In our opinion the great majority of the legislators are not men of the type that do. We are here in the interest of the people we represent. When we remain here over week ends our time is spent in familiarizing ourselves with the state government and its functions, so that we can intelligently deal with state business as it come up, or in looking after matters for our constituents."

Thomas Burton Wagner, until 1930, when he discontinued his business. As a business man he saw New Castle develop from a village into an industrial center, saw the development of the railroads, of the motor vehicles and of electricity. During his many years in business he symbolized the highest integrity, dealing fairly with his fellow man and enjoying the confidence and respect of those who knew him.

Member of G. A. R.

He had no fraternal affiliations save one, and that was an affiliation of arms. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and none who wore the bronze button of that organization ever wore it with more right or distinction. He was a member of the Second United Presbyterian church.

Mr. Wagner is survived by his son, Thomas Burton Wagner, with whom he made his home. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon, March 4, at 2:30, from the family home at 300 Rhodes Place, with interment in the Greenwood cemetery. There he will lie with his brothers in arms, a member of the Deathless Army. Behind him he leaves a record of good citizenship, sterling character and the respect of an entire community.

Treat Constipation THE WAY THAT DOCTORS DO

Use A Liquid Laxative

Doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives. So would you, if you knew how well they do their work—how much better you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly without any help.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that does not encourage variation from the "fixed dose"—too often an overdose for sensitive persons, or young people! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a doctor's prescription, and safe.

Try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity. Those who have made the "liquid test" know why a doctor favors a liquid laxative.

Your druggist has it

TURNING TO JAPAN

IT has often been wished that China would pull itself together, stand on its own feet and fight its own battles. Signs of the fulfillment of this wish are now appearing. At least the Nanking government appears convinced that the Chinese are not going to get the financial, diplomatic and, perhaps, other help they have wanted from the Western world.

This is the explanation offered in Shanghai dispatches of President Chang Kai Shek's readiness to work out a plan of co-operation with Japan and Premier Wang's prediction: "It is quite certain that a rational solution of the fundamental issues between the two countries will be obtained."

Mrs. Pearl M. Buck, who is conceded to know her China and who is now lecturing in this country, mentions this as one of the important present-day trends. The Chinese, she says, are disappointed that the League of Nations didn't give them material help when Japan invaded Manchuria and that the United States has not paid much regard to China's wishes in its silver policy. As a result of these and other indifferent attitudes the Chinese are turning their faces away from the West and taking up again their Eastern viewpoint. Such, at any rate, is the present situation in Nanking, which is apprehensive over the way the Chinese public and the Cantonese leaders will react to a rapprochement with Japan.

Japan's pressure to bring China into its orbit is unrelenting. If the mood of the Nanking leaders is correctly reported, China will tend to swing out of the orbit of the Western nations. Western prestige will naturally diminish. The cry of Asia for the Asiatics will gain more significance. In the long run it may prove perilous for Japan, which has never shown capacity for assimilating other people, while China has absorbed the outsiders who have undertaken to rule over it. For those obsessed by the yellow peril it spells j-i-t-t-e-r-s.

MAN STILL RESPONSIBLE

A St. Louis man has just learned that the old common law presumption that a man is responsible for the acts of his wife can still be invoked.

A St. Louis relief worker went to call on a family which had been on relief for some time, and an argument developed. Husband and wife began calling her names, and before long the wife got angry enough to sail in and start clouting her on the head.

Presently the husband and the wife were arraigned in court. The judge refused to send the wife to jail, because she had the children to look after; instead, he gave the husband a 60-day term, although the husband had not lifted his hand during the set-to.

Here is an old-but-new slant on the ancient question of husbandly responsibility which, if generally adopted, might give a good many husbands food for sober reflection.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Amid all her multifarious activities, Mrs. Roosevelt expresses concern over the conviction of Bruno Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnaping trial.

The good lady seems to be uncertain of the value that should be attached to circumstantial evidence. As the wife of the man who is the head of the law enforcement machinery of the nation, it might be well for Mrs. Roosevelt to ponder more deeply the well-tried rules that apply to circumstantial evidence. Justice Trenchard, who sat through the trial, said this in his charge:

"But the crime of murder is not one which is always committed in the presence of witnesses, and if not so committed it must be established by circumstantial evidence or not at all."

The charge of Justice Trenchard would be profitable reading for Mrs. Roosevelt.

THEY REPAIR THE HUMAN MOTOR

The human body often is spoken of as an intricate piece of machinery. Surgeons take certain sections of it apart, figuratively speaking, when the mechanism does not function efficiently, and put them together again. Sometimes they even supply new parts. But when it comes to operating on the human motor, the heart, they encounter an obstacle which is difficult to overcome. It is hard to repair any engine while it is running.

The main trouble with working on the heart is that once it stops, the chances of it resuming its function are remote. But despite this handicap, surgeons gradually are developing means which in the future may make operations on that delicate organ as certain of success as is the case with more routine operations.

At a Cleveland hospital the other day surgeons performed an apparently successful operation on a man's heart for that deadly affliction, angina pectoris. The patient is steadily gaining strength. The operation was one of the miracles of modern surgery. Yet it did not attract half the attention the public gives a "first-class murder." We humans are a strange race.

RETAIL SALES

All indices have indicated that retail sales sharply recovered in 1934. The actual increase is now shown by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce to have been $3,511,000,000, or 14 per cent, leaving 1933 to stand as the lowest in dollar sales business for the depression period. In contrast the stock and commodity market averages touched bottom in 1932.

Greatest resistance to depression influences has been offered by the variety stores, composed largely of chain organizations. Last year their dollar business recovered to 73 per cent of their 1929 total, as against 58 per cent for all retail business. Incidentally their 1933 business was greater than in 1932. Second-hand stores were second with 71 per cent and restaurants, which were helped last year by repeal, were third with 67 per cent. The country general store is among the four groups that have suffered the heaviest drop.

Such January figures as have become available to date reveal a continued improvement as compared with a year ago. We seem to be on our way. Even the capital goods industries, though still very sick, are doing better.

But so often, when he's a one-idea man, it's a one-man idea.

All Of Us

THE CITY GUY

HE WAS a few years older than we were, and the girls liked him. . . . So we didn't. We hated him. He was one of those City Guys and we weren't. And the difference between him and us ranked more than we were willing to admit.

In the first place he had such nice manners. And he was always manicuring his nails. And his dark hair had a wave in it. And he danced, too well. And he talked so glibly. And, to hear HIM talk, he'd been everywhere. . . . And besides that he had more money than we did, because he worked in the big store in our little town, and we were still going to school. . . . And also, the sneak always noticed what a girl was wearing and even knew the names of the materials that dresses are made of.

It was unfair competition, but what could we do about it?

We could hunt and fish and swim and ride our bikes all over the valley and dig clams in the bay and he couldn't do any of those things—but somehow he had GLAMOR for those silly girls and we didn't. We'd grown up with them and we knew all about them. But so did they know all about us. They'd seen us with bare feet and bloody noses and overalls on and our manners couldn't keep pace with him. So when that City Guy came to town with all his glamor and his yellow shoes and his striped shirts we didn't count any more.

It lasted for about three months, too, and there was nothing we could do. . . . Once he was showing off with his fine language at a picnic and he said that his hands were all "grimmy" and one of the guys hawhawed out loud because we all knew that you don't pronounce "grimy" that way. . . . But the girls didn't pay any attention to us and he was just as popular as ever with them. That guy had charm, that's all, even if he WAS so skinny and weak.

But finally his boss fired him because he wasn't doing his work and was running around with the girls too much. . . . So he went back to the city and we never saw him again. Guys like that get along in a city all right, but they don't get by so well in a small town. You get onto them too quick.

BOOSTING BRINGS PLEASURE IN ITSELF

What a lot of joy the purveyor of compliments and good news gets out of life!

There is considerable satisfaction in the conviction that you have passed on news of a favorable nature.

It is good to warm the heart of another and see his look of appreciation.

Of course, some never give any outward indication that they are in any way affected by favorable reports concerning themselves.

But down deep in their hearts they are glad.

It is not surprising that they are pleased to hear complimentary things.

Everyone likes to be appreciated, especially if he has made an effort to be interesting or helpful.

If those who circulate bad reports would reverse the order they might create a better feeling in their own hearts.

Certainly they would add happiness to those they contact.

It might be well to repeat a few good things you have heard to the persons particularly concerned and note the result of the experiment.

You might find yourself better pleased with yourself by boosting rather than by knocking.

Suppose you try it today.

ON READING BROWNING

One must be mentally nimble and spry,
Dear Robert Browning, to be your reader
I am reminded whenever I try
Of our boyhood game called "Follow the Leader!"

"Follow the leader!" we used to call,
And away the swiftest and boldest darted,
Leading us over the garden wall,
Swift and agile and merry-hearted.

Harder and sterner the contest grew.
Some of us soon at the hurdles stumbled.
Some were too frightened the feats to do,
Others from dangerous ledges tumbled.

Still the leader went boldly on,
Gracefully treading on beam and rafter,
And the game was ended when there was none
Remaining with courage to follow after.

Dear Old Browning, today I find
Wide is the gap between writer and reader.
Still am I faltering far behind;
I the follower, you the leader!

Correctly Speaking—

Guard against the use of commas where they are not necessary. Especially, do not put a comma between a verb and its subject.

The Hauptmann jury must have suffered. Cutting all mention of the trial from their papers doubtless spoiled a lot of the comic strips.

The World At A Glance

Morgan Eyes Future.
Where Is He Investing?
Hughes Is Responsive.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 1.—J. P. Morgan's disposal of real estate and paintings, "to put his estate into more manageable shape," may be in preparation for inflation.

People would like to know what Morgan will do with the cash.

His scouts in Washington probably have informed him that President Roosevelt has lost control of congress, and that a majority of the house, at least, is hell-bent for inflation.

But Morgan is not likely to take his money to England.

At last reports, money was in flight from England. Business has dropped in England, and there is talk of further depreciation of the pound——another "shot in the arm.'

Perhaps Morgan has some particular securities in mind that would rise or, better, that would remain safe during a period of inflation.

But his disposal of real estate is puzzling some, for real estate is supposed to appreciate during inflation. Probably Morgan foresees a still further increase in taxation, which would drive unused realty into use. The real estate which Morgan has on the market is unused. Taxes may be reaching confiscatory proportions.

Yet why should Morgan dispose of valuable paintings? Inflation probably would increase their value.

Or does Morgan believe that a social evolution will make any tangible wealth a target?

COURTS

Once more there arises within liberal circles, joined now by New Deal adherents, a suggestion for a constitutional amendment to prohibit courts, including the United States supreme court, from invalidating legislation enacted by congress.

The United States is the only country in the world in which the legislative body can be overruled by a court—particularly by a court not elected by the people.

Strict legalists may shrink at bringing courts into close contact with the mass of people, but what is the reason for law except to bring social justice? Such is the question put by liberals.

Yet many judges try to bring social justice into conformity with outworn legal practices.

HUGHES RESPONSIVE

Much has been said of the "liberalization" of Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes of the U. S. supreme court. He is not liberal so much as responsive to the social and economic evolution of the age.

A question freely asked now is: "What would have occurred if President Hoover had appointed a conservative to the supreme court bench—as he undoubtedly desired—instead of Justice Benjamin Cardozo?"

There would have been an adverse decision on the gold clause and other essential questions of the age.

And what would have been the result of that? Chaos—and perhaps worse, administrationists tell us.

The supreme court has not always been wiser than congress nor has it been as infallible as the judgment of citizens who are not so cloistered. Many students of history believe that the supreme court's Dred Scott decision brought on the Civil War.

In brief, while a judicial check is advisable, there is nothing in a lawyer that raises him in understanding and intelligence above the remainder of his fellow men. Especially is that true when it is realized virtually every federal judgeship appointment is made on a political basis, not because of the merit of the man. (There are, of course, exceptions.)

That applies even to some supreme court appointments. Presidents have a habit of "getting rid" of men by placing them on the supreme court bench. Fortunately, the last few appointments have not been of that nature.

MAKES OBSERVATIONS

Dear Editor:

Do the police expect autoists to obey traffic signals and signs, when the sign at the intersection of Atlantic avenue and West Washington street, is allowed to remain? It states, "safe detour," which means drive more than one half mile or more to get to a designated place.

The same spot can be reached by traveling only a thousand feet, with no obstructions. That may be all right for strangers, but the man about town who knows that the police department does not mean what it says, or that they do not enforce traffic laws only to the extent of about one percent. Cars park in "no parking" zones within a half square of the main street and police pass by and they stay parked for a half hour to four hours. Just now, as I write this, a car is parking in a "no parking" zone in Apple Way and it has been there for three and a half hours and may be there that many more. And a police officer is supposed to use no discrimination.

There is no day that cars are not parked, especially in Apple Way, where RWD workers and others, mostly others, park in this restricted zone, from a half hour to three hours, and block traffic. If it was some fellow walking along the street who had too many drinks, and a policeman happened along who didn't like him, you know where he would go.

From one who travels Apple Way.

SMILING THRU

Bill Fox may well be called the champion optimist. He was sitting on the roof of his house during a flood, watching the water flow past, when the neighbor who owned a boat rowed across to him.

"Hello, Bill!" said the man.

"Hello, Sam!" replied Bill, pleasantly.

"All y our fowls washed away this morning?"

"Yes, but the ducks can swim."

"Orange trees gone, too?"

"Yes, but everybody said the crop would be a failure anyhow."

"I see the river's reached above your windows, Bill."

"That's all right, Sam," was the reply. "Them windows needed washin'."

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

Today's Yesterdays—March 1, 1469—William Caxton, 46, cloth-dealer, began at Bruges, Belgium, a translation of a French edition of a classis history of Troy.

It is remembered because after he completed it, in September, the work kept a corps of copyists busy supplying manuscripts for wealthy English who were able to read and some who wanted to show evidence of culture.

After he had seen some works of Coster, Faust, Gutenburg and others, he financed a press and a font of type for one Colard Mansion and became the first English printer.

March 1, 1711—First issue of the Spectator, edited by Joseph Addison and Richard Steele, both then 39, appeared in London.

It is memorable because it was the first attempt made anywhere to instruct and amuse unlearned readers by short literary papers appearing daily and selling for pennies.

March 1, 1846—12,000 Mormons from Nauvoo and other points east followed Brigham Young carpenter, across the Mississippi and through the snow westward, leaving behind them burned and plundered houses, whipping posts and nooses that bespoke the intolerance of their neighbors for the beliefs of the sect founded by Joseph Smith.

March 1, 1867—Nebraska entered the Union as the 37th state by proclamation of President Andrew Johnson.

March 1, 1932—Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was kidnaped and murdered at Hopewell, N. J., or nearby.

That wet sand is heavier than dry sand.

When sand is dampened moderately its volume increases out of all proportion to the amount of water added. This bulking is due to a film of water which forms around the individual grains and prevents them from flowing together. If, however, sand is thoroughly saturated so that all voids are filled with water, it again approximates its original weight, measure for measure.

WE-FU-BRIDGE CLUB MEET AT CARLSON'S

Mrs. Harry Carlson, Laurel avenue, opened her home to members of the We-Fu Bridge club Thursday afternoon for a session of cards, and as a special guest they had Mrs. Lloyd Keely.

In the contest, Mrs. Allshouse of Youngstown, O., and Mrs. LeRoy Shoaff were winners of the lovely prizes. Mrs. Keely was presented with a handsome gift by the hostess.

Preceding this feature, they enjoyed a luncheon at a local tavern, the tasty menu being served at 1 o'clock. The season's tones prevailed in the appointments.

In two weeks, Mrs. Allshouse will receive the girls at her home in Youngstown on Ravenwood avenue.

G. W. C. Members Meet

A short business discussion, and a social period spent informally with fancywork and chat, marked the meeting of the G. W. C. Club members, held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. James Richards, Chestnut street.

Mrs. Emma Graham, later assisted the hostess in serving a delicious collation, bringing the afternoon to a close.

In two weeks Mrs. Robert Russell, of Chestnut street will extend hospitality to the club members at her residence.

Misses Dorothy Kay and Isabel Jones were visitors at the Re Delta Deck gathering Thursday evening, at the home of Miss Clara Bernine on Northview avenue.

An enjoyable evening was spent with cards at which Mrs. Charles Walther and Mrs. Sargent Smith won distinction. Miss Kay was awarded the guest favor. A tasty repast was served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Charles Bernine.

In a fortnight the girls will be entertained by Miss Louise Davies, of Garfield avenue.

Civic Theatre Guild Scores Fine Success

Presents Play, "Ladies Of The Jury," To Large Crowd Thursday

LARGE CAST DOES EXCEPTIONAL WORK

Twelve good men and true, six of them were women, returned a verdict of mirth in the first degree Thursday night in the Senior High School auditorium when "Ladies of the Jury" was presented by the players of the New Castle Civic Theatre Guild. Filled with chuckles, more especially as to the first and third acts, the play provided a humorous vehicle for the talents of twenty local players, all of whom were cast with rather unusual care.

The play concerns the trial of one Mrs. Gordon, formerly Yvette Yvet, a French actress who has been accused of the murder of her broker husband, Romney Gordon. Unlike the usual run of mine plays about a murder, this one leaves the horrific details of the crime to the imagination and concerns the presentation of the case to the jury in the first act, and the deliberations of the jury in the second and third acts. In those deliberations the audience got a closeup view of an average American jury dispensing justice, and back of the laughs was the stark fact that too many juries dispense justice in the same manner. For verification check the list of acquittals in Lawrence County in the past fifteen years.

Sparkling Dialogue

The play is replete in sparkling dialogue, built around the efforts of Mrs. Crane a lorgnette tosser who believes Mrs. Gordon innocent. The other eleven believe her guilty and the strategy of Mrs. Crane in winning the eleven over to her side provides as pleasant an evening's entertainment as we've had here for some time.

The fat part, that of Mrs. Crane went to Mrs. John McIlwraith, who once again demonstrated a rather amazing agility in her presentation of the part. The author, Fred Ballard, has written into his part enough lines for several parts but Mrs. McIlwraith was on top of her role throughout. It called for poise, austerity, and a practical lesson in applied psychology, all of which she had.

As to the other parts, 23 in all, each of them deserves something in the way of attention but lack of space prevents this. One recalls with amusement the puritanical part of Lily Pratt taken by Evelyn Pearson, or Mayme Mixter, taken by Jerry Haines. The righteous indignation of Jay J. Pressley, taken by Dudley Arnold calls for something more than just a word, as did Steve Bromm, taken by Thomas Cunningham, or Evelyn Snow, taken by Miss Betty Glover. The Irish character of Mrs. Maguire taken by Mettie Round or that of the judge and the attorneys all had their moments and the moments were entertaining. And along this line a word for the policeman Art Dobbs, taken by Fred Hodd.

All Of Them Good

If you don't mind we'll just classify all of them as unusually good and let it go at that. What the Civic Theatre Guild players did, in addition to providing an evening's entertainment was to justify the existence of a theatre group here. With the talent in the cast, and other talent available, New Castle has every right to expect a theatre group to prosper here and as long as they produce such amusing extentaining plays as "Ladies of the Jury" they can be very sure of box office encouragement by the citizenry.

The play was sponsored by the Trinity church and the work of the sponsors was rewarded by a full house. What the audience thought of the play was evidenced by its applause and the recurrence of those laughs which originate in the diaphragm and work up.

The cast of characters and the committee in charge follows:

Parkers Landing Hopes For Thaw

(International News Service)

PARKERS LANDING, Pa., Mar. 1.—Flood-fearful residents and industrialists looked hopefully today for warm sunlight to provide a gradual liberation of the ice-locked Allegheny valley before more rain endangers this community.

Although high water already has invaded some buildings, the Allegheny river was falling slowly, a drop of 1.2 feet being registered since yesterday.

Barring additional rain, it was said enough water might pass through the small opening in the ice pack to relieve the threatened district. Parkers' water works was out of commission, engines being hoisted from flooded pit-blocks.

Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman, at Pittsburgh, said the outlook was "favorable," although the district was still in danger should rain suddenly strike, the upper valley.

Earle Attacks Legislators For Being So Slow

Failure To Enact Unemployment Relief Brings Censure From Governor

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 1.—Sharp criticism of the state legislature for failure to enact his unemployment relief measures was voiced today by Gov. George H. Earle, who warned that 86,000 families in Pennsylvania are confronted with the threat of reduction or loss of aid from the state after March 15.

With LWD work curtailment throwing thousands out of their relief jobs today despite an additional $9,000,000 grant to the state by the federal government, the governor at his suburban Haverford home roundly flayed the legislature for failure to act speedily, venting his wrath particularly on the state senate.

Declaring that the $9,000,000 federal grant will be sufficient to last only until about March 13 or 15, the executive said:

"After that the situation will be the same as before."

Your Sympathy

Words say so little when the Grim Reaper strikes. Our emotions are incapable of expression and in our stumbling, human way we endeavor to solace the bereaved. Try as we will, words are still inadequate. Not even flowers can express our emotion to the full but at least they are the most expressive medium we know. And when the flowers are arranged—tastefully and delivered fresh, their sympathy seems to be accentuated.

Guffey Coal Bill Severely Scored

West Virginia Coal Operator Attacks Guffey Bill In Washington

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—J. D. Francis, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., of Huntington, W. Va., today scored the Guffey coal bill before a sub-committee of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Francis, one of the largest coal operators in West Virginia, told the committee that the bill declaring the bituminous coal industry a public utility is too complicated for practical application.

He said he was in favor of federal legislation for stabilization of the industry but that it must be "reasonable and workable."

Francis predicted that if the bill is passed in its present form it will be taken to the courts and thrown out.

"It is impossible to classify the bituminous coal industry as a public utility," he said, "and I believe that if the bill should be taken before the courts it would be found unconstitutional because of this."

TWO PLAYLETS ARE PRESENTED

Young People Of Central Presbyterian Church In Clever Program

At the Central Presbyterian church on the public square on Thursday evening a large crowd was entertained by the presentation of two playlets, and a musical program, in a most successful manner. The young people of the church were in charge of the affair, and following the auditorium program a tea party was of interest, in the church parlors.

In addition to the playlets, the Sunday school orchestra contributed a number of selections and a trumpet solo was well played by Alfred Sadler, Jr., accompanied by his father on the piano.

Those sharing the cast for the playlets were accorded abundant praise by the audience for the clever work displayed, and the skillful interpretation of the various roles. Under direction of Mrs. George W. Conway, the following cast of characters appeared in the playlets:

Lavendar and Red Pepper.

Louisa Robbins, grandma—Bernice Forrest.

Agnes—June Campbell.

Cynthia—Mabel Kegarise.

Minnie, the maid—Betty Anderson.

Susan Perkins—Mrs. Gladys Shellenberger.

Etta Brown—Mrs. Ruth Stoner.

Lizzie Jones—Margar t Campbell.

Mamie Gilchrist—Mary E. Jenkins.

The Florist Shop.

Maude—Geraldine Fry.

Miss Wells—Ruth Forrest.

Slovsky—Martha Swisher.

Mr. Jackson—John Thompson.

Henry—Omar Donaldson.

SHE FELT MARVELOUS WHEN HABITS BECAME REGULAR

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Relieved Her Constipation*

Read this splendid letter: "I tried everything, with little or no results. I felt miserable, was 20 but looked much older, and my skin was continually breaking out.

"I decided to try ALL-BRAN, three meals a day for about a week. Elimination became regular; I felt marvelous and looked better. Even my outlook on life was changed."—Mrs. Armand Hamel, Pawling, N.Y.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. More effective than "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Much more effective than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Cubbing" Essay Continued Today

"Cubbing And Cub Pack" Is Article's Title; Cole Wrote It

EDITOR'S NOTE: Judges chose this essay of Scout Robert Cole, Troop V-37, as the winner in a contest. The third installment is presented today.

"CUBBING AND THE CUB PACK"

Installment No. 3

Tuesday night a crowd of boys were on time eager to join. When all the boys had arrived Mr. Reilly, the newly chosen cub master, entered the room and began addressing the boys: "Boys, we have a plan that we think will please you. Most boys your age would like to be in scouts but are too young, so we are starting a club that we call cubs. We have meetings each week; we play games, pass tests, have contests and have a good time together. The pack is divided into dens and each one of these boys or rather scouts, is in charge of a den and they help you in your tests. In the den will be a denner which will be one of you boys. You will help your den chief and be the leader in your den. Each week the dens can have a meeting in the back yards of the different clubs' homes; your den can meet in a tent or a garage or any place that you want to, just as long as you meet near your homes. There are different ranks to pass then if you pass them, on your twelfth birthday you will be admitted into the scout troop as a tenderfoot scout.

If you bring 20 cents to the next meeting I will sell you a handbook to tell you what to do for the different tests. Then you can get started right away on your tests. Besides meetings in the building we will have wiener roasts, picnics and maybe some hikes.

"Well, I guess that is all that I have to say now so you can go home now but don't forget to come back next week at this same time."

There was happiness in the Winston family because they had solved the problem about Junior.

About noon time Junior came running in trying to tell his dad something that seemed important, and at the same time trying to get his breath from running.

"Now, Junior, take your time and get your breath, then tell me your story."

After Junior had quieted down somewhat, he said: "We have just had a den meeting and I passed my Bob-Cat test and that means that I am a full fledged cub and now I can wear a badge and uniform.

"What did you have to do to obtain that rank," asked Mrs. Winston.

"First, I had to give the cub promise, which is:

"I, John Winston, promise to do my best to be square and to obey the law of the cub pack."

Then I had to give the law of the cub pack:

The cub follows Akela,
The cub helps the pack go;
The pack helps the cub grow,
The cub gives good will.

Next came the motto:

"Do your best."

Then I had to give the cub salute and handshake:

"In giving the cub laws you said something about Akela—who is Akela?" asked Mr. Winston.

"Akela is what we call our cub master," replied Junior.

"What is your next rank?" questioned Mrs. Winston.

"Wolf," was the reply.

"When you each that rank I will get you a cub uniform complete," added Mr. Winston.

"Hot dog," shouted Junior as he ran out the door.

HE-MAN

He was shy and retiring and had waited half an hour at the gate of Mary's home, hoping she would come out. Suddenly the door swung open and a formidable looking woman emerged.

"What are you waiting for?" she snapped.

"For—for-Mary," he stammered.

"Then you'd better clear out," came the reply. "You're not the sort of man we want for her. Why, when her father was courting me and I didn't turn up he climbed the garden wall, strangled the watchdog, forced a window, locked my father in his room, put the ring on my finger, and told me we would be married that evening. That's the kind of a man for Mary!"

STAMP NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE

BY JOHNRAE EARL, SEC. NEW CASTLE STAMP CLUB.

This week the stamp world is humming with news. To start with a bill has been proposed to liberalize the present laws governing the illustrations of United States stamps in our American catalogs and albums. It was presented during this present session but so far has suffered delay. At the present time only a portion of the framework of U. S. stamps can be illustrated. This proposed law has the endorsement of all philatelic societies and collectors and its passage would mean much to all U. S. collectors.

Most Valuable Stamp Offered

Next it has been called to my attention by Donald Copson, local teacher that the most valuable stamp in the world is going to be placed on the auction block in London this June. This will be a good chance for some collector to complete his collection of British stamps or stamps bearing pictures of ships. This stamp would fit in either collection because it was issued for British Guiana in 1856 and bears the picture of an old three masted sailing boat. In order to secure this you will have to outbid the King of England who is interested in it. The person who now owns it has it insured for $48,000, and that will give you a fair idea of the value of the stamp. This doesn't happen to be the first stamp issued however, but it does happen that the first stamp was also issued by Great Britain in 1840. The highest value stamp ever issued was by Germany for fifty million marks, this was issued during their period for inflation and is practically worthless at present.

The National Society of American Art has suggested to Postmaster General Farley that a selection of the five finest paintings completed during 1934 by American Artists to be used as subjects for five United States postage stamps. The paintings to be exhibited for 60 days in the galleries of the society and the five best to be selected by a commission of judges appointed by President Roosevelt. This has just been suggested but my opinion is that it will never be accepted.

The Silver Jubilee Stamps to be issued in honor of King Georges' reign will make their appearance on May 6, the twenty-fifty anniversary of his ascension to the throne. There will be 172 different stamps in this series and they will be used by 43 British Colonies. At the end of the year, all unsold stamps will be taken from circulation and destroyed.

Increase In Business

During 1934 a rise of nearly 100 per cent was announced by the Philatelic Agency over the previous year. The total amount of business for the calender year of 1934 was $910,781 while the receipts for 1933 showed $500,212.

Design Refused

The Connecticut Tercentenary stamp which is supposed to appear this year is going to be delayed for some time. The design selected by the Tercenterary Art Commission showing a protrait of Jonathan Trumbull has been disapproved by President Roosevelt. He feels that a more appropriate design would be better. The Art Commission has appointed an artist to work out a design. It has been suggested that it be a large size stamp and show a map. The artist appointed is drawing several designs, all maps. The best will be sent in to the Post-office Department.

Farley's Follies

Well, we can't forget Farley's error, because it is one of the biggest questions now confronting the stamp world. The stamps which I listed last week are authentic and will be issued on March 15 at the Philatelic Agency at Washington. The members of the New Castle Stamp Club are making plans to purchase these stamps all in one order and therefore save postage, time and worry. President Glen Montgomery will accept all orders for the stamps. The Postoffice Department is going to handle the official first day covers, and they can be secured by addressing the Department at Washington.

Cover collectors are now endeavoring to secure a complete collection of all Macon covers which of course will be increased in value since the ill-fated accident.

National B. P. W. President, Coming Here, Busy Woman

Mrs. Geline Bowman Runs Home And Business Firm With Success

To many women keeping a home and a business running successfully at the same time seems an almost impossible task. Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, Va., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who is coming to New Castle next Tuesday, constitutes a shining example to the 60,000 members of the organization as to how it may be done.

Mrs. Bowman is able to manage efficiently the affairs of the Expert Letter Writing Corporation, of which she is president, keep her charming home in Westover Hills section of Richmond attractive and livable, and supervise the education of her twin children, Geline and Killian.

Mrs. Bowman's success in the business and professional world is the more remarkable in that she made her advent with practically no business training . Her conspicuous success as a volunteer war worker, selling Liberty Bonds and War Savings stamps, attracted the attention of Col. Thomas B. McAdams, who was vice president of the Merchant's National Bank and later president of the American Bankers' Association. When the war was over he offered her an opportunity to organize a women's department in his bank. This led into a great many business activities. In spite of the magnitude of her enterprises Mrs. Bowman has always found time to take part in civic and philanthropic affairs.

She will be the guest speaker at the annual public relations banquet of the local B. P. W. in The Castleton Tuesday, and will be heard by several hundred prominent club women from this and surrounding cities.

MOURNFUL TASK

A traveling circus had arrived at a small village and the local gossip-carrier hastened out to look thinks over. He found three circus hands sitting in dejected silence.

"What's wrong?" asked the villager.

"The elephant is dead," was the reply.

"I'm sorry, but I'm glad to see you men thought so much of a dumb animal," the villager continued.

"It ain't that," retorted one of the three. "You see, we chaps has got to dig the hole to bury him."

If you wish to keep dresses of chiffon, georgette or other filmy textures from slipping off the clothes hangers, wind rubber bands around each end of the hanger.

NEW HONEY KRUSHED BREAD BAKED BY ORR BAKING CO. RELIEVES CONSTIPATION

Many Report Marvelous Results From Switching To New Cellophane Wrapped Honey Krushed Bread.

Several customers who have eaten the new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread for the last week, report that constipation has been greatly relieved and in many cases eliminated.

The pleasing combination of crushed whole wheat kernels, pure honey and other ingredients, blended by a secret process gives your diet the necessary roughage thereby eliminating dosing with drugs and purges.

Orr's Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control elimination. This process of nature clears the intestines and gives new strength and energy. Furthermore, the perfect blending of pure honey, the extra coating of crushed wheat on the outer crust, gives delicious, appetizing flavor.

Baked twice daily and rushed fresh from the ovens, your family will love this rich, wheaty, wholesome bread. And if any member has been troubled by the most common of all American ailments—constipation—quick relief can easily be obtained with Honey Krushed Wheat Bread.

Make This Ten-Day Test.

Hosts of morbid, tired and discouraged men and women are amazed at this new easy way to regulate the bowels. Give it a ten-day trial. After the third or fourth day you will begin to feel more peppy, your bowels will begin to move regularly and you will enjoy life once more.

Honey Krushed Wheat Bread gets right down to the cause of constipation and supplies the needed relief in a natural way. First, its rich, nutty flavor makes it doubly appetizing and second, the crushed whole wheat kernels and pure honey sweetening are easily assimilated. They nourish the digestive glands. They produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches. These normally keep you healthy, but if allowed to clog and retard the natural process of elimination, stoppage occurs, headaches and ill-health follows. Constipation is the most prevalent complaint in this country. Honey Krushed Wheat Bread relieves this easily and quickly.

Be sure you get Orr's Honey Krushed Wheat Bread. Look for the extra outer coating of crushed wheat on the crust.

Senate Seems To Have Whip Hand At Harrisburg

Power Of Republican Majority Is Shown In Attempt To Oust McClure

DIVERGENT FORCES SEEN IN TWO HOUSES

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 1—By standing together as a unit in rejecting the Prince resolution asking for the resignation of Sen. John J. McClure, Republican senators demonstrated a solidarity that bodes evil for Gov. George H. Earle's legislative program.

After the vote was recorded, the Senate loomed greater than ever before as an insurmountable hurdle for many of the governor's bills, especially his constitutional revision and tax programs. The one-sided vote upholding McClure quickly squelched any plans the Earle administration may have nursed to open a fight to release its constitution bil from committee.

Fully aware it was completely in command of the situation, the rugged Republican majority in the upper chamber refused to be stampeded by last minute pressure from liberal quarters on the party demanding action against McClure. So strong was the Republican line that not even state chairman H. Harvey Taylor was able to dent it. Weeks ago he abandoned his efforts to win the Republican solons over to his own private plan to compromise the situation. Knowing beforehand what the result would be, Taylor did not even attend the history making session.

The vote in the McClure case served to emphasize that no matter how much success Governor Earle may enjoy in sending his program through the Democratic house he will in the final analysis be forced to face the Republican majority in the Senate. Just as the house holds the power of life and death over Republican measures introduced in senate so does the upper chamber hold the same power over Democratic measures sent up from the house.

The impact of two such divergent forces as the Republican senate and the Democratic house may result in legislation by compromise. Each may be willing to concede certain points to the other in order to pass some legislation. If that occurs, Governor Earle will be forced to scrap certain sections of his program while the Republicans, although badly defeated in the last election will at least have a chance to enact some of their platform measures.

If as an unexpected extreme the two legislative majorities refuse to adopt conciliatory attitudes there may be no legislation at all for months until stubbornness distinegrates under the necessity for compromise to prevent a breakdown in the state government.

The Earle administration for the moment has the upper hand in the legislature. The governor has released his labor, social welfare, constitutional and tax bills to a friendly majority in the house which has thus far assented to his bidding with only a minimum of prodding from party leaders. When his bills reach the Senate the Republicans will have a strong bargaining point in their hands and they will not hesitate to use it.

By being in a position to delay action in the senate on administration measures, the Republicans expect to be able to force the Democratic house committees to disgorge the hundreds of Republican bills now gathering dust there. Democrats entertain the same hopes about their bills "pickled" in the G. O. P. senate. Both Republicans and Democrats admit the situation calls for the political skill of a Matthew Quay or a Boies Penrose.

Why Stars Aren't Likely To Collide

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON,—"It has been estimated that the space around us that is unoccupied by stars is 100 million, million, million times as times as great as that which the stars themselves occupy".

Thus did Dr. R. F. Sanford, Carnegie Institution astronomer, describe the emptiness of the space in which our tiny universe endlessly whirls.

Provisional measurments made at Mt. Wilson observatory indicate that our galaxy of stars has a diameter of about 1,000,000 light years. A light year is the amount of space covered by a light beam in one year of travel at the rate of about 136,000 miles a second.

Discarding the theory that some day another heavenly body might come crashing into our sun, the astronomer said the possibility was remote. If our stars were represented by little spheres one-eighth of an inch in diameter, they would have to be placed four miles apart to give a true picture of the relative distance between stars.

SAAR REFUGEES IN ARMY

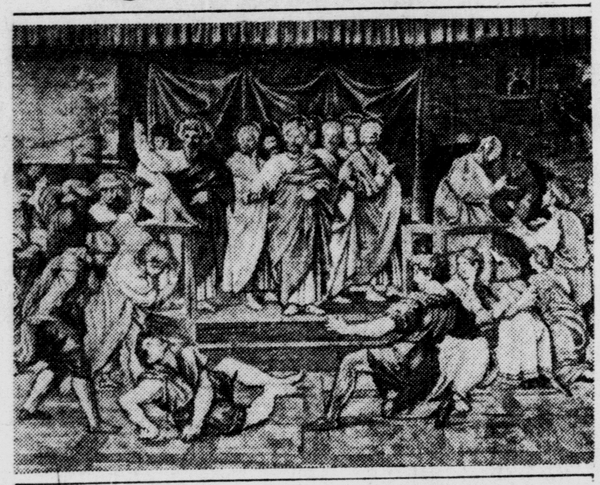
(International News Service)

PARIS—France is losing no time in making soldiers of the Saar refugees who are willing to join the army. Of the thousands of former Saarlanders who have come to France since the plebiscite no effort is being spared to induce the men who are not too old to serve, to bear arms for La Belle France.

"Peter Unmasks Falsehood And Hypocrisy"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text



Eph. 4:25—"Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 3 is Acts 5:1-42: 8:4-25, especially 5:1-6: 8:18-24, the Golden Text being Eph. 4:25, "Wherefore putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another.)

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Our first story regarding Ananias and Sapphira has its background in the beautiful Christian communism of the early Christian communion wherein "the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul: and not one of them said that aught of the things which he possessed was his own, but they had all things common.....For neither was there among them any that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold, and laid them at the apostle's feet, and distribution was made unto each, according as any one had need."

Christian Communism

But this communism of material things sprang from a common faith and love "one heart and soul. Communism apart from such unity of faith or based upon atheistic unbelief is something entirely different, a thing as fruitful of curse as the Christian communism of the early church was fruitful of blessing.

God's Flaming Sword

When Ananias and Sapphira pretended to practice complete community of goods with the church, but at the same time held back part of their money is lying deceitfulness they imperiled the purity of the church and God's flaming sword of judgement flashed in judgement to preserve the pure fellowship from defilement. It was not Peter's judgment that smote the liars dead for their falsehood, hypocricy and blasphemy against God the Holy Spirit: "'Peter said, Ananias why hath Satan filled thy heart to lie to the Holy Spirit? Thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God." It was the first recorded case of church discipline. That it effected a wholesome purpose is evident in the reverence it inspired in the church as "great fear came upon the whole church," also in the respect it inspired from believers, "of the rest durst no man join himself to them." and in the effect it had upon sincere and believing folk as "believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women." But this addition came only after some necessary subtraction. The growth followed the spiritual surgery that removed the cancer that soon would have defiled the whole body of Christ. In the light of this story dare we sing, "Take my silver and my gold: not a mite would I withhold?" Christ condemned no sin more severely or more frequently than the sin of hypocrisy the pretending to give what was being withheld. He who is the truth hates a lie whether spoken or acted.

Commercializing Religion

Our second story suggests the peril of attempting to commercialize religion as Simon the sorcerer did when he sought to buy from Peter the power to bestow the Holy Spirit through his hands: "Thy silver perish with thee, because thou hast thought to obtain the gift of God with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right before God." Thus Peter rebuked the sin we call "simony," of bartering in spiritual things and peddling the grace of God for a price. It is the very "gall of bitterness and bond of iniquity."

"TROUBLES NEVER SINGLY"

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Mass.—Edward Gontarze, 14, and his brother Alec, 8, had the three fingers of their right hand blown off within an hour of each other. Edward lost his fingers when an axe slipped while chopping wood. Alex joined his brother at Symmes hospital in Arlington after placing dynamite caps on the stove.

His Dog's Digging Saves Man's Life

(International News Service)

VICTORIA, B. C. — A mongrel dog, which tagged on to a friendly laborer doing heavy work at the B. C. Nickel Company's development in the mountains near Choate, is a life-saving hero now.

His master was trapped in a snow slide that swept over a power house. The dog was inside the building and escaped injury. Nearest persons at the time were four miles away.

Instinctively the dog began tunneling and finally opened a hole to the trapped laborer, who was revived by the air.

The condition of the man and the amount of digging done by the dog caused rescuers to estimate he had been buried about an hour before the tunneling animal reached him.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

POULTRY MEETINGS

Lawrence county poultrymen will be interested in two meetings for the discussion of poultry problems which will be held in the county next week.

The first of these meetings will be held at the home of Charles McClain, North Beaver township, Tuesday evening, March 5, at 8:15 o'clock. At this meeting H. H. Kauffman from State college will discuss "The Early Care of Chicks."

The second meeting will be held in the Fireman's hall in New Wilmington, Wednesday morning, Mar. 6, at 9:30. Mr. Kauffman will discuss feeding and housing problems in addition to questions pertaining to the brooding of the young chicks.

All poultrymen are invited to attend either of these meetings.

DAIRY MEETINGS

R. H. Olmstead, dairy specialist from State college will discuss Bang's Disease of Cattle at three meetings in the county, March 7 and 8.

The first of these meetings will be held in the Scott Township school building in Harlansburg Thursday morning, March 7, at 10:00 o'clock. There will be two meetings on Friday, March 8. The first one will be at the home of E. P. Rader, Little Beaver township at 9:30 a. m., and the second in Pulaski township at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The place of this meeting will be announced later.

On Thursday afternoon, March 7, at 2:00 o'clock, Mr. Olmstead will discuss "Dairy Feeding Problems" at a meeting on the farm of John Eppinger, Plain Grove township. Interested dairymen are invited to attend the meeting.

HATCH CHICKS EARLY TO AVOID TROUBLES

Chicks brooded as early as March or April are less likely to become infested with worms or infected with coccidiosis than those hatched later. Warmth and moisture in May and June provide favorable conditions for common chick troubles.

Since the Grow Healthy Pullet program was started in Pennsylvania, summaries each year show that co-operators lose, on the average, fewer chicks hatched prior to May 1 than of those hatched after that date. Last year there was a loss of 2.35 per cent less with early chicks.

Another advantage with early hatched pullets is that they start to lay as early as October 1. As a result, they produce reasonably good sized eggs during the period of higher prices and are likely to be more profitable than those hatched later.

A good chick is free from pullorum disease or bacillary white diarrhea, is well bred, from parent stock well fed and managed, and is well hatched. Good parent stock is that capable of laying 160 eggs or more a year per bird and these eggs should be of a definitely established large size, 24 ounces or more per dozen.

In considering the source of chicks it is important to obtain them from someone who has the reputation for hatching chicks that live, grow well, and develop into profitable layers. A practical test of the presence of pullorum disease is the number of chicks lost during the first three weeks. Losses should not exceed 10 per cent during the entire growing period.

Co-operators who followed all the steps of the Grow Healthy Pullet program in 1934 lost only 6.13 per cent from hatching time until the chicks were placed in the laying house.

BOUQUETS HELP APPLE TREES TO SET FRUIT

Bouquets of apple blossoms are not only beautiful but useful. Under some conditions such bouquets properly placed in the trees at blossom time may distinctly increase the production of the trees. The value of the bouquet lies in the pollen which is borne by its flowers.

Several grains of pollen must be put on the pistil of each flower in order for that flower to develop into an apple. Practically all varieties of apples set fruit more readily with pollen of a different variety than with their own pollen. A flower will not set fruit more readily with pollen from another tree of the same variety than with its own pollen.

Some varieties like Winesap, Delicious and Stayman, will often set practically no fruit when supplied with only pollen of the same variety but will fruit abundantly when supplied with pollen of a good pollenizing variety, such as Gano, Jonathan, or Grimes. Not all varieties are good pollenizers for other sorts. Winesap, Black Twig (Paragon), and Stayman are notably poor in this respect.

In commercial plantings consisting of large acreages and a few varieties, it has often happened that the choice and arrangement of varieties, has been such that adequate and effective cross-pollination is impossible. Such plantings have been unproductive even when given the best of care. Though the problem may be eventually solved by top-grafting part of the trees to suitable varieties, the grower must wait from 3 to 5 years before these grafts will bear sufficient pollen.

It is at this point that the bouquet of apple blossoms fits into the picture. A bouquet of about six branches, each about one-half inch in diameter secured in a pail of water near the top of the tree will usually supply enough pollen to give a set on that tree and help its neighbors somewhat. Two or more bouquets are sometimes used in large trees. At least every third tree in every third row should receive bouquets.

Demonstration in Pennsylvania during the last four years have proved that this procedure is entirely practical where inadequate cross-pollination has been responsible for low yields. The use of bouquets is discontinued of course, after the grafts have begun to furnish sufficient pollen.

It is important for growers to lay their plans now if they expect to carry out any of this type of work next spring. Trees of desirable varieties for use as bouquets should be left unpruned at this time so that a generous supply of bouquets may be cut from them at blossom time. Among the commercial varieties in Pennsylvania, the following are considered most desirable as pollenizers, though the choice within this group would depend upon the variety to be pollenized: Grimes, Jonathan, Delicious, Ben Davis, Gano, McIntosh, Wealth, Northern Spy, Corland, Golden Delicious, Dutchess, Rome Yellow Transparent, Famuse, Wagener and York.

A poor set of fruit may be caused by improper spraying, insufficient soil fertility, spring frosts, and a host of other factors. Provision for proper cross-pollination is in no sense a cure-all. However, it offers insurance against one cause of low yields.

USE SURPLUS MILK TO MAKE CHEESE AT HOME

American cheddar cheese can be made at home from surplus milk.

Equipment for the home manufacturer is simple and except for two or three items will be found on practically any farm. It consists of a wash boiler, a long-handled spoon, a long-bladed knife, a wire egg-beater of the spoon type, an iron pipe about a foot long, a thermometer which will register from 50 to 110 degrees, a flour or sugar sack about 3 by 2 feet, a yard of cheesecloth, cheese color tablets, salt, rennet cheese tablets, paraffin, and some type of press for pressing out the whey, preferably a common lard press.

Directions for making home-made cheese can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office, Room 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

SPRING CLOTHING HAS INTERESTING FEATURES

Dark blue appears each spring as regularly as the season itself. Accustomed as we are to it, it is always welcome, says Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative. There is something cool and refreshing about this color, following the blacks and warm browns and reds of the winter wardrobe.

Surfaces of the spring woolens and silks are of great interest. The woolens have a lacy weave or, if woven more firmly, have little knots or nubs to give a rough surface. They are ligh.weight, of course, and colorful, giving a fresh accent to the winter costume as well as being suitable for wear later without a coat.

Crepes of silk or of synthetic materials are also rough of surface, having either a crinkled or a blistered surface. Some give the appearance of being shirred. When the material itself is so interesting, dresses themselves are simple in design, Miss Drury explains.

Trimming touches, such as scarfs, collars, cuffs, belts and fastenings are very interesting. Dyed lace is used for scarfs, bows, flowers and even handkerchiefs.

There is no end to the variety of buttons and, in addition, hooks, chains, loops, clothes pins, and cords offer something new, according to Miss Eleanor Drury. A cotton dress might have the belt fastened with two very large buttons, each of a different color.

JUST LIKE TRAVELING AROUND IN CIRCLE

BRIDGEPORT, O., Mar. 1—An autoist who drove all day, much of the way over snowcovered roads, knows that the right turn may be the wrong one. Starting from Wheeling via the road on the West Virginia side of the Ohio river, he crossed at Marietta to go to Belpre, O. There he turned right instead of left and drove north. Arriving at Bridgeport he asked the distance to Huntington and found he had traveled 200 miles to land just across the river from his starting point.

Former Grocer Is Given Sentence To Federal Prison

Defrauder Given 15 Years And Fined $10,000 By Judge In Milwaukee, Wis.

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 1—Elmers Huckins, 68, formerly a county grocer at Pittsville, Wis., was found guilty by a federal court jury here on 14 counts of using the mails to defraud.

Judge F. A. Geiger sentenced Huckins to 15 years imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined him $10.000. His attorneys, after a new trial was denied, announced they would appeal to the circuit court of appeals at Chicago.

The verdict was the climax to Huckins' mythical cigar business in which he obtained more than two million dollars before it collapsed in September, 1929.

Operating along lines similar to those of Charles Ponzi of Boston, Huckins paid investors interest ranging from 26 to 52 per cent in what he claimed were transactions in "throwouts" or discarded cigars. Investors throughout the country were attracted.

On Court House Hill

Prothonotary R. M. Campbell announces that the last d y for filing praecipes for the trial l'st for the April term of common pleas court will be on Monday, March 4.

A writ of certiorari has been issued on Alderman James C. Brice in the case of Charles French against Irwin Abrams, which was tried before the alderman.

County Treasurer William O. Pitts reports that there is very little money coming into the county treasury, except the payment in back taxes on properties on which the Home Owners Loan corporation is placing mortgages, and they are few in number compared to several months ago. The county is now operating on borrowed money.

Two big trucks, laden with eggs and chickens, on their way from Indiana to eastern markets, caused a discussion among visitors to the county commissioners' office this morning as to the temperature at which eggs freeze. Some were of the opinion that eggs will freeze at 32 degrees and other were of the opinion that they would not freeze until the mercury got down around zero. The question is still unsettled.

Sarah Fairchild of Jeannette, Pa., presented a petition in court asking the right to convey the interest of John and Lucille Williamson, minors, in property in the third ward, without the appointment of a guardian, under the act of May 25, 1933. The property, which belonged to the late Sarah E. Hess of the third ward, can be sold to Joseph Gigliardo for $1200. All of the adult heirs are agreed. The minors, who are making their home with Mrs. Fairchild, have such a small interest that the appointment of a guardian would be an unnecessary expense. Judge James A. Chambers, before whom the petition was presented, granted it and authorized the deed to Gigliardo to be made.

In the matter of laying out a road in Shenango township, being an extension of Wilson avenue, on which Attorney Roy Mercer, Albert P. Treser and Joseph Hannon were appointed viewers, a petition was presented in court today setting forth that Albert P. Treser is in Charlestown, W. Va., and likely to be there for some time. It was asked that another viewer be appointed to take his place. Judge Chambers appointed Alexander Main.

Upon petitions of the Peoples Saving & Trust company, presented in court today, the resignation of the company as guardian of a number of minors was accepted, it being shown that Clare C. Duff had been appointed to take over the guardianships, and had duly qualified.

In each case the Peoples Savings & Trust company had filed final accounts. Account in the case of Margaret Shcweikert showed a balance in cash of $70.24, and mortgages totaling $1,770.24. Florence Piccari, balance due estate of $46.31. Matilda Balog, balance in cash $119.03 and a mortgage of $1,600, making a total of $1,719.03. John Bordash, no cash, but thee mortgages totaling $1,830. Paul Bordash, $63.46 cash and mortgages, $1,813.46. Anna Bordash, cash $15.42, and mortgages totaling $1,815.42. Anna Klajnicka, balance due estate, $363.82. Charles Mayette, balance due estate, $876.88. John Mayette, balance, cash, $1,-094.88. Maria Antoria Piccari, balance due estate, $82.60.

Letters of administration in the estate of Pasquale Volpe, late of the fifth ward, have been granted by the register and recorder to Adelina Volpe.

Letters testamentary in the estate of Stanley Serwatka, late of the fifth ward, have been granted to Mrs. Anna Pilch and Mrs. Frances Sokevitz.

Charles Morrow of Wampum was a visitor at the county commissioners' office yesterday.

SAAR VALLEY AGAIN BECOMES PART OF GERMANY

Celebration Is Being Staged

All Germany Joins In Rejoicing As Formal Change Occurs

EXPECT HITLER TO JOIN FESTIVITIES

(International News Service)

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, March 1. — Amid unparalleled scenes of triumphant rejoicing throughout the Reich, the rich industrial valley of the Saar became part of Germany again today for the first time since the World War.

Half a million Nazis poured into the Saar to help its 800,000 residents celebrate, and all Germany joined with flying of flags, noise-making, and toasting in beer and Saar wine from last midnight throughout the day.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the Saar committee of the League of Nations, formally overturned the territory's authority to Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Reich minister of the interior. Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was expected later in the day personally to lead the festivities.

Important Step

Before the flag of the third Reich was raised over the Saarbruecken town hall, Dr. Frick, pointing his remarks to the members of the league commission, reiterated in a nationwide broadcast the peaceful utterances of Hitler when the Saar, by a 9 to 1 vote, elected to return to Germany.

"The return of the Saar marks the liquidation of the European policy of the Reich," said Dr. Frick.

"The Saar problem no longer burdens the relations between these two neighboring nations (France and Germany.)

"Germany is convinced that return of the Saar is an important step towards improvement of the general political situation in Europe."

The statement of the minister of the interior after the Nazi flag flew once more over the Saar, however, had a note of warning in it. Addressing the Saarlanders, he said:

"The hour of liberation has struck, announcing to the world that the thousand-year-old German Saar has returned to the Fatherland.

"We want to be free like our forefathers.

"Never again shall we permit German territory to be torn from us by force."

Mr. Morgan Sells.

Diet For Triplets.

Never Milk With Meat.

They Killed The Lepers.

By ARTHUP BRISBANE

J. PIERPONT MORGAN, able son of an able father, proves to younger men in his office that if you understand salesmanship you can sell even in a depression.

Five paintings for $1,500,000 is good salesmanship; $15,000 an acre for country real estate on Long Island is a good price, and no doubt Mr. Morgan will get it, for the land that he has put on the market, right at the edge of the water, is good real estate.

The latest news is that Mr. Morgan ordered valuable old miniatures, small paintings on ivory, sold at auction in London; expected price about $1,000,000.

BUSINESS MEN, who have not been able to sell much of anything for several years, contemplate Mr. Morgan's salesmanship respectfully, and wondering, ask themselves WHY and HOW. The reasons for the selling interest many.

EVERYBODY knows that Mr. Morgan is not in need of money. That does not happen in his family.

Business asks:

"Does Mr. Morgan think the world is coming to an end?"

Surely not.

"Does he take Senator Huey Long and his 'share the wealth' program seriously?"

Senator Long would hardly insist on sharing old paintings, ancient miniatures, Long Island north shore real estate. Such things are not "wealth" in the Senator's opinion. He would call them "truck."

Does Mr. Morgan feel that in these doubtful days of uncertainty the wise man should have his wealth in cash, easily moved, easily hidden?

Hardly, for who knows what the CASH will be worth next week or next year. Real estate and miniatures will always be worth something.

Would Mr. Morgan change his money into gold in some foreign country where gold can still be bought? That might be a good idea, but what about "no interest on the money?"

AT THE race track, when somebody rushes into the betting ring betting heavily on a certain horse, at the last moment, bookmakers say:

"He must think he knows something."

Men with admiration for J. Pierpont Morgan's business ability say:

"He must know something."

He probably does.

TRIPLETS are born in New York to a mother five feet high, with four other children. Father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Rean, are proud of their Jean, Joan and Jane.

Problems face the two little girls and their brother, born too soon. They must have human mother's milk, and enough for three, according to the hospital, would cost $9 a day. The hospital's "breast milk" fund is exhausted.

The father has been out of work for three years. Doctors say if the triplets do not have the right food they may not survive.

This should interest mothers that "can't be bothered with nursing children." Modern artificial foods are well prepared, but nurse your baby if you can.

The triplet babies are in St. John's hospital, New York. Their four elders, a ten-year-old brother and three sisters, are anxious to have them at home.

BRITISH medical men declare positively that "drinking milk within two hours after eating meat is highly detrimental to the digestive system."

Moses could have told them that long ago. His rules allow no milk with meat. The Bible rule forbidding you to "seethe" or otherwise cook a kid in its mother's milk, was intended to protect those that eat the meat, and does not merely express sympathy for the mother.

Milk, a most valuable food, should be taken from infancy to old age, but not with meat.

ON AN island in the Pearl River, inhabitants of a Chinese fishing village dreaded and disliked a small settlement where twenty-four lepers lived nearby. A dispatch from Hong Kong says the villagers have solved their problem by a massacre of the twenty-four lepers, followed by the destruction and burning of their settlement.

That shocks us now, but such barbarity was once the rule. The old were killed and sometimes eaten in primitive days. Crippled children were destroyed, delicate children were purposely exposed to hardships that they could not survive, which meant destroying the finest brains. A child with a well developed brain is often most delicate.

Maniacs, supposed to be inhabited by demons, were horribly beaten and tortured, "to drive out the devil," even in comparatively recent Christian times. The human race is some distance from real civilization.

AUTOMOBILE truck manufacturers, attention.

W. H. Hills, circus and menagerie owner, is arrested because his truck, supposed to carry from five to seven thousand pounds, was found loaded with two elephants, four performing ponies, ten performing dogs, feed, hay and several employes, total 25,200 pounds.

That is good publicity for whoever made the trucks. Thousands of small "2-ton trucks" daily haul from four to six tons easily.

Gets $7,000 Verdict Against Her Dentist

WASHINGTON, Pa., Mar. 1.—Finding in favor of the plaintiff, a jury in common pleas court here today awarded Miss Veronica Kriglein, 30, damages in the amount of $7,000 in her suit against a Washington dentist for alleged negligence following a tooth extraction.

Miss Kriglein charged in her suit against Dr. Samuel A. Ashbrook, that he fractured her jaw and failed to give her proper medication after the extraction.

Justice Holmes Critically Ill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—His ebbing strength being buoyed by tanked oxygen administered by a physician and two nurses who remained at his side during the night, Oliver Wendell Holmes, retired associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, had showed no improvement this morning in his fight against bronchial pneumonia.

During the night the former "great liberal" of the high tribunal was reported to be resting more comfortably than earlier in the day.

He resigned from the bench three years ago and he will be 94 years old next Friday.

Dr. J. O. Campbell Is Buried Today

Former Westminster College Professor Dies At Home In Beaver County

BEAVER, Pa., Mar. 1.—Funeral services over the body of the late Rev. Dr. John O. Campbell, 76, retired minister and educator were held today from the Beaver United Presbyterian church. Hundreds of friends, former students and parishioners attended the funeral, and Dr. John McNaugher, president of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary officiated.

Dr. Campbell was known and loved by men and women over the entire world who had attended Westminster College. For many years he served as professor of History and Economics in Westminster and prior to that was in the pastorate of the United Presbyterian church.

During the Spanish-American War he served with the Eighth Ohio Volunteers, President William McKinley's "Own" regiment as a chaplain. It was some years after the Spanish-American War that he went to Westminster College as a professor.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Medbury Campbell, and a daughter, Mrs. A. S. Pearson of New Castle.

Harrisburg Woman Visits Hillsville

Consulting Librarian Confers With Hillsville Groups In Regard To New Library

It will be only a matter of a very short time until Hillsville's dream of a free public library will be realized. The movement has the enthusiastic support of the residents and the business firms and they have organized in the common purpose. The library will be located in the school building at first but later the town will probably provide a separate library building.

Miss Evelyn Mathews, consulting librarian, conected with the state library at Harrisburg, came to New Castle on Tuesday and made a trip to Hillsville to offer any help that might be needed in the proposed movement.

Miss Mathews also visited Miss Alice Sterling, New Castle librarian, and then, after staying overnight at The Castleton, went to Farrell, where another library is in the process of materialization, with the mayor giving his strong support.

Honor Court Held At Baptist Church

Host Of Energetic Scouts Advanced In Public Ceremony Last Night

CROWD APPLAUDS AS COLE GETS "EAGLE"

The regular February court of honor was held at the First Baptist church with a large attendance of scouts and scouters. Rev. A. M. Stump, chairman of the court, was assisted by Ralph Davis, Dr. R. C. Lutz, Harry Miles, E. D. Hawk, A. L. Howard, George Winters and the executive.

Advancements are listed as follows: from tenderfoot to second class rank, Benny Elisco, Henry Mastern, Victor Emery, Bill Peters, David Hoover, Martin Kastner, Jack Gaston, Irwin Masters, Jack Matthews. Advancements from second class to first class rank included Warren Blair, Dick Gardner, John Henderson, and Felix Viten.

Second class merit badges were awarded to Hallet Johnson, Robert Wilkenson, Richard Gardner, Jack Hannon, Joe Hannon, Chalmers Sproull and Bob Gaston.

Francis Brookman, Albert Moss, Philard McClure, Bill Batten, Robert Green, George Stitzinger, Elder Ubry, Don Woodworth and David Taylor qualified for first class merit badges. Star Scout rank was bestowed on Paul Means, John Clarke, Robert Walter, and James Emerick; those scouts also receiving various merit badges. Scoutmaster A. L. Howard and R. F. Hermann were advanced to Life Rank; also receiving merit badges.

A number of other scouters also received awards: Mate Walter Green, Assistant, Byrl McCartney; Scoutmaster, Charles Billotte; Assistant, Robert Moore, and assistant Robert McConaghy. A delegation from New Wilmington arrived in time to receive awards in merit badge work, Silver Palm, Joe Ferris, William Evans, John White, Robert Shaffer, Robert Newton, John Francis, being among this group, while Robert Johns who is ill at present, will receive his through Dr. R. F. Galbreath as proxy for the court of honor. Oliver Kerr will also receive his through proxy. Charles Kelly was warranted as a Junior Assistant Scoutmaster by the court.

Court Calls For Cole

The court then called on Life Scout Robert Cole of V-37 to come forward with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeLace Cole, and Dr. R. C. Lutz then made some appropriate remarks and presented Bob with the silver miniature Eagle, asking him to pin it on his mother, which he did. Mr. Cole then received the silver badge and pinned it on his son while the audience stood at attention and then applauded.

Seascout Mate Walter Green of the Neshannock unit, and the scout executive were then called up, and certified to the National Court of Honor for the Eagle award to be given at the March court; which Rev. Stump set for Thursday evening, March 28; with the board of review on the 25th.

E. D. Hawk, board of review chairman for February, then addressed the audience on the need for having scouts bring in their cards, completely filled out, before the board of review; so as to give the council office time to thoroughly check up on dates, time, etc., before the review itself. All cards for second and first class rank must therefore be in the council office by Saturday night, March 23, to be eligible for the board of review on the 25th. Any other cards coming in after that time will be held for the April court of honor.

Ralph Davis mentioned the Merit Badge show, and urged the various troops to make a quick return on tickets so shares might be allowed the troops that have earned them.

Rev. Stump spoke of the National Jamboree, and set the committee meeting for next Tuesday afternoon. Assistant George Winters briefly mentioned the 1929 Jamboree and the values of attending such an affair. The session was dismissed with the "Taps".

Scoutmasters E. D. Hawk and J. Arthur Turek received diplomas for their two weeks in camp with their troops, this counting credit on the Scoutmaster's Key degree.

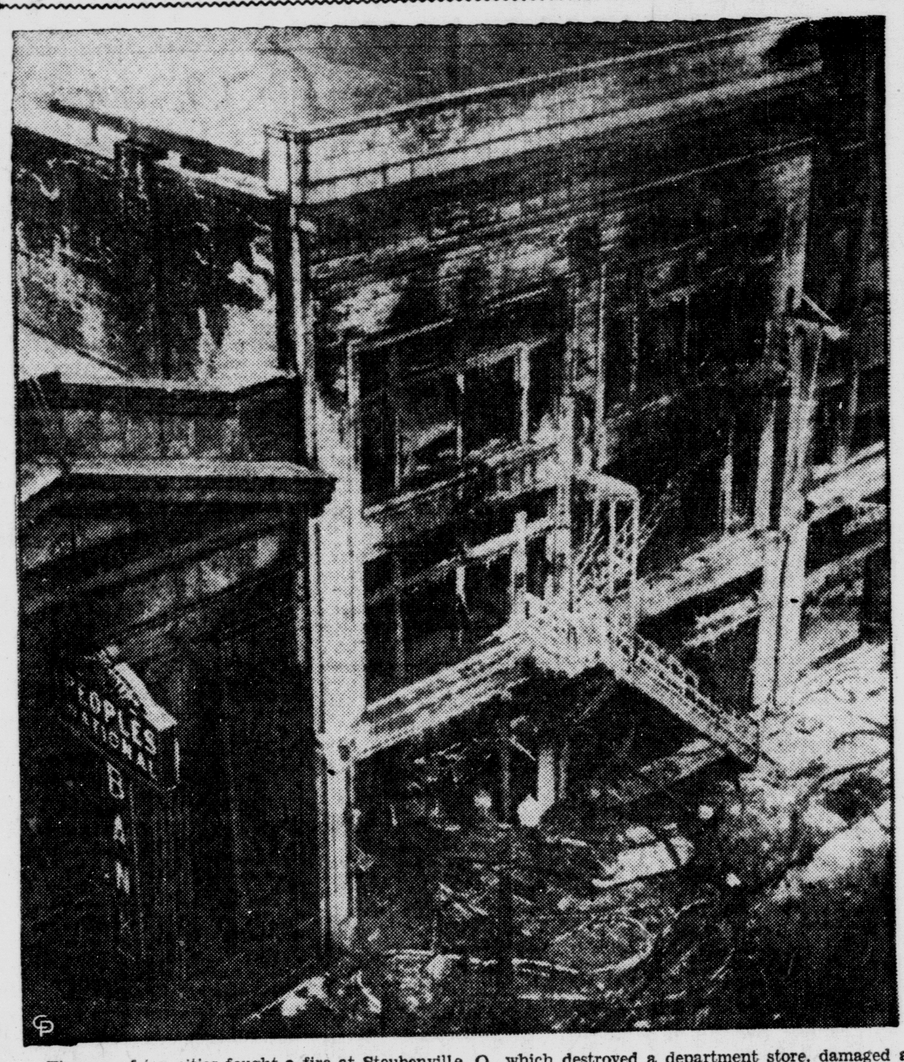
Conflagration Ruins Department Store Building



Firemen of ten cities fought a fire at Steubenville, O., which destroyed a department store, damaged a theater building, and caused injury of three firemen. The three-story department building is shown, above, gutted by the conflagration, resulting in property damage of $200,000. More than 800 persons in the theater were forced to flee for safety as the fire spread to that building.

Stage Settings Add To Success

One of the features attending the success of "Ladies of the Jury" on Thursday evening in the senior high school auditorium were the stage settings. Built entirely by members of the Civic Theatre Guild, they were realistically done and while this fact may have escaped the attention of some of the audience, the playgoer realized it and added his commendation.

The settings were built by the following people: Fulton R. Magill, stage manager; Charles Jamison, electrician; Jack Boyles, assistant electrician; John Stanley, technician, and the following assistants: Francis Hennen, Mildred Sneckenberger, Dorothy Stadelhofer, Joe Fisher, John Muse, Ed Brown and Wayne Sines, the latter in charge of sound effects.

City Engineer Harry Hoskins communicated with council at their session in city hall today and said a majority of interests affected had signed in favor of amiesiting Reynolds street between Scioto street and Pollock avenue and in Fairfield avenue from a point 120 feet west of Carlisle street to Mercer street. Petitions are being passed for the paving of Albert street and Northview avenue. In case of properties being owned jointly by man and wife the signatures of both must be obtained.

Lewis Presents Steel Petition

Alderman Gives Carnegie Steel Company Petition On Local Plant

PLEASED WITH HIS RECEPTION

Pleased with the audience given him by Vice President L. H. Burnett, of the Carnegie Steel company in Pittsburgh, on Thursday afternoon, Alderman Richard Lewis, of South Mill street, returned here late yesterday, after presenting his plan of employe participation in the cost of new equipment for the local steel plant. Mr. Burnett promised to present the plan to President I. Lamont Hughes, who is away for a few weeks.

During the conference, Alderman Lewis presented a petition signed by 500 local steel workers of the company, endorsing Lewis' plan which is this: that the cost involved in changing the New Castle plant from a plant under the Bessemer system to a combination of Bessemer and Open Hearth steel system will be shared by the workers under a co-operative plan whereby they will voluntarily pay, through a deduction from their semi-monthly pay, the expense involved in making this change.

Mr. Burnett seemed pleased with the plan, according to Alderman Lewis. Lewis quoted Burnett as saying: "In all my experiences I have never received such a fine extraordinary co-operative plan. We have never received any finer cooperation than we have from men of the New Castle plant. We look at these men with the highest esteem and will do all that is possible." Alderman Lewis also presented a petition signed by bankers of New Castle, all members of the New Castle Clearing House Association, asking action to reopen the local plant.

The plan will be presented to President I. Lamont Hughes. It will then probably be given to the United States Steel Corporation directors conference to be held sometime in April. Charles L. Hughes, a personnell officer of the company, also attended the meeting.

Alderman Lewis attended the meeting alone, representing the workers of the New Castle plan.

Kiwanis Party, Featuring 'Broadcast Of Armateurs', Enlivens Hotel Ballroom

New Castle's Kiwanis club set a "new high" for Ladies' Night programs at The Castleton last night when its own talented "armateurs" presented a la radio broadcast style, a full evening of entertainment with the able cooperation of the city's new 20 piece civic orchestra.

The 102 Kiwanians, Kiwanis wives and Kiwanis sons and daughters and guests who attended it went home knowing that Kiwanis—no matter how hilarious past social events have been—never has enjoyed itself so.

A dinner preceded the merrymaking which continued until late.

A host of Kiwanis' "scream and radio" stars were produced by Chairman C. Wolford and his capable Ladies' Night committee, and as the audience found out—"Walter Winchell," "Lanny Ross" "Jack Benny" and other famed celebrities sent special messages over the air to the clubmen and their ladies.

The pride of its citizens, the new civic orchestra, its members in uniform dress, performed to the delight of the dinner crowd under the direction of Kiwanian Harry Hammond and the conductorship of Judy Sypher. Hammond and Sypher alternated in leading musicians.

Back where no one could see were the radio broadcasters, L. C. Mantz, and Orville Potter, who impersonated so many "bright lights" of the air they should feel dizzy today.

Into the ballroom the air program flowed and General Chairman Wolford, the jovial master of ceremonies for the night, engineered the entertainment like a veteran of Broadway.

Program

And here's the program:

Introduction of civic orchestra by Mr. Wolford

Two orchestra numbers

"News Flashes from New Wilmington"—By "Walter Winchell" (L. C. Mantz)

More orchestra numbers

"Mae West Number"—By little "Patty" Bilzi

Act by "The Boy Orator"—By Clarence M. England

Vocal solos—By Mrs. Harry G. Gormley

More orchestra numbers

Vocal numbers by the "Singing Bell Boy"—By Paul Watkins, popular bellhop of The Castleton

Radio interview of "Hooey" Long of "Louzyanna" by "Lowell Thomas"—"Hooey" was Orville Potter and Lowell was L. C. Mantz

Radio bedtime story—By L. C. Mantz

Closing orchestra number

Early in the after-dinner program President Gilbert E. Long spoke briefly and called upon James Mayberry to introduce 'everybody present" And Mr. Mayberry did—from memory. Invocation before dinner was pronounced by Mr. Meermans.

To the committee in charge last night, Mr. Wolford, Mr. Mantz and W. T. Reed, and to the performers, all credit is due for the evening's entertainment.

Among the guests was Elmer R. Patterson, supervisor of Emergency Education Relief undertaking here, the work of which the new civic orchestra is a part.

PEACE GROUP HAS NIGHT DISCUSSION

Neutrality And Freedom Of Seas' Is Topic; Kaplan In Charge

Under the leadership of Bernard Kaplan, members of the Lawrence County Council on the Cause and Cure of War met at the Y. W. C. A. last night and considered another phase of their marathon round-table discussions on "the Evolving Foreign Policy of the United States.

"Neutrality and Freedom of the Seas' was the topic considered last night.

"Restatement of the traditional American policy of neutrality will promote not only the welfare of the universal body politic but will guarantee the realization of a cherished ideal world peace," the discussion brought out.

"Greedy interests who pretend to hold dear the doctrine of freedom of the seas and insist upon trading with aggressive belligerents," the council agreed, "do not warrant government protection with its inheritent sacrifices. World harmony demands our passive cooperation and justified economic blockade of belligerent powers. This does not endanger our traditional non-aggression policy."

Mrs. Miriam L. Cosel, chairman of the council, presided. At the next meeting the round-table discussion will be continued.

Girl Is Winning Fight With Death

Evelyn Ann Gravatt, Aged 3, Wins Fight Against Infectious Disease

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Mar. 1.—A merry smile curved the lips of a tiny tot whose twinkling feet pedalled a tricycle through hospital corridors today, evidence of a gallant will-to-live which resulted in a practically miraculous escape from death.

Streptococcic infection—the ailment that cost the life of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., and Stanley Walker, Jr.—beset frail little Evelyn Ann Gravatt, aged three, two months ago.

Will To Live

Leading specialists came into the fight, admittedly with little hope but cheered on by Evelyn's infectious grin. Again and again drains were applied at various parts of her body, until she had had 25 drains in all. Blood transfusion followed blood transfusion. Finally, mastoid operations on both ears.

Today, under the happy eyes of her father, Frank P. Gravatt, the indomitable patient was placed upon the tricycle and given the hospital corridors as a playground.

With all credit to modern medical science, participating specialists attributed her recovery to her remarkable will-to-live, courage and good cheer.

Favor Repeal Of Income Publicity

Kidnapers Too Easily Informed Of Victims Through Practice, Leaders Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—House leaders favor immediate repeal of the "pink slip" income tax publicity law despite the apparent opposition of members of the Senate Finance committee who were the first to approve the law.

A house ways and means subcommittee, headed by Rep. Cullen (D) of New York, plans to meet today to consider preparation of a bill which would prevent the income taxpayer's personal financial status from being made a public record. Speaker Byrns favors giving a repeal bill right-of-way in the house with a vote taken after brief discussion.

City Can Force Tenant And Property Owner Help Defend Suit

Solicitor Robert White today informed council at their brief session held in city hall that Inspector Dysart is investigating reports of persons having fallen on icy sidewalks. He said that in case of law suit, the city can make the tenant and property owner help to defend the action. Since the passage of law providing for this the city has not lost a suit, he declared.

Listless Stage In Mellon Case

Relate Vast Property Holdings Of Andrew W. Mellon At Hearing

JOINT ACCOUNT IS BEING AIRED

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1—The three-million dollar income tax battle between Andrew W. Mellon and the government he served as secretary of the treasury for 11 years reached a listless stage today with a recital of vast property holdings of the financier.

From Mellon's confidential secretary, government Counsel F. R. Shearer learned holdings in a joint account of the former cabinet member and his brother, the late Richard B Mellon, had a net worth of more than $20,000,000 in 1931. The joint account showed these holdings included two Pittsburgh hotels and at least 37 blocks of real estate in this city.

This joint account has become an important factor in the proceedings which Mellon hopes will bring him a refund of $139,045 on his 1931 income tax. The government claims he took "fictitious" losses and wants $3,089,261 in additional taxes and penalties.

To prove its contention the government has gone into the joint account with the intention of showing it actually was a partnership between "A. W." and "R. B." If successful counsel will argue Mellon was entitled to deduct only half of the $6,000,000 loss he claimed on Pittsburgh Coal Company stock in 1931.

Many other losses have been claimed by Mellon on transactions involving this joint account which he asserts was not a partnership.

With Shearer pressing for complete details, the trusted secretary, Howard M. Johnson, described transactions, real estate holdings and building investments of the Mellon Banking and Industrial empire. He revealed the financier has vast holdings in the city he has helped make the "workshop" of America.

'Baby Bonds' Placed On Public Sale Here

Sales Total At Noon Is Reported As $525; Steen First Buyer

Uncle Sam's newest securities—'Baby Bonds"—went on sale at the New Castle post office and in every other post office in the nation today.

Postmaster Richard A. Steen purchased the first bond here, while Stanley J. Fruit of Rigby was the only outsider to make a purchase this morning. The total amount of bonds sold at noon amounted to $525. They are being sold at the money order window.

President Roosevelt, the International News Service reported, purchased the first of the new issue in Washington.

The issue is unlimited. While the local office is well supplied with bonds of the $25, $50, $100 and $500 denominations, officials here anticipate "no rush for a while". In other parts of the nation it was reported the demands were surprisingly heavy.

The $1,000 bonds cost $750 now and are not worth their full value until maturity, 10 years hence.

Jury Will Get Case Today In Federal Court Of Fraud Against Auto Tire Dealer

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1.—Trial of George Varnum, Butler auto tire dealer, on a charge of fraudulently concealing $20,000 in assets from a receiver and trustee in bankruptcy, was to go to a federal court jury in Judge Nelson McVicar's court today.

George W. Kelly, Butler police chief, and Sergeant Edward Price of the state police testified for the government. Kelly said Varnum told him on September 5, 1931, which was about three weeks before an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the dealer, that $20,000 had been stolen from his safe while Price said the defendant told him the money was hidden in his car before it was placed in the safe.

The government charges Varnum received amounts from auto sales prior to the bankruptcy filing much larger than the approximate $800 in cash and merchandise which D. C. McCandless of Butler, receiver and trustee, testified he received from the estate.

Heavy Snows Are Noted Last Month

Excess In Precipitation Recorded Due To Unusual Snowfall In February

TEMPERATURE IS NEAR THE NORMAL

February was featured by an unusually heavy amount of snowfall, the report of U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson reveals. There was an excess of .23 inches in precipitation as a result. The figures show that the amount of snow which fell amounted to almost 19 inches, most which was recorded on two days, when around six inches was noted on each occasion.

The temperature for the month was near the normal figure, in contrast to the daily deficiency of 14.2 degrees recorded in February, 1934. The daily deficiency this year was but a half degree per day.

The figures for the month show the mean maximum - 36.8 degrees and the mean minimum, 18.9 degrees, the mean for the month being 27.9 degrees. The normal mean for February is 28.4 degrees, the deficiency being .05 degree. The highest temperature recorded was 53 degrees on the 16th and the lowest was two below zero on the 7th. The greatest daily range was 35 degrees on the 6th.

The total precipitation for the month was 2.65 inches, the normal for February being 2.42 inches, an excess of .23 inches being shown. Days with .01 inches or more in precipitation were 18, days clear three, days partly cloudy 12 and days cloudy 13.

In February of 1934, the precipitation was 1.23 inches below normal, and the temperature 14.2 degrees below. It will be remembered that sub-zero weather was recorded on 16 days of the month, making it the coldest February in the history of the United States weather bureau. The snowfall amounted to 11.8 inches.

HI-Y BOYS ASSEMBLE

Ne-Ca-Hi-Y had its regular meeting Monday, February 25, at the Y. M. C. A. Bob Brown conducted the devotionals, which consisted of sentence prayers. Rev. D. C. Schnebly presented another of his talks on the "Seven Evils of Youth." Attorney Clarence Patterson gave some views on his profession. After a brief business discussion the meeting was adjourned.

SENATUS ROMANUS MEETS

The members of the Senatus Romanus held their meeting Tuesday, February 26. Consul Primus, James Hartland, presided over the meeting. Eleven new members were initiated into the club by the usual method of answering questions in Latin. Miss Van Divort gave a very interesting talk, introducing the new members to the rest of the club and pointing out the objectives and aims of the Latin Senate. The meeting was then concluded after discussing the new curriculum for the year.

SCHOOL MONITORS ORGANIZED

The hall monitors, under the direction of Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune, have been organized for the new semester with Joe Fisher as captain. The period captains are: Ray Lindsey, Charles Allen, Tom Twaddle, James Donnelly, Arnold Cochran, Jack Locke, Bill Greer, Art Kimmel and Phil McClure.

'SPARE TIME' CLUBS

An attempt is being made by the lunch-room squad to get the students interested in some kind of a club, such as: Hobbies, handicrafts, etc. If a sufficient number of students are secured rooms will be set aside during the lunch periods for the meetings. This is being done to give the pupils something in the form of recreation and entertainment during the lunch periods instead of wandering about the hallways.

O. J. Sheaffer who is in charge of this work has stated that quite a number have signed up for clubs already and expect to get under way by Monday.

THE TIGER'S "MERCY"

(International News Service)

ELLORE, Madras—A tiger attacked and killed a villager here while he was working with his sister in a field. After killing the man, the tiger went away, leaving the woman unharmed. While she remained beside her brother's body bemoaning his fate, the tiger returned, brushed her aside and went off with the remains.

Mrs. Edward B. Smith, the former Louise Dewey of Chicago, was recently decorated by Rene Weiller, French consul general in Chicago, for having taken such an interest in the Alliance Francaise. For the last three years Mrs. Smith has been vice president of the Juniors of the Alliance.

U. S. Marines Get Record Recruit

(International News Service)

BOSTON.—Because he wears a size 13 shoe, it took congressional "pressure" to keep Joseph W. Martin Jr., 18, of Billerica, in the U. S. Marine corps.

Officials were considering ejecting Martin because he could not find shoes for him. Three weeks ago he sailed from Boston for Parris Island as a Marine recruit. Storehouses of the Army, the Navy and the Marine corps were ransacked in a vain attempt to find shoes for him.

Just as he was about to be ejected, Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers intervened at Washington and the Marine Corps was persuaded to allow him to remain, though it necessitates special tailoring and shoemaking jobs. Martin is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weights 210 pounds.

Sidelights On News At State Capitol

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1—The trials and tribulations of the Democratic administration in finding jobs for party workers brought about a curious situation in the governor's office....A Republican who aided Gov. George H. Earle in his campaign last fall came up to the executive offices to find out why he hadn't been appointed to a $5,000 job for which he had been sponsored and expected to get....While waiting, a Democratic fraternity brother came in.

Conversation developed they were both waiting to find out why they had not yet been given jobs....Further conversation developed they both had been sponsored for the same position....Now, party leaders are hunting around for another $5,000 job to satisfy both....Names of the principals in the incident are "off the record."

It wasn't as unusual as it might seem that two friends hunting jobs should meet in the governor's office these days....The executive reception room is filled with job-hunters from morning to night every day of the week....They are attracted by newspaper articles of "firings" of Republican personnel in various departments.

None of them seem to understand when they are told the dismissals to date have been jobs which the administration is abolishing for economy and for which there are to be no successors....This is one reason the administration is so chary in giving out names of persons who have been dismissed....The personnel office has given out no lists as yet....Department heads have admitted some dismissals....Others have been learned when payroll sheets cleared through the fiscal offices.

Echoes—Senator Leon C. Prince, Cumberland, who sponsored the abortive request that Senator John J. McClure, Delaware, resign his seat, is planning to be a congressional candidate next year....He is expected to seek the seat of Rep. Isaac Doutrich representing the Dauphin, Cumberland, Lebanon district....Whether he will run as a Republican has political circles guessing in view of his remark that if the senate refused to pass his resolution Republicans who wanted to remain such "can not and will not remain Republicans."

The speeches of Prince and McClure and the other Senators who felt called upon to speak their minds on the resolution against the Delaware solon filled 10½ pages in the quaint legislative journal....It cost $5.50 a page to print the journal....So it cost only $57.25 to record their thoughts for posterity....In those pages are some of the most acrimonious and bitter words in the English language....Paragraph after paragraph of legal citations offered by Sen. George L. Reed, Dauphin, in McClure's defense....And some of the most impassioned oratory ever uttered in legislative halls.

Natural science students will find a scholarly lecture on the life of the eel in the journal....The discourse, with some emphasis on the sex life of the eel, was delivered by pontificial Rep. Harvey Surface during a debate on the sanctity of eel chutes late one afternoon.

Although Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, who also is secretary of the commonwealth, frequently can be seen leaning over the railing on the minority wing of the senate, he was not visible the night the showdown was staged on the Prince resolution....He was on hand a short time later, however. Senators Charles E. Miller, Northumberland, and Charles E. Sones, Lycoming, the Democrats who deserted their party, were understood to have been given the political "cold shoulder"....Democratis in those counties may have a hard time crashing the patronage gate.

Political note: Over in a health department office there is a calendar of the kind widely circulated by a large Mellon Oil Company....All the advertising matter on the calendar has been cut off....Employes explained they didn't want to be known as Republicans anymore....But a portrait of former President Herbert Hoover still hangs in the offices of the board of finance and revenue which is still under G. O. P. rules.

Rep. Ralph S. McCreary, Erie, has some very positive views about legislative procedure....One of them is that members ought to answer to their names immediately on roll calls to save time....At this session, many members have been dilatory about this function....Taking the floor on personal privilege, McCreary expressed his sentiments with the remark that "an eight-year-old boy or a collie dog" will answer to his name so there is no reason why legislators can't do the same....McCreary is the chap who don't go home week-ends anymore because his constituents ask him why he isn't in Harrisburg legislatin' inasmuch as that was what they elected him to do.

The first obituary of a capitol hill official voluntarily furnished news men came from Robert L. Johnson, relief director....It was very complete, including comments on his hobbies....His preferred sport was listed as horseback riding, "but he also plays tennis and wretched golf which he likes. He owns three dogs, one of them very unpopular."

A remarkably lifelike crayon sketch of George A. Brennan, one of the founders of the Pennsylvania legislative correspondents association and for years considered the best authority on Pennsylvania politics, has been hung in the capitol news room in memory of the "grand old man"....He died last October, this being the first session in years his diminutive stature has been missing from legislative halls and press galleries.

Drawn by Charles E. Bell, the sketch portrays Brennan as thousands knew him....Straight-forward eyes looking directly at you from any direction....Chin erect, held up by the stiff formal collar, encircled with a loosely-knotted necktie studded with the diamond horseshoe pin....Inevitable curved umbrella handle crooked over the right arm which holds a newspaper turned to the column "who's who in Pennsylvania" which Brennan created and wrote.

Episcopal Vestry Closed To Women

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND,—The long-debated issue of whether women should be admitted to membership in the vestry of an Episcopal church was unceremoniously squelched at the118th annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio here when a majority committee report upheld the ban on women in the vestry.

The committee gave four reasons for a continued ban of women. They were: First, the admission of women would detrimental to the peace of the parish: second it is a false mental conclusion that women must exercise their equality with men by endeavoring to be their equals in everything; third, the men don't want it; and fourth, the women don't want it.

British House of Commons Votes $1,435,000,000 to Continue the War.

Two U. S. Ships Sunk by Mines in North Sea.

These were the most significant war headlines, 20 years ago this week.

The traditional policy of the U. S. in supporting the principle of "freedom of the seas" was being put to the test. Washington was insisting upon the right of neutral nations to trade impartially with belligerent nations. But Britain was enforcing a blockade against Germany, and Germany was endeavoring to enforce a blockade against the British isles. Germany outspokenly, and Britain, tacitly, had disclaimed all responsibility for consequent damage to neutral vessels.

President Wilson was protesting to London against the use of the Stars and Stripes by British vessels running the submarine blockade. He was protesting to Berlin against the blockade itself. He was politely ignored, just as he was when he addressed identic notes to London and Berlin suggesting an agreement whereby (1) Britain would not interfere with food cargoes intended to be used in feeding the German civilian population, and (2) Germany would abate its submarine warfare.

Mr. Wilson, the idealist, wanted to keep the war from affecting the civilian populations. The realists in London and Berlin realized now that the war could only be won by bringing the strongest possible effect upon the civilian populations. There was a deadlock on the war-front, therefore the home fronts must be attacked.

The realists in London and Berlin considered President Wilson's protests as actuated by humane interests. They suspected that he was endeavoring to protect the rich business American manufacturers had built up in trading with "the enemy." Regardless of the motives that actuated him, they were in no mood to acquiesce. Contraband was controband, irrespective of the flag it flew. To them wheat, sugar and oil were as surely contraband as shot and shell, for one was as vital to the home front as the other to the battle lines.

With the U. S., in the name of freedom of the seas, maintaining its rights to send its ships to any country with which it was not at war, it was apparent to more than one discerning American that sooner or later the United States would be drawn into the conflict. And in this last week of February, 1915, the Senate passed a record-sized Army appropriation bill for $105,000,000. "Preparedness' was becoming a popular word, with its advocates arguing that preparedness is insurance for peace!

Indo-Vin Medicine Astounds This Whole Section

New, Scientific Formula Is A Complete Sensation Here In New Castle And Throngs Flock Daily to Eckerd's Drug Store For It.

Day after day, the new medicine, known as Indo-Vin, continues to increase in sales and demand here in the city of New Castle, and vicinity. In fact, at the present time, thousands of bottles of this remarkable mixture of Nature's Finest Ingredients are being purchased here and crowds are flocking in daily to Eckerd's Drug Store, where Indo-Vin is being introduced to the general public.

WHAT INDO-VIN IS!

It is a new and scientific mixture of extracts from medicinal plants which act upon EACH of the FOUR important organs—Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Indo-Vin is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas pains, sourness, bloat and belching.

It will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe) as they were NEVER CLEANSED BEFORE, bringing out old, foul impurities that may have been inside of you for a long time, contaminating your blood and inner-organs.

Indo-Vin will drive the poisons from the kidneys, and relieve backaches, bladder irritation and weakness. Relieves rheumatism and neuritis, driving out the organic poisons that cause the terrible aches and pains, giving quick relief.

IT WILL put a stop to the skin eruptions that are caused by impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver, and will put the ROSY GLOW OF HEALTH into your cheeks. Indo-Vin will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active; build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT and FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN OR WOMAN, years younger than your real age.

Following are JUST A FEW testimonials, selected at random from among the HUNDREDS that are being received from this immediate vicinity, praising Indo-Vin and urging ALL WHO SUFFER to get it and take it. Read these statements:

MRS. C. BARKER

Dizzy Spells

MRS. C. BARKER, of 2021 Fairland St., Pittsburgh, Pa., said: (photo appears above) "My meals would sour in my stomach and bloat me up with so much gas that I thought my insides were going to burst. The stomach gas would press on my heart and put me in so much pain with my chest that I would get dizzy all over and I kept having terrible sick headaches due to the awful condition of my stomach. My liver was badly disordered and this caused me to feel bilious ALL THE TIME, and I was subject to the most dreadful headaches that lasted for DAYS. I tried everything under the sun but nothing helped me until I got Indo-Vin and it has done me more good than everything else PUT TOGETHER. The awful gas misery is gone now and I don't have the pains in my chest or around my heart, and the dizzy spells don't come over me. The headaches have vanished. I don't have the bilious spells like I had before and the headaches are a thing of the past. It simply improved my WHOLE SYSTEM and I want to publicly endorse it to all suffering people and urge them to get it and take it."

Stomach and Bowels

MR. JOSEPH L. GARNER, of 626 Woodbine St., Harrisburg, Pa., said: "My meals simply would not digest AT ALL, but would lay there is my stomach organs and sour and turn to gas and I'd keep belching up a sour, bitter substance and would get into an awful state of pain and misery. Was also having bowel trouble, in fact, this had gone on so long it had gotten chronic with me and I was always taking physics, and finally I got into a rundown condition in GENERAL. My condition was awful and Indo-Vin was the first medicine in YEARS that had any effect on me, and it has worked the misery out of my whole body. My food never turns to gas and bloating inside of me any more and I can eat a hearty meal without suffering. It gave my bowels a great cleaning and they have gotten so they are regular each day, and I never need a laxative or physic. This medicine has almost changed me into a NEW PERSON and I want to endorse it to everyone who suffers."

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store. Also being sold in all the nearby towns by every good druggist throughout this whole New Castle section.

Big League Clubs Depend On Rookies

Wealth Of New Material This Year Will Be Looked Over Very Carefully

Giants Hope To Land Starting Pitcher Out Of Group Of First Year Men

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 1.—With the eyes of the baseball world centered about the training camps of Florida, with rookies straining at the leash for the one "big" opportunity, and managers laying plans for the 1935 campaign, a birds-eye view of the camps discloses a fine crop of youngsters seeking to make the grade.

From the New York Giants, who led the National league parade last season until the last two days, only to be nosed out by the St. Louis Cardinals who went on to win the world series, down to the lowly Reds, efforts are being made to strengthen each team to make a better race.

Hopes On Rooks.

The Terrymen base their hopes for a fifth starting pitcher in Clydell Castleman, a young right hander from Nashville. Joseph Malay, a first baseman understudy to Bill Terry, will be given the chance to make the grade. Frank Gabler, another right-hander, will vie for a coveted berth with the Giants.

Terry thinks he has the best ball club in either circuit. With the signing of Dick Bartell, an ace shortstop, imminent, the Giants will plug a leak in the infield caused by Travis Jackson's failing legs.

Over at Tinker field, in Orlando, the Brooklyn Dodger batteries are limbering up, and Casey Stengel is banking on the return to form of William Watson Clark to aid Van Mungo and the other twirlers. Brooklyn's rookies include some valuable material in Stan Bordagaray, outfielder from Sacramento; Frank Lamanske, southpaw pitcher, who won both ends of a double bill from Omaha last season; Harvey Green, right hander who won 14 and lost 2 while batting .312 for Kenosha last year.

Brandt Unsigned.

Boston Braves, at St. Pete, have Ed Brandt in camp, exhibiting his old finesse, although still unsigned. With the acquisition of Babe Ruth, veteran slugger, as playing assistant manager, the Braves' attack will be enlivened. And Rabbit Maranville, vest pocket fly catcher, is in there testing his creaky leg which was in a cast for over three months last season. Buddy Lewis, hard hitting catcher, who came from the Cards; and Kack Tyler, Harrisburg outfielder, are the oustanding newcomers getting a test.

The Red Sox, sharers of the Boston limelight, are up at Sarasota, hardly unpacked from their trek southward. Lefty Grove, former Philadelphia ace, is in the rookie class, forced to prove his ailing arm of last year can take it.

Considerable Material.

At Tampa, the Cincy Reds have been hard at work ironing the kinks out of the arms, legs and backs of the batteries for over a week. Today the rest of the squad arrives for preliminary workouts. The Reds have a large crop of new material headed by John Robert Mize, first baseman who may step into Jim Bottomley's shoes. Ray Davis, a right-hander; Junie Barnes and Lee Grissom, southpaws, will be watched for mound duty .

Lakeland is prepared to play host to the Detroit Tigers, scheduled to arrive March 3. Three young pitchers—Clyde M. Hatter, Joe Sullivan and Jake Wade—show promise of staying up with the Bengals, but that remains to be seen after a week or so at the Lakeland camp.

What Baseball Clubs Are Doing

Big League Teams Are In South And Getting Started On Training Grind

(International News Service)

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 1.—There was joy in camp today. Van Mungo out loose with his "hot" one yesterday, and he's still the ace.

Freddie Maass, the big rookie, did some noble work catching the speedster.

Tom Zachary may do some flinging today, if it warms up. It's been too cold for the veteran's soup-bone.

HOLDOUTS WORRY GIANTS

Miami Beach, Fla., Mar. 1.—The Giants get down to serious work here today, with the arrival of the rest of the squad.

Hank Leiber, Dick Bartell, and Joe Moore, with mild causes of "holdout-itis" are here to "talk" to Boss Terry.

"Skeets" Dickey, Yankee Bill's kid brother, looked good yesterday, and Terry considers him an excellent catching prospect.

ARRANGE EXHIBITIONS

San Bernardino, Cal., Mar. 1.—Efforts were being made today to arrange two opening exhibition games with the Chicago Cubs as an inaugural for the Pittsburgh Pirates' new training camp here. Manager "Pie" Traynor, after putting his men through three days of workouts, agreed to the contests, which now await the sanction of Charley Grimm, Cub manager, the games would be played on March 9 and 10.

Mt. Jackson At Shenango High

Shenango High Will Play At Home Tonight With Mt. Jackson High

While New Wilmington and Bessemer are fighting it out for the lead at the Bessemer High floor tonight, the third co-leaders of the County High School league Shenango High will be playing Mt. Jackson High. The girls game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Coach Ed Raney has had a tough job this week to keep the Shenango boys from getting too confident, and has given them many a stern lecture. The Mt. Jackson team is slowly coming into its own and may make trouble for the league leaders tonight. Shenango won in the game played earlier at the Mt. Jackson floor, and for that reason the Spearmen would like to reverse the result.

The New Castle wrestlers after losing to Sewickley will be out to win Saturday night and some fast bouts can be expected. The bouts will be handled by Robert L. Meermans, general secretary of the "Y" and a former wrestling star. The State Athletic Commission will be in charge of the bouts.

Babe Ruth Back In New York After Eating Boston Beans And Pork

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 1.—Mushing through the slush on Broadway today we find . . . Sammy Fuller, Boston biffer, rated 6 to 5, to take Lou Ambers, Herkimer hurricane, over the 15 round trail in the Garden tonight. . .

Fight mob hopes they live up to their fancy monikers. . . Most of 'em figures Ambers will outgallop old Sam. . . Ambers is No. 1 lightweight challenger in New York; Fuller is No. 1 in Illinois. . .

Ah, Babe Ruth, back in town. . . After chowder and contract signing party in Boston last night. . . Got two days of packing ahead. . . Buying new golf hose to scare the snakes at St. Petersburg's Jungle club. . . and going to tote more baggage than a man actor. . .

How About Money

Where are the Braves going to get the dough to pay his salary?—Yankee official says National League will lend it. . . Some sources say Babe is to get 25 percent of Braves' end on all exhibition games . . . and he'll make plenty along the whistle stops. . .

Here's Ned Irish, ex-sports writer, walking in clouds after drawing way over $100,000 with eight basketball shows in Garden. . . Now wondering why he ever worked for a living.

And Jack Dempsey, the big steak and chop man, insisting all heavyweights should be made to fight 15 rounds. . . They have to be right to go that far, opineth Jack. . .

Here's Ed Barrow, Yankee Major Domo, denying he's going to buy a retriever dog to send Wally Berger to help that fleet centerfielder of the Braves shag balls that get away from the Bambino. . .

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Scotty Riffle of the Zan Athletic club of Morgantown, W. Va., was crowned champion in the 175 pound division of tht junior amateur athletic union tourney at Pittsburgh last night when he stopped Steve Mazur of St. Mathias Lyceum, Natrona. Steve is the chap who has fought several good fights at Ellwood City. Lou Berg of the Pittsburgh Lyceum and Jerry Gebhardt of Allegheny Y reached the finals in the heavyweight division. Berg halted John Keenan of Herminie in the first round and Gebhardt won from Jimmie Mayne of Ellwood City in the second round.

Junior members of the Columbus society will have a round-up, Monday night at Columbus hall, Seventh ward. A new athletic club is planned, and Paris Cangey, the former lightweight having been named physical director. Paris stated today that he has matched Eddie Gillest, Charlie Arkett and Frankie Massa for amateur boxing bouts at Sharon, March 7.

Although nothing much of a concrete nature is expected to be done at tonight's meeting of Lawrence loop managers, the officials of the circuit will be able to draw a line as to whether or not all of the clubs will be back in the fold when the umpire calls "play ball" this season. The circuit has been in existence since 1923 and enjoyed a wonderful season in 1934.

Falcons Defeat West Middlesex

Polish Falcons Hand Surprise Defeat To West Middlesex Merchants, 26 To 25

BUDAI HERO IN EXCITING GAME

Polish Falcons basketball team gained considerable prestige last night at the Falcon floor on Miller avenue, by handing a surprise package 26 to 25 defeat onto the strong West Middlesex Merchants. The game was one of the best of the year at the Falcon floor.

The West Middlesex lineup was dotted with star performers, with Rudich, former Westminster College player center, McSherry at a guard.

The Falcons led 6 to 4 at the first period, and 10 to 8 at the half, with the third period finding the Falcons leading by the slim margin of 19 to 18. The fourth and final period saw a lot of action, with the lead see-sawing back and forth several times. The Merchants led by one point at 25 to 24 with about one minute left to play when Budai a sub forward for the Falcons dropped in a sensational one-hand shot that gave the Falcons their coveted victory.

Kawa and Kendra the "Falcon Twin Scorers" had eight points apiece, while "Slim" Augustyn had four points and played a fine game at center. Rudish and McSherry led the visitors in scoring.

Ruth Slated To Become Manager

Bill McKechnie Will Be Promoted To General Manager In 1936 Is Report

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mar. 1.—Babe Ruth will become manager of the Boston Braves in 1936-37 if he proves he is qualified for the post.

Bill McKechnie, present manager of the club, will be promoted to position of general manager, similar to that held by Eddie Collins of the Red Sox, if he so elects.

This season Ruth will be just a player. He will play in any position, except the sun-field, and at any time Bill McKechnie calls him. He hopes to play in 100 games. It was reported Ruth will receive $40,000 a year for the three seasons.

This was the status of Babe Ruth today.

His three-year contract signed and tucked away, Ruth was headed for New York and then south for St. Petersburg, Fla., to join the club in training.

"The Bam" was given a tremendous ovation on his "return home" after 15 years absence from the city where he started to baseball fame.

New Wilmington At Bessemer For Important Game

County League Lead At Stake Tonight At Bessemer High Floor

(Special To News)

BESSEMER, Pa., Mar. 1—Bessemer High School will be the scene of buzzing humanity tonight. New Wilmington High school basketball team will go to Bessemer for a battle that has all the earmarks of a championship affair. The Lawrence County High school league will be at stake. The girls of the two schools will play the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock.

No doubt the largest crowd of the year will pack into the Bessemer High gym floor. These two teams are natural rivals and both are at the top of the league along with Shenango High, and they sport championship hopes.

Who Will Win

The hopes of one of the two teams will be dragged down tonight, but which one will it be? You can't talk about anything but basketball out in Bessemer today and even another robbery could not excite the populace out of the spell of this crucial floor engagement.

Coaches Fredericks of Bessemer and Eagleson of New Wilmington have given their boys the final instructions. Practice sessions last night for both teams took away the rough edges.

New Wilmington won at New Wilmington earlier in the year, and the Bessemers are out for revenge.

It was reported at Bessemer today that two of the best basketball officials in the city of Youngstown, Ohio will handle the game tonight.

Boys League Games Saturday

Four games will be played in the Boys league at the "Y" floor Saturday afternoon. The first game will start at 2 o'clock.

The Imperials will battle the "Y" Juniors. The Trojans will clash with the Intermediates. The Keystone Midgets will play the Syrian Eagles, and the "Y" Devil Dog Juniors will tangle with the Second U. P. Juniors.

BABE STILL A BASEBALL POWER

It was only about six weeks ago that the entire baseball world was worrying over the situation of the Boston Braves. At that time the club was in dire need of financial strength, and it seemed that almost anything could happen when the National league called a special meeting to straighten out matters.

Now the team can look into the future with optimism. By July of 1935 the club will likely be completely out of the red and on its way to a profitable season. This sudden about-face in the conditions at Boston was made possible by one man, a baseball player who himself reversed his ways just as remarkably ten years ago when he changed from baseball's playboy to an earnest and conscientious player.

The fact that Ruth could cause such a change is a tribute to his baseball power. He may be past his peak but he is still a powerful influence on the game. Even the league moguls could not make rigid the shaky pillars of the tottering Brave franchise.

Babe it appears is to be paraded chiefly as a player this season with his managerial debut being held for a 1936 attraction. It looks like a wise move on the part of Fuchs and Co. A year as a National league player should be a gate attraction in all eight cities but especially in Boston, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. And then when 1936 rolls around it will be Manager Ruth, another novel role by which he can interest the fans.

In other words, by displaying Ruth, first as a player and later as a manager, Fuchs is having two seasons of the Sultan of Swat as a highlight, whereas, if he had made Babe the manager immediately, he would have only 1935 before the novelty of Ruth as a National leaguer would be worn off.

And if Babe's legs will not permit him to play this season or if he fails to draw the crowds as a player, then Fuchs can install him as the team's manager and nothing will be lost.

It is very improbable, however, that Ruth will fail as a gate attraction. There are too many interesting sidelights available that will draw the interest of the fans in all cities. In St. Louis it will be Ruth vs. Deans, in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh he will be comparatively new as a player, in New York it will be Ruth vs. Hubbell, and so forth.

Babe has always been popular in Boston, and the town itself is a good baseball center if conditions are satisfactory. The Braves haven't been doing so well but it is more the fault of the club than of the community. In recent years the team has been unable to add additional playing strength. The club usually goes into spring training with only 23 to 25 players on hand.

The way the Redsox have drawn the fans since Yawkey began assembling a strong club is proof that the town will support a good ball team. So with Ruth as a drawing power and as a means of building a strong team, the future of the Braves seems even brighter now than it was gloomy, six weeks ago.

Ten Pin Tourney Attracts Interest

Much interest is being displayed in Lawrence county's first annual ten pin tourney which got under way a few days ago.

Lefty Robinson, regarded as one of the best pin demolishers in the county, was the first man to enter the event. Nine splits in three games spoiled Robinson's score. He rolled 476. Anderson and Cable of Ellwood City rolled over 500 in three games. James E. Thomas, assistant fire chief, is the latest entry in the tournament.

Three loving cups and 26 cash prizes await the winners in the singles and doubles.

Market Today Reactionary

Stock Market Starts Off Month Of March Very Quiet, Pressure Continues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The stock market started off the month of March today on a reactionary tone, trading was very quiet.

Pressure on industrial issues, which has become pronounced in the last two days, continued. John Manville sold down nearly a point. Du Pont was heavy. U. S. Steel sagged and Chrysler and General Motors were in supply around the lows of the year.

Rails also pointed down after their short-lived rally on Wednesday and early yesterday. A sharp decline in traffic last week contributed to the unsettlement resulting from the great western and Rio Grande difficulties. Losses were largely fractional, however.

Utilities were easier after resisting the downtrend in the market for several days. Consolidated Gas declined a sizeable fraction. Commonwealth and Southern preferred was a strong exception.

Mining shares made the best showing as a group, with Cerro De Pasco advancing in response to the new high in London silver prices. Gold shares were firm.

Columbia Pictures sold at a new high in the amusements, and Loew's was better after an early dip. American Safety Razor sold at a record high. Allied Chemical gained a point, counter to the trend in other industrials.

Oils were sluggish. Alcohols were easier after yesterday's flurry. Otherwise the list was dull.

The Pound Sterling met better support in foreign exchanges and firmed up. Gains were easy and bonds mixed.

Ruth May Start At First Base In Lineup Of Braves

Says He Could Play First Without Much Trouble, Thinks Dean Is Great Pitcher

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Babe Ruth, that rookie first basem n the Braves are all hopped up over——

Now wait a minute. As I was saying, that rookie first baseman today goes back to Boston where they're throwing a chawder party for him tonight and where he'll sign his first National league contract.

Yep, that's right. First base is the spot the big Bam has picked out for himself. And don't think the old boy doesn't fancy himself as a first baseman. Listen to him:

"Say, I'm pretty good around that bag. I've always wanted to take a shot at it. It's a lot softer than the outfield, especially one like the Braves got and it's a lot easier on the dogs."

Maranville and Ruth.

It was suggested that he and Rabbit Maranville, whose combined age is 85, would make a sight for sore eyes on the infield to which the Babe responded:

"Now don't worry about the Rab and me. Neither of us is through yet by a long shot. We may not be as young or as fast as we were but we got plenty left and we still know our way around."

The Babe has no illusions about himself nor his ability to patrol the vast expanse of Braves outfield, no matter what he may say for public consumption. He played first base in nearly all the Yankees' exhibition games for many years and he's far better than a green pea at the job.

Says Dean Is Great.

He also is well aware that he could play nearly every Saturday, Sunday and holiday at first base but it's no cinch that he could do as much if he were in the outfield.

And what does Mr. Ruth think about the National league pitchers, especially Dizzy Dean, who was the only one in baseball to weigh in with an anti-Ruth blast?

The Babe guffawed: "That Dean's a great pitcher all right. He showed me plenty in the last world series but they can all be hit and if he happens to come down the middle with that fast one of his some day, well, I may give it a ride."

Ellwood To Meet Rochester High

Tubers Favored To Win Another Inter-Sectional Game Here Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 1—Ellwood City High cagers are out for another inter-sectional victory when they meet Rochester High at Lincoln gym this evening. The Reserves of both schools will met in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

The locals tapered off drilling for this game with a hard scrimmage yesterday and are in top form. Coach "Ganzy" Benedict will have his entire varsity squad available for the game and is planning to try several combinations. Flanagan and Young of the Reserves were used in the game with Union Township High last Tuesday, and gave a creditable performance. They are expected to see some action tonight.

Bill Cole, local star forward, and second high scorer in Section 3 will be a marked man tonight. The visitors have especially formed their defense to stop him. But judging from past performances the local ace will be hard to stop, since he appears to do better under pressure. The locals revealed a fine attack last Tuesday and hope to get clicking again.

Rochester High in Section 12 has won three games and lost seven. They are primed for the Tubers.

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 1—Wonder of wonders that happens in so many millions of deals according to mathematicians occurred here last evening when Tom Barnes held the perfect bridge hand—13 spades.

After the bidding in auction had started it developed that all had good hands. Miss Sharpe and Robuck had run the bidding to five hearts. Test Papers Give Congressman Jar

Some Of The "Boners" Which Were Pulled By Applicants For Jobs

(International News Service)

SUNBURY, Pa. Mar. 1—Congressman James Gildea, of this district, admittedly is "shocked" by some of the answers recorded on the test papers by his candidates to the naval academy at Annapolis, answers which he believes every high school student should know.

None of his appointees passed the entrance examinations and Gildea attributes the failures to over emphasis on football and less stress on academic studies.

Gildea has selected a few "boners" as representative answers from some of the examination papers. "One student," he revealed, "said Zane Grey wrote, "As You Like It," while another was of the opinion that Milton Sills was the author.

"Then that good old American poet, Longfellow, added a best seller to his long list of writings when another student gave him credit for writing 'Main Street,' the work of Sinclair Lewis. And the Revolutionary War General, Baron Von Steuben, was listed as an ace with the French air forces during the World War."

The highest score attained by any of the eight candidates who took the examination was 47.61 per cent while the low was 9.64, according to Gildea. Of the group, there was only one applicant who has had both four years of high school and college training and his average was a fraction better than 42, he said.

"Boys who are interested in entering the military or naval academy will have to put more stress on their studies and less time on football if they expect to pass the examinations," Gildea observed. "They spend entirely too much time on the game and are very poorly prepared when they meet such examinations as the academies require."

Plumbing Only New Thing About Modern Housing

Otherwise Houses Are Much The Same As Before Christian Era

(International News Service)

BOSTON,—That modern man has contributed little to architecture except modern plumbing is the conclusion drawn from a glimpse at an exhibition of miniature houses dating from 12,000 B. C., on display at Massachusetts Institute of Technology's school of architecture.

"Modernistic" dwellings of the present had their counterpart in the houses of Egyptian noblemen of 4,000 B. C., while log cabins and summer houses now in architectural style, carry more than a note of similarity to the "long houses" of the Iroquois Indians in the 17th century.

Reproductions of early American homes now that the standardization of lumber into four and eight-foot lengths has done nothing to improve the beauty of modern reproductions over originals which were laid out "by rule of thumb."

Modern architects seem reluctant to digress from classical or modern modes in designing houses. Replicas of Norman and Georgian mansions in Wellesley and West Newton might have been lifted from another century save that they have modern plumbing.

One of the features of the exhibit is a model of a thatched neolithic lake house of 12,000 B. C., resembling in many respects, including, the steep-roofed river huts of tribes which still exist in Africa and the Orient.

State Dry Organizations To Demand Changes In Liquor Laws

Demand State Tighten Up On Liquor Laws

Dry Organizations Declare Saloon Is Back Worse Than Ever

Declare Jail Sentences For Drunken Drivers Should Be Made Mandatory

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1.—Declaring "The saloon has returned and in far worse form than in previous days," 11 state-wide dry organizations today demanded drastic tightening up of the present state liquor laws;

Resolutions prepared by a committee headed by John A. McSparran, former state secretary of agriculture, and adopted at a conference here called for more stringent laws on drunken driving with mandatory jail sentences for second and subsequent offenses.

Other resolutions adopted urged extension of local option elections and establishment of "dry" zones within a radius of 300 feet of churches, schools, colleges, hospitals and similar institutions.

Oppose Liquor Advertising

The organizations adopted resolutions urging that no liquor be sold to minors or intoxicated persons and that dispensation of liquor by minors or women be prohibited. The commonwealth was asked to give more stringent "protection" to territories which have voted "dry". Liquor advertising also was opposed.

"If Pennsylvania is to continue in the liquor business, we insist that the profits accruing therefrom be appled to the cost of takng care of the consequences of the traffic," another resolution urged.

Organizations represented at the conference were: Anti-Saloon League; Women's Christian Temperance Union; National Reform association; Lord's Day Alliance; Western Pennsylvania Sabbath association; Dry State committee; Pennsylvania State grange; State Council of Christian Education; Christian Endeavor Union and Pennsylvania Council of Churches.

New Tariff Treaty Made With Belgium Is Strongly Assailed

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The reciprocal tariff treaty just signed with Belgium aroused congressional Republicans into a new assault upon the administration's tariff policy today.

Their leaders not only seized upon the treaty as a campaign issue but they planned an effort to create such widespread protests that further treaties may be halted. The Belgian treaty, first to be negotiated with a European nation, is expected to be followed by others in which mutual tariff concessions are made.

Industries Of East Sacrificed.

The Republicans charged that industries in the east are being sacrificed by the administration's tariff policy. But administration leaders declared agriculture and many industries would gain by the increased international trade fostered by the trade agreements.

House Republican Leader Snell of New York assigned members to investigate the Belgian treaty and its effect on American industry.

Freighter Captain Dies From Attack

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To Former Commander Of Byrd Supply Ships

(International News Service)

LYNN, Mass., Mar. 1—Captain Fred Melville, 57, commander of supply ships for Admiral Richard E. Byrd in Antarctic dashes of 1928 and 1930, died aboard his freight steamship Angeles while a hospital ship lost a race with death out of New York harbor.

News of the death of the famous "sea dog" was received by his wife and three children today as the Angeles with the dead commander aboard put into New York.

Captain Melville, who twice rescued the Bryd expeditions from the grip of the ice barriers of Christmas Bay, had been suffering from a heart ailment. Last week he refused hospital treatment and sailed aboard the Angeles from Boston to Philadelphia. Last night, on the return voyage, he was again stricken. A call went to the New York hospital ship but it was too late.

Cummings' Case Nears Completion

DEFENDANT DENIES SHOOTING HIS WIFE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1.—Tom Cummings, former Swissvale police chief, made a final bid for acquittal on charges he murdered his wife, shortly before the defense rested its case in criminal court here today.

Summations were begun immediately and the case may go to the jury before nightfall.

In a final attempt to acquit the former officer of charges he vehemently denies, the defense placed John Corey, Swissvale patrolman, on the stand. Corey testified he was called to the Cummings home a short time after the murder.

Describing the bedroom, he asserted:

"The top covers of the bed were bloody on the left side where the body was, and on the other side they were moved around and ruffled up."

Defense counsel hoped this testimony would offset that given by state witnesses who said the side of the bed on which Mrs. Cummings' body lay was in disorder while the other side was smooth, as if no one had slept there.

This testimony was designed to show that Cummings had not gone to bed on the night of the shooting as he contends.

Father Dies In Electric Chair; Son To Follow

Death Summons Philip Wagner

Aged Civil War Veteran Expires At Home Shortly Before Noon

READING PAPER WHEN END CAME

Philip Wagner, 92, pioneer business man of New Castle, joined his comrades of the Roundhead regiment today. At 11 o'clock as he sat in his home at 300 Rhodes Place, the Grim Reaper he had met on the field of battle beckoned him, and with no struggle he slipped away. Earlier in the morning he had seemed to be in his usual health. He had breakfasted and sat reading the newspapers when the end came without warning or struggle.

Mr. Wagner was one of the few remaining veterans of the Civil War in Lawrence county. As a boy of 17 he joined the 100th Pennsylvania Volunteers, the now famous "Roundheads", and served with them throughout the four-year conflict between the states. From Port Royal, S. C., on through 20 battles, at Bull Run, at Antietam, Knoxville, before Vicksburg, at Petersburg, he fought, and was wounded but once, that on June 7, 1862, when he was wounded in the knee. On May 12, 1865, he was made a sergeant of Company H, the company he enlisted with in 1861. Strangely enough, he had two brothers in the Confederate army.

Born in Union County

He was born in Union county on March 8, 1843, but as a boy of eight years he came to New Castle, just four years after Lawrence county was established. Returning from the Civil War, he was married shortly after to Miss Isabel Ray, who preceded him in death six years ago. In 1868 he entered the business world as a feed and grain merchant, and for 62 years he was engaged in this business on North Mercer street.

Despite his years he continued active in the business with his son,

Four Are Dead, Nine Injured, In Gas Blast

Ruins Of Building At Edwardsville, Pa., Are Searched For Victims

BLAST THROWS TOWN IN PANIC

Mining Community Was Scene Of Recent "American Tragedy" Case

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Mar. 1.—Rescue workers today resumed digging for additional victims in ruins of the building at Edwardsville where a gas explosion killed four persons, including a new-born babe, and sent nine others to the hospital.

Although there were no immediate indications other victims were still in the ruins, authorities decided to sift all the debris as a matter of precaution.

Authorities meanwhile launched an official investigation of the blast that threw the little mining community, scene of the recent "American tragedy" slaying, into a state of near panic for several hours. Volunteer searchers aided police and firemen in clearing away most of the wreckage under the glare of searchlights last night.

Blame Gas Leak

Many of those in the hospital were in a taproom on the first floor that was reduced to splinters by the blast. The explosion shattered windows in scores of nearby building and damaged several others more seriously. A leak in a gas main near the building was found by employes of the Luzerne County Gas and Electric Company last night.

The dead were: Peter Moran, 22,

POLICE BELIEVE BOY WAS SLAIN

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Mar. 1—Following discovery of the body of 13 year old Frank Suhovecky, missing for 10 days, authorities today pressed their investigation of the case, expressing opinions that the boy was slain.

The body of the lad was found at the bottom of Lake Cohasset in Mill Creek Park, where police were directed in an anonymouse note received by Mike Suhovecky, older brother of the slain boy. The latter's head was gashed and one eye was blackened.

Police released an aged trapper who was questioned in an attempt to trace the paper on which the note was written. Handwritting tests failed to show he had written the note.

Several Arrested By Highway Patrol

The 1934 permits expired at midnight. A total of 78,640 persons obtained licenses during the last day's rush. Officials expected another 41,000 cards would be issued today.

LINDBERGH BABY STOLEN FROM CRIB THREE YEARS AGO

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—March 1, 1932...A shadowy figure creeps into the nursery of a lonely mansion near Hopewell, N. J. Strong fingers close around the throat of a sleeping baby, tearing him from his crib.

Man and babe vanish into the blustery night.

The crime of the century has been committed!

March 1, 1935...The baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., lies in his grave. The "shadowy figure", who baffled the world's best police minds for two and one half years, at last sits in the death house of the New Jersey state prison at Trenton.

From Trenton this morning comes that word that Bruno Richard Hauptmann is crouching in the far corner of his bare cell while other death house inmates fling at him again and again the stark challenge: "Where were you three years ago today?"

Thus reads the three-year synopsis of civilization's most notorious crime today as the world awaits the

Trio In Attempted Hold-Up At Bessemer Given Prison Terms

Homer Chrisner, confessed would-be robber of the Bessemer bank, "brains" of the hold-up of William Binzley in Ellwood City and the holdup of a colored club on Grant street, will have the next five and a half years to consider his actions in the Western penitentiary. In sentence court Thursday afternoon Chrisner received a total of 5½ to 11 years in the Western penitentiary for his crimes with severe sentences for his pals in the various jobs.

Edward "Jack of Diamonds" Scales, colored, who threw the gun on Cashier Weitz of the Bessemer bank on January 31, drew rfom 4 to 8 years for his participation. In addition, he has 18 months of a parole violation to complete, which bring his total up to 5½ years net.

Marie Arredondo, alias Nellie Sellers, drew from 2½ to 5 years in the Western penitentiary for her part in the Bessemer holdup attempt.

Three Sentences.

Chrisner drew three sentences. For the Bessemer job he got 4 to 8 years, for the holdup of William Binzley in Ellwood City on October 26, 1934, he got 1½ to 3 years and for the robbery of a colored club on Grant street the same dose. The latter two sentences run concurrently, but they follow the original sentence of from 4 to 8.

In addition, all three of the prisoners sentenced were fined $1 and costs of the prosecution.

Charles Haynes and Ben Higgins, colored, accomplices of Chrisner in the Ellwood City robbery, fared much better. Higgins was placed upon probation for three years and fined the costs of the prosecution. Haynes was sentenced to the Huntingdon re-

Order Strike Vote In Auto Industry

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mar. 1.—The American Federation of Labor today announced it has asked its membership in the motor plants to decide whether a general automobile workers strike shall be called.

Francis J. Dillon, chief auto plant organizer, announced that the auto workers' council of the A. F. of L. has ordered a strike vote in the federation's 175 automobile unions.

If the workers vote to strike, the council will call the walkout, affecting approximately 200,000 men, Dillon said.

Any widespread and effective motor strike would be certain to inflict grave damage upon the rising prosperity of the automobile industry, which is in the midst of its best year since 1929.

Prevailing Wage Rate On Relief Work Controversy Grows Intensive

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—A finish fight between President Roosevelt and the senate on the issue of paying prevailing wage rates on his $4,880,000,000 work relief program loomed today after both sides rejected a proposed compromise.

The impasse strengthened the position of senate conservatives, who demanded the whole work relief program be scrapped as extravagantly wasteful and direct relief continued another year. This would call for a $1,880,000,000 appropriation for direct relief, but it could be used for so-called "made work" as is now being done.

Compromise Not Accepted

The compromise would have given the president permissive authority to pay prevailing wage scales in localities where he deemed such rates unnecessary to protect existing wage levels and pay his subsistence wage of $50 monthly in

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Mar. 1.—Quite a few of our writers are wondering why J. P. Morgan is selling his paintings. He is getting more for 'em than he give. That might be a small possible clew.

Headline in paper says he is "letting his miniature go." Then I guess he is letting that midget go.

Did you ever see pictures in the paper where a fellow had left his wife for another woman, that the wife he left wasn't better looking than the new one?

All you read about Washington is: How are they going to spend that four billions. There hasn't been even one suggestion as to where it was to come from. It must be marvelous to just belong to some legislative body and just pick money out of the air.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

The Irish have Saint Patrick and the English have Saint George both of whom were men of standing I'll agree, and your Scotchman has St. Andrew who I take it played some golf, though perhaps he never used a wooden tee. But the other nations also have their saints who they revere, and the list is much too long to list just now, but today I'd like to mention the patron Saint of Wales, who was also quite a citizen I trow. The name he has is David and he was a man of might, he reformed the folks I've heard historians say, so I merely want to mention that today for this one saint, weather's warming and its forty-three today.

EARLE AGAIN TO BORROW TAX FUNDS

Local Districts To Get No Funds

Gas Tax Refunds and Liquor License Fees Will Not Be Paid Now

TO USE MONEY TO PAY STATE PENSIONS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1—Local governmental units, denied their gasoline tax and liquor license refunds last December because of pressing relief needs, will be denied their "take" from these funds again by Gov. George H. Earle's emergency program to provide money for old age and blind pensions.

Bills being prepared by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti for introduction in the legislature next Monday night provide for transferring a total of $3,090,000 from these two funds to enable needy and blind to be paid pensions for February, March, April and May. Governor Earle has asked the legislature to remain in session five days next week to enact the bills.

The administration originally planned to take $1,200,000 from fire insurance tax fund, but a study showed there was no money available in this fund for transfer. With a balance today of $1,856,128 the fund cannot quite meet liabilities against it. About $600,000 is owed to local firemen's relief associations and $1,300,000 must be transferred to the general fund under the relief acts of 1934.

It was expected $2,000,000 will be taken from the liquor fuels tax fund which today contains $2,514,532. This money, representing one-half cents a gallon tax on gasoline, is due to be distributed among local communities June 1.

The remaining $1,090,000 probably will come from the liquor license fund which has a balance of $1,116,023. This money was scheduled to be distributed to local political subdivisions last month. It represents fees paid for by-the-drink liquor establishments.

Both these funds were tapped during the 1934 special session to provide for relief, thus preventing scheduled distributions of their balances in December. The legislature took $3,766,000 from the liquor fuels fund and $2,137,000 from the liquor fund.

Income Tax

No. 29

DEDUCTION FOR LOSSES OTHER THAN FROM SALE OR EXCHANGE OF CAPITAL ASSETS

Deductions for losses are divided into four classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income tax law. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business, or profession; (2) in any transaction entered into for profit; (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualties, or from theft; and (4) from wagering transactions.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish, the loss is deductible. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible, as it falls in class 3. If, because of faulty driving but not of "willful negligence," an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged, the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible.

Losses from wagering transactions, whether legal or illegal, are deductible only to the extent of gains from such transactions. The excess of such losses over the gains is not deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent to which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

epilogue...death in the electric chair for Hauptmann.

It is a far cry from that hopeless, frantic night of three years ago today.

Authorities knew that a strange kind of criminal was abroad—a man whose greed for money was matched by his twisted urge to commit "the greatest crime in the world". But that is all they knew. There were no clues except a weird ladder and a rude note, bearing cabalistic symbols.

How this ladder ultimately was traced to Hauptmann's attic, branding him as the long hunted freak among criminals, how the note was turned into a virtual "confession" that Hauptmann invaded the Lindbergh nursery are matters of recent history.

"Find my baby," she screamed to a neighbor, Albert Metzker, one of the first to reach the scene. The baby was found dead in a pile of wreckage. Another child, Peter, Jr., 4, was found in what remained of the bedroom and carried to safety. Mrs. Sheypuk was in a serious condition in the hospital where her husband and Peter also were taken.

other localities. It differed but little from the Russell plan, which was beaten by the senate.

The president notified senate leaders he opposed any provision which might restrict his use of the huge relief fund. He intimated he felt his personal honor had become involved in the senate controversy and indicated he believed the issue to be whether he could be trusted to spend the relief fund in a proper manner.

The compromise also was turned down by Senator McCarran (D) of Nevada, author of the prevailing wage amendment, and by other progressive leaders and by 50 national leaders of the A. F. of L.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS THEY SAY

But Legislators Resent Hint That Maybe They Stray Off Narrow Path Week-Ends

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1.—Two Beaver county legislators arose today to defend themselves and their colleagues from insinuations in a resolution offered by Rep. Blake B. Shugarts, Clearfield, asking appointment of a secret committee of three to "shadow" lawmakers and find out how they spend their week ends in Harrisburg.

In reply to Shugarts who later amplified his resolution by stating the great number of pretty women on Harrisburg streets made it a dangerous place for legislators temporarily not under surveillance by their wives, Reps. Reuben A. Nagel and Peter P. Reising today declared:

"We resent the implication that we waste our time in frivilous activities. In our opinion the great majority of the legislators are not men of the type that do. We are here in the interest of the people we represent. When we remain here over week ends our time is spent in familiarizing ourselves with the state government and its functions, so that we can intelligently deal with state business as it come up, or in looking after matters for our constituents."

Treat Constipation THE WAY THAT DOCTORS DO

Use A Liquid Laxative

Doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives. So would you, if you knew how well they do their work—how much better you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly without any help.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that does not encourage variation from the "fixed dose"—too often an overdose for sensitive persons, or young people! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a doctor's prescription, and safe.

Try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity. Those who have made the "liquid test" know why a doctor favors a liquid laxative.

SUB-JUNIOR MEMBERS DISCUSS NOTED WOMEN

An interesting discussion on "Noted Women" featured the meeting of Sub-Junior Women club members, held in the home of Jeanice Finch on Garfield avenue, Thursday evening, the meeting also being marked by a splendid attendance.

Following routine work, the girls heard three fine papers on the above subject, the first one being on "Ruth Bryan Owen" and given by Betty Cole. The second article on "Mary Roberts Rinehart" was chosen by Betty Rice, and the third paper prepared by Betty McConahy, was centered on "Jennie Lind". Each revealed many interesting facts that were noteworthy, and a short discussion ensued.

Plans were suggested for the organizing of a dramatic department in the club, the final steps to be considered at their next session. Officers who will preside at the March sessions, were elected as follows: President, Grace Bell; secretary, Betty Rice; treasurer, Gretchen Smith.

TURNING TO JAPAN

IT has often been wished that China would pull itself together, stand on its own feet and fight its own battles. Signs of the fulfillment of this wish are now appearing. At least the Nanking government appears convinced that the Chinese are not going to get the financial, diplomatic and, perhaps, other help they have wanted from the Western world.

This is the explanation offered in Shanghai dispatches of President Chang Kai Shek's readiness to work out a plan of cooperation with Japan and Premier Wang's prediction: "It is quite certain that a rational solution of the fundamental issues between the two countries will be obtained."

Mrs. Pearl M. Buck, who is conceded to know her China and who is now lecturing in this country, mentions this as one of the important present-day trends. The Chinese, she says, are disappointed that the League of Nations didn't give them material help when Japan invaded Manchuria and that the United States has not paid much regard to China's wishes in its silver policy. As a result of these and other indifferent attitudes the Chinese are turning their faces away from the West and taking up again their Eastern viewpoint. Such, at any rate, is the present situation in Nanking, which is apprehensive over the way the Chinese public and the Cantonese leaders will react to a rapprochement with Japan.

Japan's pressure to bring China into its orbit is unrelenting. If the mood of the Nanking leaders is correctly reported, China will tend to swing out of the orbit of the Western nations. Western prestige will naturally diminish. The cry of Asia for the Asiatics will gain more significance. In the long run it may prove perilous for Japan, which has never shown capacity for assimilating other people, while China has absorbed the outsiders who have undertaken to rule over it. For those obsessed by the yellow peril it spells j-i-t-t-e-r-s.

MAN STILL RESPONSIBLE

A St. Louis man has just learned that the old common law presumption that a man is responsible for the acts of his wife can still be invoked.

A St. Louis relief worker went to call on a family which had been on relief for some time, and an argument developed. Husband and wife began calling her names, and before long the wife got angry enough to sail in and start clouting her on the head.

Presently the husband and the wife were arraigned in court. The judge refused to send the wife to jail, because she had the children to look after; instead, he gave the husband a 60-day term, although the husband had not lifted his hand during the set-to.

Here is an old-but-new slant on the ancient question of husbandly responsibility which, if generally adopted, might give a good many husbands food for sober reflection.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Amid all her multifarious activities, Mrs. Roosevelt expresses concern over the conviction of Bruno Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnaping trial.

The good lady seems to be uncertain of the value that should be attached to circumstantial evidence. As the wife of the man who is the head of the law enforcement machinery of the nation, it might be well for Mrs. Roosevelt to ponder more deeply the well-tried rules that apply to circumstantial evidence. Justice Trenchard, who sat through the trial, said this in his charge:

"But the crime of murder is not one which is always committed in the presence of witnesses, and if not so committed it must be established by circumstantial evidence or not at all."

The charge of Justice Trenchard would be profitable reading for Mrs. Roosevelt.

THEY REPAIR THE HUMAN MOTOR

The human body often is spoken of as an intricate piece of machinery. Surgeons take certain sections of it apart, figuratively speaking, when the mechanism does not function efficiently, and put them together again. Sometimes they even supply new parts. But when it comes to operating on the human motor, the heart, they encounter an obstacle which is difficult to overcome. It is hard to repair any engine while it is running.

The main trouble with working on the heart is that once it stops, the chances of it resuming its function are remote. But despite this handicap, surgeons gradually are developing means which in the future may make operations on that delicate organ as certain of success as is the case with more routine operations.

At a Cleveland hospital the other day surgeons performed an apparently successful operation on a man's heart for that deadly affliction, angina pectoris. The patient is steadily gaining strength. The operation was one of the miracles of modern surgery. Yet it did not attract half the attention the public gives a "first-class murder." We humans are a strange race.

RETAIL SALES

All indices have indicated that retail sales sharply recovered in 1934. The actual increase is now shown by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce to have been $3,511,000,000, or 14 per cent, leaving 1933 to stand as the lowest in dollar sales business for the depression period. In contrast the stock and commodity market averages touched bottom in 1932.

Greatest resistance to depression influences has been offered by the variety stores, composed largely of chain organizations. Last year their dollar business recovered to 73 per cent of their 1929 total, as against 58 per cent for all retail business. Incidentally their 1933 business was greater than in 1932. Second-hand stores were second with 71 per cent and restaurants, which were helped last year by repeal, were third with 67 per cent. The country general store is among the four groups that have suffered the heaviest drop.

Such January figures as have become available to date reveal a continued improvement as compared with a year ago. We seem to be on our way. Even the capital goods industries, though still very sick, are doing better.

But so often, when he's a one-idea man, it's a one-man idea.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE CITY GUY

HE WAS a few years older than we were, and the girls liked him. . . . So we didn't. We hated him. He was one of those City Guys and we weren't. And the difference between him and us ranked more than we were willing to admit.

In the first place he had such nice manners. And he was always manicuring his nails. And his dark hair had a wave in it. And he danced, too well. And he talked so glibly. And, to hear HIM talk, he'd been everywhere. . . . And besides that he had more money than we did, because he worked in the big store in our littled town, and we were still going to school. . . . And also, the sneak always noticed what a girl was wearing and even knew the names of the materials that dresses are made of.

It was unfair competition, but what could we do about it?

We could hunt and fish and swim and ride our bikes all over the valley and dig clams in the bay and he couldn't do any of those things—but somehow he had GLAMOR for those silly girls and we didn't. We'd grown up with them and we knew all about them. But so did they know all about us. They'd seen us with bare feet and bloody noses and overalls on and our manners couldn't keep pace with him. So when that City Guy came to town with all his glamor and his yellow shoes and his striped shirts we didn't count any more.

It lasted for about three months, too, and there was nothing we could do. . . . Once he was showing off with his fine language at a picnic and he said that his hands were all "grimmy" and one of the guys hawhawed out loud because we all knew that you don't pronounce "grimy" that way. . . . But the girls didn't pay any attention to us and he was just as popular as ever with them. That guy had charm, that's all, even if he WAS so skinny and weak.

But finally his boss fired him because he wasn't doing his work and was running around with the girls too much. . . . So he went back to the city and we never saw him again. Guys like that get along in a city all right, but they don't get by so well in a small town. You get onto them too quick.

BOOSTING BRINGS PLEASURE IN ITSELF

What a lot of joy the purveyor of compliments and good news gets out of life!

There is considerable satisfaction in the conviction that you have passed on news of a favorable nature.

It is good to warm the heart of another and see his look of appreciation.

Of course, some never give any outward indication that they are in any way affected by favorable reports concerning themselves.

But down deep in their hearts they are glad.

It is not surprising that they are pleased to hear complimentary things.

Everyone likes to be appreciated, especially if he has made an effort to be interesting or helpful.

If those who circulate bad reports would reverse the order they might create a better feeling in their own hearts.

Certainly they would add happiness to those they contact.

It might be well to repeat a few good things you have heard to the persons particularly concerned and note the result of the experiment.

You might find yourself better pleased with yourself by boosting rather than by knocking.

Suppose you try it today.

Dear Robert Browning, to be your reader
I am reminded whenever I try
Of our boyhood game called "Follow the Leader!"

"Follow the leader!" we used to call,
And away the swiftest and boldest darted,
Leading us over the garden wall,
Swift and agile and merry-hearted.

Harder and sterner the contest grew.
Some of us soon at the hurdles stumbled.
Some were too frightened the feats to do,
Others from dangerous ledges tumbled.

Still the leader went boldly on,
Gracefully treading on beam and rafter,
And the game was ended when there was none
Remaining with courage to follow after.

Dear Old Browning, today I find
Wide is the gap between writer and reader.
Still am I faltering far behind;
I the follower, you the leader!

The Hauptmann jury must have suffered. Cutting all mention of the trial from their papers doubtless spoiled a lot of the comic strips.

This year all the county and city offices will be sought by both Republicans and Democrats. Not that they haven't in the past, but in former years, the Democrats didn't have much more chance than the proverbial rabbit in hades. Now they're flushed with their recent victories and are buckling on their spurs for fight. Republicans seem to feel that recent victories of the Dems was an accident and that the right is bound to prevail. Well, there's going to be a hot time anyhow, and we shall see what we shall see.

The World At A Glance

Morgan Eyes Future. Where Is He Investing? Hughes Is Responsive.

Central Press
New York Bureau

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 1.—J. P. Morgan's disposal of real estate and paintings, "to put his estate into more manageable shape," may be in preparation for inflation.

People would like to know what Morgan will do with the cash.

His scouts in Washington probably have informed him that President Roosevelt has lost control of congress, and that a majority of the house, at least, is hell-bent for inflation.

But Morgan is not likely to take his money to England.

At last reports, money was in flight from England. Business has dropped in England, and there is talk of further depreciation of the pound——another "shot in the arm."

Perhaps Morgan has some particular securities in mind that would rise or, better, that would remain safe during a period of inflation.

But his disposal of real estate is puzzling some, for real estate is supposed to appreciate during inflation. Probably Morgan foresees a still further increase in taxation, which would drive unused realty into use. The real estate which Morgan has on the market is unused. Taxes may be reaching confiscatory proportions.

Yet why should Morgan dispose of valuable paintings? Inflation probably would increase their value.

Or does Morgan believe that a social evolution will make any tangible wealth a target?

Many men would give a small fortune to know Morgan's reasoning—or, perhaps, the reasoning of his shrewd partners and legal staff.

COURTS

Once more there arises within liberal circles, joined now by New Deal adherents, a suggestion for a constitutional amendment to prohibit courts, including the United States supreme court, from invalidating legislation enacted by congress.

The United States is the only country in the world in which the legislative body can be overruled by a court—particularly by a court not elected by the people.

Strict legalists may shrink at bringing courts into close contact with the mass of people, but what is the reason for law except to bring social justice? Such is the question put by liberals.

Yet many judges try to bring social justice into conformity with outworn legal practices.

* * *

HUGHES RESPONSIVE

Much has been said of the "liberalization" of Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes of the U. S. supreme court. He is not liberal so much as responsive to the social and economic evolution of the age.

A question freely asked now is: "What would have occurred if President Hoover had appointed a conservative to the supreme court bench—as he undoubtedly desired—instead of Justice Benjamin Cardozo?"

There would have been an adverse decision on the gold clause and other essential questions of the age.

And what would have been the result of that? Chaos—and perhaps worse, administrationists tell us.

The supreme court has not always been wiser than congress nor has it been as infallible as the judgment of citizens who are not so cloistered. Many students of history believe that the supreme court's Dred Scott decision brought on the Civil War.

In brief, while a judicial check is advisable, there is nothing in a lawyer that raises him in understanding and intelligence above the remainder of his fellow men. Especially is that true when it is realized virtually every federal judgeship appointment is made on a political basis, not because of the merit of the man. (There are, of course, exceptions.)

That applies even to some supreme court appointments. Presidents have a habit of "getting rid" of men by placing them on the supreme court bench. Fortunately, the last few appointments have not been of that nature.

MAKES OBSERVATIONS

Dear Editor:

Do the police expect autoists to obey traffic signals and signs, when the sign at the intersection of Atlantic avenue and West Washington street, is allowed to remain? It states, "safe detour," which means drive more than one half mile or more to get to a designated place.

The same spot can be reached by traveling only a thousand feet, with no obstructions. That may be all right for strangers, but the man about town who knows that the police department does not mean what it says, or that they do not enforce traffic laws only to the extent of about one percent. Cars park in "no parking" zones within a half square of the main street and police pass by and they stay parked for a half hour to four hours. Just now, as I write this, a car is parking in a "no parking" zone in Apple Way and it has been there for three and a half hours and may be there that many more. And a police officer is supposed to use no discrimination.

There is no day that cars are not parked, especially in Apple Way, where RWD workers and others, mostly others, park in this restricted zone, from a half hour to three hours, and block traffic. If it was some fellow walking along the street who had too many drinks, and a policeman happened along who didn't like him, you know where he would go.

SMILING THRU

Bill Fox may well be called the champion optimist. He was sitting on the roof of his house during a flood, watching the water flow past, when the neighbor who owned a boat rowed across to him.

"Hello, Bill!" said the man.

"Hello, Sam!" replied Bill, pleasantly.

"All your fowls washed away this morning?"

"Yes, but the ducks can swim."

"Orange trees gone, too?"

"Yes, but everybody said the crop would be a failure anyhow."

"I see the river's reached above your windows, Bill."

"That's all right, Sam," was the reply. "Them windows needed washin'."

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

Today's Yesterdays—March 1, 1469—William Caxton, 46, cloth-dealer, began at Bruges, Belgium, a translation of a French edition of a classis history of Troy.

It is remembered because after he completed it, in September, the work kept a corps of copyists busy supplying manuscripts for wealthy English who were able to read and some who wanted to show evidence of culture.

After he had seen some works of Coster, Faust, Gutenburg and others, he financed a press and a font of type for one Colard Mansion and became the first English printer.

March 1, 1711—First issue of the Spectator, edited by Joseph Addison and Richard Steele, both then 39, appeared in London.

It is memorable because it was the first attempt made anywhere to instruct and amuse unlearned readers by short literary papers appearing daily and selling for pennies.

March 1, 1846—12,000 Mormons from Nauvoo and other points east followed Brigham Young carpenter, across the Mississippi and through the snow westward, leaving behind them burned and plundered houses, whipping posts and nooses that bespoke the intolerance of their neighbors for the beliefs of the sect founded by Joseph Smith.

March 1, 1867—Nebraska entered the Union as the 37th state by proclamation of President Andrew Johnson.

March 1, 1932—Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was kidnaped and murdered at Hopewell, N. J., or nearby.

That wet sand is heavier than dry sand.

When sand is dampened moderately its volume increases out of all proportion to the amount of water added. This bulking is due to a film of water which forms around the individual grains and prevents them from flowing together. If, however, sand is thoroughly saturated so that all voids are filled with water, it again approximates its original weight, measure for measure.

Civic Theatre Guild Scores Fine Success

LARGE CAST DOES EXCEPTIONAL WORK

Twelve good men and true, six of them were women, returned a verdict of mirth in the first degree Thursday night in the Senior High School auditorium when "Ladies of the Jury" was presented by the players of the New Castle Civic Theatre Guild. Filled with chuckles, more especially as to the first and third acts, the play provided a humorous vehicle for the talents of twenty local players, all of whom were cast with rather unusual care.

The play concerns the trial of one Mrs. Gordon, formerly Yvette Yvet, a French actress who has been accused of the murder of her broker husband, Romney Gordon. Unlike the usual run of mine plays about a murder, this one leaves the horrific details of the crime to the imagination and concerns the presentation of the case to the jury in the first act, and the deliberations of the jury in the second and third acts. In those deliberations the audience got a closeup view of an average American jury dispensing justice, and back of the laughs was the stark fact that too many juries dispense justice in the same manner. For verification check the list of acquittals in Lawrence County in the past fifteen years.

Sparkling Dialogue

The play is replete in sparkling dialogue, built around the efforts of Mrs. Crane a lorgnette tosser who believes Mrs. Gordon innocent. The other eleven believe her guilty and the strategy of Mrs. Crane in winning the eleven over to her side provides as pleasant an evening's entertainment as we've had here for some time.

The fat part, that of Mrs. Crane went to Mrs. John McIlwraith, who once again demonstrated a rather amazing agility in her presentation of the part. The author, Fred Ballard, has written into his part enough lines for several parts but Mrs. McIlwraith was on top of her role throughout. It called for poise, austerity, and a practical lesson in applied psychology, all of which she had.

As to the other parts, 23 in all, each of them deserves something in the way of attention but lack of space prevents this. One recalls with amusement the puritanical part of Lily Pratt taken by Evelyn Pearson, or Mayme Mixter, taken by Jerry Haines. The righteous indignation of Jay J. Pressley, taken by Dudley Arnold calls for something more than just a word, as did Steve Bromm, taken by Thomas Cunningham, or Evelyn Snow, taken by Miss Betty Glover. The Irish character of Mrs. Maguire taken by Mettie Round or that of the judge and the attorneys all had their moments and the moments were entertaining. And along this line a word for the policeman Art Dobbs, taken by Fred Hodd.

All Of Them Good

If you don't mind we'll just classify all of them as unusually good and let it go at that. What the Civic Theatre Guild players did, in addition to providing an evening's entertainment was to justify the existence of a theatre group here. With the talent in the cast, and other talent available, New Castle has every right to expect a theatre group to prosper here and as long as they produce such amusing extentaining plays as "Ladies of the Jury" they can be very sure of box office encouragement by the citizenry.

The play was sponsored by the Trinity church and the work of the sponsors was rewarded by a full house. What the audience thought of the play was evidenced by its applause and the recurrence of those laughs which originate in the diaphragm and work up.

The cast of characters and the committee in charge follows:

Parkers Landing Hopes For Thaw

(International News Service)

PARKERS LANDING, Pa., Mar. 1.—Flood-fearful residents and industrialists looked hopefully today for warm sunlight to provide a gradual liberation of the ice-locked Allegheny valley before more rain endangers this community.

Although high water already has invaded some buildings, the Allegheny river was falling slowly, a drop of 1.2 feet being registered since yesterday.

Barring additional rain, it was said enough water might pass through the small opening in the ice pack to relieve the threatened district. Parkers' water works was out of commission, engines being hoisted from flooded pit-blocks.

Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman, at Pittsburgh, said the outlook was "favorable," although the district was still in danger should rain suddenly strike the upper valley.

Earle Attacks Legislators For Being So Slow

Failure To Enact Unemployment Relief Brings Censure From Governor

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 1.—Sharp criticism of the state legislature for failure to enact his unemployment relief measures was voiced today by Gov. George H. Earle, who warned that 86,000 families in Pennsylvania are confronted with the threat of reduction or loss of aid from the state after March 15.

With LWD work curtailment throwing thousands out of their relief jobs today despite an additional $9,000,000 grant to the state by the federal government, the governor at his suburban Haverford home roundly flayed the legislature for failure to act speedily, venting his wrath particularly on the state senate.

Declaring that the $9,000,000 federal grant will be sufficient to last only until about March 13 or 15, the executive said:

"After that the situation will be the same as before."

Your Sympathy

Words say so little when the Grim Reaper strikes. Our emotions are incapable of expression and in our stumbling, human way we endeavor to solace the bereaved. Try as we will, words are still inadequate. Not even flowers can express our emotion to the full but at least they are the most expressive medium we know. And when the flowers are arranged—tastefully and delivered fresh, their sympathy seems to be accentuated.

Guffey Coal Bill Severely Scored

West Virginia Coal Operator Attacks Guffey Bill In Washington

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—J. D. Francis, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., of Huntington, W. Va., today scored the Guffey coal bill before a sub-committee of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Francis, one of the largest coal operators in West Virginia, told the committee that the bill declaring the bituminous coal industry a public utility is too complicated for practical application.

He said he was in favor of federal legislation for stabilization of the industry but that it must be "reasonable and workable."

Francis predicted that if the bill is passed in its present form it will be taken to the courts and thrown out.

"It is impossible to classify the bituminous coal industry as a public utility," he said, "and I believe that if the bill should be taken before the courts it would be found unconstitutional because of this."

SHE FELT MARVELOUS WHEN HABITS BECAME REGULAR

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Relieved Her Constipation*

Read this splendid letter: "I tried everything, with little or no results. I felt miserable, was 20 but looked much older, and my skin was continually breaking out.

"I decided to try ALL-BRAN, three meals a day for about a week. Elimination became regular; I felt marvelous and looked better. Even my outlook on life was changed."—Mrs. Armand Hamel, Pawling, N.Y.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. More effective than "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Much more effective than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Cubbing" Essay Continued Today

"Cubbing And Cub Pack" Is Article's Title; Cole Wrote It

EDITOR'S NOTE: Judges chose this essay of Scout Robert Cole, Troop V-37, as the winner in a contest. The third installment is presented today.

Installment No. 3

Tuesday night a crowd of boys were on time eager to join. When all the boys had arrived Mr. Reilly, the newly chosen cub master, entered the room and began addressing the boys: "Boys, we have a plan that we think will please you. Most boys your age would like to be in scouts but are too young, so we are starting a club that we call cubs. We have meetings each week; we play games, pass tests, have contests and have a good time together. The pack is divided into dens and each one of these boys or rather scouts, is in charge of a den and they help you in your tests. In the den will be a denner which will be one of you boys. You will help your den chief and be the leader in your den. Each week the dens can have a meeting in the back yards of the different clubs' homes; your den can meet in a tent or a garage or any place that you want to, just as long as you meet near your homes. There are different ranks to pass then if you pass them, on your twelfth birthday you will be admitted into the scout troop as a tenderfoot scout.

If you bring 20 cents to the next meeting I will sell you a handbook to tell you what to do for the different tests. Then you can get started right away on your tests. Besides meetings in the building we will have wiener roasts, picnics and maybe some hikes.

"Well, I guess that is all that I have to say now so you can go home now but don't forget to come back next week at this same time."

There was happiness in the Winston family because they had solved the problem about Junior.

About noon time Junior came running in trying to tell his dad something that seemed important, and at the same time trying to get his breath from running.

"Now, Junior, take your time and get your breath, then tell me your story."

After Junior had quieted down somewhat, he said: "We have just had a den meeting and I passed my Bob-Cat test and that means that I am a full fledged cub and now I can wear a badge and uniform.

"What did you have to do to obtain that rank," asked Mrs. Winston.

"First, I had to give the cub promise, which is:

"I, John Winston, promise to do my best to be square and to obey the law of the cub pack."

Then I had to give the law of the cub pack:

The cub follows Akela.
The cub helps the pack go;
The pack helps the cub grow,
The cub gives good will.

Next came the motto:

"Do your best."

Then I had to give the cub salute and handshake:

"In giving the cub laws you said something about Akela—who is Akela?" asked Mr. Winston.

"Akela is what we call our cub master," replied Junior.

"What is your next rank?" questioned Mrs. Winston.

"Wolf," was the reply.

"When you each that rank I will get you a cub uniform complete," added Mr. Winston.

"Hot dog," shouted Junior as he ran out the door.

HE-MAN

He was shy and retiring and had waited half an hour at the gate of Mary's home, hoping she would come out. Suddenly the door swung open and a formidable looking woman emerged.

"What are you waiting for?" she snapped.

"For—for-Mary," he stammered.

"Then you'd better clear out," came the reply. "You're not the sort of man we want for her. Why, when her father was courting me and I didn't turn up he climbed the garden wall, strangled the watchdog, forced a window, locked my father in his room, put the ring on my finger, and told me we would be married that evening. That's the kind of a man for Mary!"

STAMP NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE

BY JOHNRAE EARL, SEC. NEW CASTLE STAMP CLUB.

This week the stamp world is humming with news. To start with a bill has been proposed to liberalize the present laws governing the illustrations of United States stamps in our American catalogs and albums. It was presented during this present session but so far has suffered delay. At the present time only a portion of the framework of U. S. stamps can be illustrated. This proposed law has the endorsement of all philatelic societies and collectors and its passage would mean much to all U. S. collectors.

Most Valuable Stamp Offered

Next it has been called to my attention by Donald Copson, local teacher that the most valuable stamp in the world is going to be placed on the auction block in London this June. This will be a good chance for some collector to complete his collection of British stamps or stamps bearing pictures of ships. This stamp would fit in either collection because it was issued for British Guiana in 1856 and bears the picture of an old three masted sailing boat. In order to secure this you will have to outbid the King of England who is interested in it. The person who now owns it has it insured for $48,000, and that will give you a fair idea of the value of the stamp. This doesn't happen to be the first stamp issued however, but it does happen that the first stamp was also issued by Great Britain in 1840. The highest value stamp ever issued was by Germany for fifty million marks, this was issued during their period for inflation and is practically worthless at present.

The National Society of American Art has suggested to Postmaster General Farley that a selection of the five finest paintings completed during 1934 by American Artists to be used as subjects for five United States postage stamps. The paintings to be exhibited for 60 days in the galleries of the society and the five best to be selected by a commission of judges appointed by President Roosevelt. This has just been suggested but my opinion is that it will never be accepted.

The Silver Jubilee Stamps to be issued in honor of King Georges' reign will make their appearance on May 6, the twenty-fifty anniversary of his ascension to the throne. There will be 172 different stamps in this series and they will be used by 43 British Colonies. At the end of the year, all unsold stamps will be taken from circulation and destroyed.

Increase In Business

During 1934 a rise of nearly 100 per cent was announced by the Philatelic Agency over the previous year. The total amount of business for the calender year of 1934 was $910,781 while the receipts for 1933 showed $500,212.

Design Refused

The Connecticut Tercentenary stamp which is supposed to appear this year is going to be delayed for some time. The design selected by the Tercenterary Art Commission showing a protrait of Jonathan Trumbull has been disapproved by President Roosevelt. He feels that a more appropriate design would be better. The Art Commission has appointed an artist to work out a design. It has been suggested that it be a large size stamp and show a map. The artist appointed is drawing several designs, all maps. The best will be sent in to the Postoffice Department.

Farley's Follies

Well, we can't forget Farley's error, because it is one of the biggest questions now confronting the stamp world. The stamps which I listed last week are authentic and will be issued on March 15 at the Philatelic Agency at Washington. The members of the New Castle Stamp Club are making plans to purchase these stamps all in one order and therefore save postage, time and worry. President Glen Montgomery will accept all orders for the stamps. The Postoffice Department is going to handle the official first day covers, and they can be secured by addressing the Department at Washington.

Cover collectors are now endeavoring to secure a complete collection of all Macon covers which of course will be increased in value since the ill-fated accident.

National B. P. W. President, Coming Here, Busy Woman

Mrs. Geline Bowman Runs Home And Business Firm With Success

To many women keeping a home and a business running successfully at the same time seems an almost impossible task. Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, Va., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who is coming to New Castle next Tuesday, constitutes a shining example to the 60,000 members of the organization as to how it may be done.

Mrs. Bowman is able to manage efficiently the affairs of the Expert Letter Writing Corporation, of which she is president, keep her charming home in Westover Hills section of Richmond attractive and livable, and supervise the education of her twin children, Geline and Killian.

Mrs. Bowman's success in the business and professional world is the more remarkable in that she made her advent with practically no business training. Her conspicuous success as a volunteer war worker, selling Liberty Bonds and War Savings stamps, attracted the attention of Col. Thomas B. McAdams, who was vice president of the Merchant's National Bank and later president of the American Bankers' Association. When the war was over he offered her an opportunity to organize a women's department in his bank. This led into a great many business activities. In spite of the magnitude of her enterprises Mrs. Bowman has always found time to take part in civic and philanthropic affairs.

She will be the guest speaker at the annual public relations banquet of the local B. P. W. in The Castleton Tuesday, and will be heard by several hundred prominent club women from this and surrounding cities.

MOURNFUL TASK

A traveling circus had arrived at a small village and the local gossip-carrier hastened out to look thinks over. He found three circus hands sitting in dejected silence.

"What's wrong?" asked the villager.

"The elephant is dead," was the reply.

"I'm sorry, but I'm glad to see you men thought so much of a dumb animal," the villager continued.

"It ain't that," retorted one of the three. "You see, we chaps has got to dig the hole to bury him."

If you wish to keep dresses of chiffon, georgette or other filmy textures from slipping off the clothes hangers, wind rubber bands around each end of the hanger.

NEW HONEY KRUSHED BREAD BAKED BY ORR BAKING CO. RELIEVES CONSTIPATION

Many Report Marvelous Results From Switching To New Cellophane Wrapped Honey Krushed Bread.

Several customers who have eaten the new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread for the last week, report that constipation has been greatly relieved and in many cases eliminated.

The pleasing combination of crushed whole wheat kernels, pure honey and other ingredients, blended by a secret process gives your diet the necessary roughage thereby eliminating dosing with drugs and purges.

Orr's Honey Krushed Wheat Bread regulates and nourishes the internal glands which control elimination. This process of nature clears the intestines and gives new strength and energy. Furthermore, the perfect blending of pure honey, the extra coating of crushed wheat on the outer crust, gives delicious, appetizing flavor.

Baked twice daily and rushed fresh from the ovens, your family will love this rich, wheaty, wholesome bread. And if any member has been troubled by the most common of all American ailments—constipation—quick relief can easily be obtained with Honey Krushed Wheat Bread.

Make This Ten-Day Test.

Hosts of morbid, tired and discouraged men and women are amazed at this new easy way to regulate the bowels. Give it a ten-day trial. After the third or fourth day you will begin to feel more peppy, your bowels will begin to move regularly and you will enjoy life once more.

Honey Krushed Wheat Bread gets right down to the cause of constipation and supplies the needed relief in a natural way. First, its rich, nutty flavor makes it doubly appetizing and second, the crushed whole wheat kernels and pure honey sweetening are easily assimilated. They nourish the digestive glands. They produce the juices that alone enable you to digest the fats and starches. These normally keep you healthy, but if allowed to clog and retard the natural process of elimination, stoppage occurs, headaches and ill-health follows. Constipation is the most prevalent complaint in this country. Honey Krushed Wheat Bread relieves this easily and quickly.

Be sure you get Orr's Honey Krushed Wheat Bread. Look for the extra outer coating of crushed wheat on the crust.

Power Of Republican Majority Is Shown In Attempt To Oust McClure

DIVERGENT FORCES SEEN IN TWO HOUSES

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 1—By standing together as a unit in rejecting the Prince resolution asking for the resignation of Sen. John J. McClure, Republican senators demonstrated a solidarity that bodes evil for Gov. George H. Earle's legislative program.

After the vote was recorded, the Senate loomed greater than ever before as an insurmountable hurdle for many of the governor's bills, especially his constitutional revision and tax programs. The one-sided vote upholding McClure quickly squelched any plans the Earle administration may have nursed to open a fight to release its constitution bil from committee.

Fully aware it was completely in command of the situation, the rugged Republican majority in the upper chamber refused to be stampeded by last minute pressure from liberal quarters on the party demanding action against McClure. So strong was the Republican line that not even state chairman H. Harvey Taylor was able to dent it. Weeks ago he abandoned his efforts to win the Republican solons over to his own private plan to compromise the situation. Knowing beforehand what the result would be, Taylor did not even attend the history making session.

The vote in the McClure case served to emphasize that no matter how much success Governor Earle may enjoy in sending his program through the Democratic house he will in the final analysis be forced to face the Republican majority in the Senate. Just as the house holds the power of life and death over Republican measures introduced in senate so does the upper chamber hold the same power over Democratic measures sent up from the house.

The impact of two such divergent forces as the Republican senate and the Democratic house may result in legislation by compromise. Each may be willing to concede certain points to the other in order to pass some legislation. If that occurs, Governor Earle will be forced to scrap certain sections of his program while the Republicans, although badly defeated in the last election will at least have a chance to enact some of their platform measures.

If as an unexpected extreme the two legislative majorities refuse to adopt conciliatory attitudes there may be no legislation at all for months until stubbornness distinegrates under the necessity for compromise to prevent a breakdown in the state government.

The Earle administration for the moment has the upper hand in the legislature. The governor has released his labor, social welfare, constitutional and tax bills to a friendly majority in the house which has thus far assented to his bidding with only a minimum of prodding from party leaders. When his bills reach the Senate the Republicans will have a strong bargaining point in their hands and they will not hesitate to use it.

By being in a position to delay action in the senate on administration measures, the Republicans expect to be able to force the Democratic house committees to disgorge the hundreds of Republican bills now gathering dust there. Democrats entertain the same hopes about their bills "pickled" in the G. O. P. senate. Both Republicans and Democrats admit the situation calls for the political skill of a Matthew Quay or a Boies Penrose.

Why Stars Aren't Likely To Collide

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON,—"It has been estimated that the space around us that is unoccupied by stars is 100 million, million, million times as times as great as that which the stars themselves occupy".

Thus did Dr. R. F. Sanford, Carnegie Institution astronomer, describe the emptiness of the space in which our tiny universe endlessly whirls.

Provisional measurments made at Mt. Wilson observatory indicate that our galaxy of stars has a diameter of about 1,000,000 light years. A light year is the amount of space covered by a light beam in one year of travel at the rate of about 136,000 miles a second.

Discarding the theory that some day another heavenly body might come crashing into our sun, the astronomer said the possibility was remote. If our stars were represented by little spheres one-eighth of an inch in diameter, they would have to be placed four miles apart to give a true picture of the relative distance between stars.

"Peter Unmasks Falsehood And Hypocrisy"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Eph. 4:25—"Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 3 is Acts 5:1-42: 8:4-25, especially 5:1-6: 8:18-24, the Golden Text being Eph. 4:25, "Wherefore putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another.)

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Our first story regarding Ananias and Sapphira has its background in the beautiful Christian communism of the early Christian communion wherein "the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and soul: and not one of them said that aught of the things which he possessed was his own, but they had all things common.....For neither was there among them any that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold, and laid them at the apostle's feet, and distribution was made unto each, according as any one had need."

Christian Communism

But this communism of material things sprang from a common faith and love "one heart and soul. Communism apart from such unity of faith or based upon atheistic unbelief is something entirely different, a thing as fruitful of curse as the Christian communism of the early church was fruitful of blessing.

God's Flaming Sword

When Ananias and Sapphira pretended to practice complete community of goods with the church, but at the same time held back part of their money is lying deceitfulness they imperiled the purity of the church and God's flaming sword of judgement flashed in judgement to preserve the pure fellowship from defilement. It was not Peter's judgment that smote the liars dead for their falsehood, hypocricy and blasphemy against God the Holy Spirit: "'Peter said, Ananias why hath Satan filled thy heart to lie to the Holy Spirit? Thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God." It was the first recorded case of church discipline. That it effected a wholesome purpose is evident in the reverence it inspired in the church as "great fear came upon the whole church," also in the respect it inspired from believers, "of the rest durst no man join himself to them." and in the effect it had upon sincere and believing folk as "believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women." But this addition came only after some necessary subtraction. The growth followed the spiritual surgery that removed the cancer that soon would have defiled the whole body of Christ. In the light of this story dare we sing. "Take my silver and my gold: not a mite would I withhold?" Christ condemned no sin more severely or more frequently than the sin of hypocrisy the pretending to give what was being withheld. He who is the truth hates a lie whether spoken or acted.

Commercializing Religion

Our second story suggests the peril of attempting to commercialize religion as Simon the sorcerer did when he sought to buy from Peter the power to bestow the Holy Spirit through his hands: "Thy silver perish with thee, because thou hast thought to obtain the gift of God with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right before God." Thus Peter rebuked the sin we call "simony." of bartering in spiritual things and peddling the grace of God for a price. It is the very "gall of bitterness and bond of iniquity."

His Dog's Digging Saves Man's Life

(International News Service)

VICTORIA, B. C. — A mongrel dog, which tagged on to a friendly laborer doing heavy work at the B. C. Nickel Company's development in the mountains near Choate, is a life-saving hero now.

His master was trapped in a snow slide that swept over a power house. The dog was inside the building and escaped injury. Nearest persons at the time were four miles away.

Instinctively the dog began tunneling and finally opened a hole to the trapped laborer, who was revived by the air.

The condition of the man and the amount of digging done by the dog caused rescuers to estimate he had been buried about an hour before the tunneling animal reached him.

POULTRY MEETINGS

Lawrence county poultrymen will be interested in two meetings for the discussion of poultry problems which will be held in the county next week.

The first of these meetings will be held at the home of Charles McClain, North Beaver township, Tuesday evening, March 5, at 8:15 o'clock. At this meeting H. H. Kauffman from State college will discuss "The Early Care of Chicks."

The second meeting will be held in the Fireman's hall in New Wilmington, Wednesday morning, Mar. 6, at 9:30. Mr. Kauffman will discuss feeding and housing problems in addition to questions pertaining to the brooding of the young chicks.

All poultrymen are invited to attend either of these meetings.

DAIRY MEETINGS

R. H. Olmstead, dairy specialist from State college will discuss Bang's Disease of Cattle at three meetings in the county, March 7 and 8.

The first of these meetings will be held in the Scott Township school building in Harlansburg Thursday morning, March 7, at 10:00 o'clock. There will be two meetings on Friday, March 8. The first one will be at the home of E. P. Rader, Little Beaver township at 9:30 a. m., and the second in Pulaski township at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The place of this meeting will be announced later.

On Thursday afternoon, March 7, at 2:00 o'clock, Mr. Olmstead will discuss "Dairy Feeding Problems" at a meeting on the farm of John Eppinger, Plain Grove township. Interested dairymen are invited to attend the meeting.

HATCH CHICKS EARLY TO AVOID TROUBLES

Chicks brooded as early as March or April are less likely to become infested with worms or infected with coccidiosis than those hatched later. Warmth and moisture in May and June provide favorable conditions for common chick troubles.

Since the Grow Healthy Pullet program was started in Pennsylvania, summaries each year show that co-operators lose, on the average, fewer chicks hatched prior to May 1 than of those hatched after that date. Last year there was a loss of 2.35 per cent less with early chicks.

Another advantage with early hatched pullets is that they start to lay as early as October 1. As a result, they produce reasonably good sized eggs during the period of higher prices and are likely to be more profitable than those hatched later.

A good chick is free from pullorum disease or bacillary white diarrhea, is well bred, from parent stock well fed and managed, and is well hatched. Good parent stock is that capable of laying 160 eggs or more a year per bird and these eggs should be of a definitely established large size, 24 ounces or more per dozen.

In considering the source of chicks it is important to obtain them from someone who has the reputation for hatching chicks that live, grow well, and develop into profitable layers. A practical test of the presence of pullorum disease is the number of chicks lost during the first three weeks' Losses should not exceed 10 per cent during the entire growing period.

Co-operators who followed all the steps of the Grow Healthy Pullet program in 1934 lost only 6.13 per cent from hatching time until the chicks were placed in the laying house.

BOUQUETS HELP APPLE TREES TO SET FRUIT

Bouquets of apple blossoms are not only beautiful but useful. Under some conditions such bouquets properly placed in the trees at blossom time may distinctly increase the production of the trees. The value of the bouquet lies in the pollen which is borne by its flowers.

Several grains of pollen must be put on the pistil of each flower in order for that flower to develop into an apple. Practically all varieties of apples set fruit more readily with pollen of a different variety than with their own pollen. A flower will not set fruit more readily with pollen from another tree of the same variety than with its own pollen.

Some varieties like Winesap, Delicious and Stayman, will often set practically no fruit when supplied with only pollen of the same variety but will fruit abundantly when supplied with pollen of a good pollenizing variety, such as Gano, Jonathan, or Grimes. Not all varieties are good pollenizers for other sorts. Winesap, Black Twig (Paragon), and Stayman are notably poor in this respect.

In commercial plantings consisting of large acreages and a few varieties, it has often happened that the choice and arrangement of varieties, has been such that adequate and effective cross-pollination is impossible. Such plantings have been unproductive even when given the best of care. Though the problem may be eventually solved by top-grafting part of the trees to suitable varieties, the grower must wait from 3 to 5 years before these grafts will bear sufficient pollen.

It is at this point that the bouquet of apple blossoms fits into the picture. A bouquet of about six branches, each about one-half inch in diameter secured in a pail of water near the top of the tree will usually supply enough pollen to give a set on that tree and help its neighbors somewhat. Two or more bouquets are sometimes used in large trees. At least every third tree in every third row should receive bouquets.

Demonstration in Pennsylvania during the last four years have proved that this procedure is entirely practical where inadequate cross-pollination has been responsible for low yields. The use of bouquets is discontinued of course, after the grafts have begun to furnish sufficient pollen.

It is important for growers to lay their plans now if they expect to carry out any of this type of work next spring. Trees of desirable varieties for use as bouquets should be left unpruned at this time so that a generous supply of bouquets may be cut from them at blossom time. Among the commercial varieties in Pennsylvania, the following are considered most desirable as pollenizers, though the choice within this group would depend upon the variety to be pollenized: Grimes, Jonathan, Delicious, Ben Davis, Gano, McIntosh, Wealth, Northern Spy, Corland, Golden Delicious, Dutchess, Rome Yellow Transparent, Famuse, Wagener and York.

A poor set of fruit may be caused by improper spraying, insufficient soil fertility, spring frosts, and a host of other factors Provision for proper cross-pollination is in no sense a cure-all. However, it offers insurance against one cause of low yields.

USE SURPLUS MILK TO MAKE CHEESE AT HOME

American cheddar cheese can be made at home from surplus milk.

Equipment for the home manufacturer is simple and except for two or three items will be found on practically any farm. It consists of a wash boiler, a long-handled spoon, a long-bladed knife, a wire egg-beater of the spoon type, an iron pipe about a foot long, a thermometer which will register from 50 to 110 degrees, a flour or sugar sack about 3 by 2 feet, a yard of cheesecloth, cheese color tablets, salt, rennet cheese tablets, paraffin, and some type of press for pressing out the whey, preferably a common lard press.

Directions for making home-made cheese can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office, Room 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

SPRING CLOTHING HAS INTERESTING FEATURES

Dark blue appears each spring as regularly as the season itself. Accustomed as we are to it, it is always welcome, says Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative There is something cool and refreshing about this color, following the blacks and warm browns and reds of the winter wardrobe.

Surfaces of the spring woolens and silks are of great interest. The woolens have a lacy weave or, if woven more firmly, have little knots or nubs to give a rough surface. They are ligh.weight, of course, and colorful, giving a fresh accent to the winter costume as well as being suitable for wear later without a coat.

Crepes of silk or of synthetic materials are also rough of surface, having either a crinkled or a blistered surface. Some give the appearance of being shirred. When the material itself is so interesting, dresses themselves are simple in design, Miss Drury explains.

Trimming touches, such as scarfs, collars, cuffs, belts and fastenings are very interesting. Dyed lace is used for scarfs, bows, flowers and even handkerchiefs.

There is no end to the variety of buttons and, in addition, hooks, chains, loops, clothes pins, and cords offer something new, according to Miss Eleanor Drury. A cotton dress might have the belt fastened with two very large buttons, each of a different color.

JUST LIKE TRAVELING AROUND IN CIRCLE

BRIDGEPORT, O., Mar. 1—An autoist who drove all day, much of the way over snowcovered roads, knows that the right turn may be the wrong one. Starting from Wheeling via the road on the West Virginia side of the Ohio river, he crossed at Marietta to go to Belpre, O. There he turned right instead of left and drove north. Arriving at Bridgeport he asked the distance to Huntington and found he had traveled 200 miles to land just across the river from his starting point.

Later in the evening, cards and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour, prizes in cards going to Mrs. Harold Mathews, of this city; and Elmer McCreery, of Butler. Lunch was served at the close of the evening.

The evening was a most enjoyable one, and was attended by several hundred Knights and their ladies.

Former Grocer Is Given Sentence To Federal Prison

Defrauder Given 15 Years And Fined $10,000 By Judge In Milwaukee, Wis.

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 1—Elmers Huckins, 68, formerly a county grocer at Pittsville, Wis., was found guilty by a federal court jury here on 14 counts of using the mails to defraud.

Judge F. A. Geiger sentenced Huckins to 15 years imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined him $10,000. His attorneys, after a new trial was denied, announced they would appeal to the circuit court of appeals at Chicago.

The verdict was the climax to Huckins' mythical cigar business in which he obtained more than two million dollars before it collapsed in September, 1929.

Operating along lines similar to those of Charles Ponzi of Boston, Huckins paid investors interest ranging from 26 to 52 per cent in what he claimed were transactions in "throwouts" or discarded cigars. Investors throughout the country were attracted.

Prothonotary R. M. Campbell announces that the last day for filing praecipes for the trial list for the April term of common pleas court will be on Monday, March 4.

A writ of certiorari has been issued on Alderman James C. Brice in the case of Charles French against Irwin Abrams, which was tried before the alderman.

County Treasurer William O. Pitts reports that there is very little money coming into the county treasury, except the payment in back taxes on properties on which the Home Owners Loan corporation is placing mortgages, and they are few in number compared to several months ago. The county is now operating on borrowed money.

Two big trucks, laden with eggs and chickens, on their way from Indiana to eastern markets, caused a discussion among visitors to the county commissioners' office this morning as to the temperature at which eggs freeze. Some were of the opinion that eggs will freeze at 32 degrees and other were of the opinion that they would not freeze until the mercury got down around zero. The question is still unsettled.

Sarah Fairchild of Jeannette, Pa., presented a petition in court asking the right to convey the interest of John and Lucille Williamson, minors, in property in the third ward, without the appointment of a guardian, under the act of May 25, 1933. The property, which belonged to the late Sarah E. Hess of the third ward, can be sold to Joseph Gigliardo for $1200. All of the adult heirs are agreed. The minors, who are making their home with Mrs. Fairchild, have such a small interest that the appointment of a guardian would be an unnecessary expense, Judge James A. Chambers, before whom the petition was presented, granted it and authorized the deed to Gigliardo to be made.

In the matter of laying out a road in Shenango township, being an extension of Wilson avenue, on which Attorney Roy Mercer, Albert P. Treser and Joseph Hannon were appointed viewers, a petition was presented in court today setting forth that Albert P. Treser is in Charlestown, W. Va., and likely to be there for some time. It was asked that another viewer be appointed to take his place. Judge Chambers appointed Alexander Main.

Upon petitions of the Peoples Saving & Trust company, presented in court today, the resignation of the company as guardian of a number of minors was accepted, it being shown that Clare C. Duff had been appointed to take over the guardianships, and had duly qualified.

In each case the Peoples Savings & Trust company had filed final accounts. Account in the case of Margaret Shcweikert showed a balance in cash of $70.24, and mortgages totaling $1,770.24. Florence Piccari, balance due estate of $46.31. Matilda Balog, balance in cash $119.03 and a mortgage of $1,600, making a total of $1,719.03. John Bordash, no cash, but thee mortgages totaling $1,830. Paul Bordash, $63.46 cash and mortgages, $1,813.46. Anna Bordash, cash $15.42, and mortgages totaling $1,815.42. Anna Klajnicka, balance due estate, $363.82. Charles Mayette, balance due estate, $876.88. John Mayette, balance, cash, $1,094.88. Maria Antoria Piccari, balance due estate, $82.60.

Letters of administration in the estate of Pasquale Volpe, late of the fifth ward, have been granted by the register and recorder to Adelina Volpe.

SAAR VALLEY AGAIN BECOMES PART OF GERMANY

Celebration Is Being Staged

All Germany Joins In Rejoicing As Formal Change Occurs

EXPECT HITLER TO JOIN FESTIVITIES

(International News Service)

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, March 1. — Amid unparalleled scenes of triumphant rejoicing throughout the Reich, the rich industrial valley of the Saar became part of Germany again today for the first time since the World War.

Half a million Nazis poured into the Saar to help its 800,000 residents celebrate, and all Germany joined with flying of flags, noise-making, and toasting in beer and Saar wine from last midnight throughout the day.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the Saar committee of the League of Nations, formally overturned the territory's authority to Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Reich minister of the interior. Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was expected later in the day personally to lead the festivities.

Important Step

Before the flag of the third Reich was raised over the Saarbruecken town hall, Dr. Frick, pointing his remarks to the members of the league commission, reiterated in a nationwide broadcast the peaceful utterances of Hitler when the Saar, by a 9 to 1 vote, elected to return to Germany.

"The return of the Saar marks the liquidation of the European policy of the Reich," said Dr. Frick.

"The Saar problem no longer burdens the relations between these two neighboring nations (France and Germany.)

"Germany is convinced that return of the Saar is an important step towards improvement of the general political situation in Europe."

The statement of the minister of the interior after the Nazi flag flew once more over the Saar, however, had a note of warning in it. Addressing the Saarlanders, he said:

"The hour of liberation has struck, announcing to the world that the thousand-year-old German Saar has returned to the Fatherland.

"We want to be free like our forefathers.

"Never again shall we permit German territory to be torn from us by force."

Today

Mr. Morgan Sells.

Diet For Triplets.

Never Milk With Meat.

They Killed The Lepers.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

J. PIERPONT MORGAN, able son of an able father, proves to younger men in his office that if you understand salesmanship you can sell even in a depression.

Five paintings for $1,500,000 is good salesmanship; $15,000 an acre for country real estate on Long Island is a good price, and no doubt Mr. Morgan will get it, for the land that he has put on the market, right at the edge of the water, is good real estate.

The latest news is that Mr. Morgan ordered valuable old miniatures, small paintings on ivory, sold at auction in London; expected price about $1,000,000.

BUSINESS MEN, who have not been able to sell much of anything for several years, contemplate Mr. Morgan's salesmanship respectfully, and wondering, ask themselves WHY and HOW. The reasons for the selling interest many.

EVERYBODY knows that Mr. Morgan is not in need of money. That does not happen in his family.

Business asks:

"Does Mr. Morgan think the world is coming to an end?"

Surely not.

"Does he take Senator Huey Long and his 'share the wealth' program seriously?"

Senator Long would hardly insist on sharing old paintings, ancient miniatures, Long Island north shore real estate. Such things are not "wealth" in the Senator's opinion. He would call them "truck."

Does Mr. Morgan feel that in these doubtful days of uncertainty the wise man should have his wealth in cash, easily moved, easily hidden?

Hardly, for who knows what the CASH will be worth next week or next year. Real estate and miniatures will always be worth something.

Would Mr. Morgan change his money into gold in some foreign country where gold can still be bought? That might be a good idea, but what about "no interest on the money?"

AT THE race track, when somebody rushes into the betting ring betting heavily on a certain horse, at the last moment, bookmakers say:

"He must think he knows something."

Men with admiration for J. Pierpont Morgan's business ability say:

"He must know something."

He probably does.

TRIPLETS are born in New York to a mother five feet high, with four other children. Father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Rean, are proud of their Jean, Joan and Jane.

Problems face the two little girls and their brother, born too soon. They must have human mother's milk, and enough for three, according to the hospital; would cost $9 a day. The hospital's "breast milk" fund is exhausted.

The father has been out of work for three years. Doctors say if the triplets do not have the right food they may not survive.

This should interest mothers that "can't be bothered with nursing children." Modern artificial foods are well prepared, but nurse your baby if you can.

The triplet babies are in St. John's hospital, New York. Their four elders, a ten-year-old brother and three sisters, are anxious to have them at home.

BRITISH medical men declare positively that "drinking milk within two hours after eating meat is highly detrimental to the digestive system."

Moses could have told them that long ago. His rules allow no milk with meat. The Bible rule forbidding you to "seethe" or otherwise cook a kid in its mother's milk, was intended to protect those that eat the meat, and does not merely express sympathy for the mother.

Milk, a most valuable food, should be taken from infancy to old age, but not with meat.

ON AN island in the Pearl River, inhabitants of a Chinese fishing village dreaded and disliked a small settlement where twenty-four lepers lived nearby. A dispatch from Hong Kong says the villagers have solved their problem by a massacre of the twenty-four lepers, followed by the destruction and burning of their settlement.

That shocks us now, but such barbarity was once the rule. The old were killed and sometimes eaten in primitive days. Crippled children were destroyed, delicate children were purposely exposed to hardships that they could not survive, which meant destroying the finest brains. A child with a well developed brain is often most delicate.

Maniacs, supposed to be inhabited by demons, were horribly beaten and tortured, "to drive out the devil," even in comparatively recent Christian times. The human race is some distance from real civilization.

AUTOMOBILE truck manufacturers, attention.

W. H. Hills, circus and menagerie owner, is arrested because his truck, supposed to carry from five to seven thousand pounds, was found loaded with two elephants, four performing ponies, ten performing dogs, feed, hay and several employes, total 25,200 pounds.

That is good publicity for whoever made the trucks. Thousands of small "2-ton trucks" daily haul from four to six tons easily.

Gets $7,000 Verdict Against Her Dentist

WASHINGTON, Pa., Mar. 1.—Finding in favor of the plaintiff, a jury in common pleas court here today awarded Miss Veronica Kriglein, 30, damages in the amount of $7,000 in her suit against a Washington dentist for alleged negligence following a tooth extraction.

Miss Kriglein charged in her suit against Dr. Samuel A. Ashbrook, that he fractured her jaw and failed to give her proper medication after the extraction.

Justice Holmes Critically Ill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—His ebbing strength being buoyed by tanked oxygen administered by a physician and two nurses who remained at his side during the night, Oliver Wendell Holmes, retired associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, had showed no improvement this morning in his fight against bronchial pneumonia.

During the night the former "great liberal" of the high tribunal was reported to be resting more comfortably than earlier in the day.

He resigned from the bench three years ago and he will be 94 years old next Friday.

Former Westminster College Professor Dies At Home In Beaver County

BEAVER, Pa., Mar. 1.—Funeral services over the body of the late Rev. Dr. John O. Campbell, 76, retired minister and educator were held today from the Beaver United Presbyterian church. Hundreds of friends, former students and parishioners attended the funeral, and Dr. John McNaugher, president of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary officiated.

Dr. Campbell was known and loved by men and women over the entire world who had attended Westminster College. For many years he served as professor of History and Economics in Westminster and prior to that was in the pastorate of the United Presbyterian church.

Harrisburg Woman Visits Hillsville

Consulting Librarian Confers With Hillsville Groups In Regard To New Library

It will be only a matter of a very short time until Hillsville's dream of a free public library will be realized. The movement has the enthusiastic support of the residents and the business firms and they have organized in the common purpose. The library will be located in the school building at first but later the town will probably provide a separate library building.

Miss Evelyn Mathews, consulting librarian, conected with the state library at Harrisburg, came to New Castle on Tuesday and made a trip to Hillsville to offer any help that might be needed in the proposed movement.

Miss Mathews also visited Miss Alice Sterling, New Castle librarian, and then, after staying overnight at The Castleton, went to Farrell, where another library is in the process of materialization, with the mayor giving his strong support.

Honor Court Held At Baptist Church

CROWD APPLAUDS AS COLE GETS "EAGLE"

The regular February court of honor was held at the First Baptist church with a large attendance of scouts and scouters. Rev. A. M. Stump, chairman of the court, was assisted by Ralph Davis, Dr. R. C. Lutz, Harry Miles, E. D. Hawk, A. L. Howard, George Winters and the executive.

Advancements are listed as follows: from tenderfoot to second class rank, Benny Elisco, Henry Mastern, Victor Emery, Bill Peters, David Hoover, Martin Kastner, Jack Gaston, Irwin Masters, Jack Matthews. Advancements from second class to first class rank included Warren Blair, Dick Gardner, John Henderson, and Felix Viton.

Second class merit badges were awarded to Hallet Johnson, Robert Wilkenson, Richard Gardner, Jack Hannon, Joe Hannon, Chalmers Sproull and Bob Gaston.

Francis Brookman, Albert Moss, Philard McClure, Bill Batten, Robert Green, George Stitzinger, Elder Ubry, Don Woodworth and David Taylor qualified for first class merit badges. Star Scout rank was bestowed on Paul Means, John Clarke, Robert Walter, and James Emerick; those scouts also receiving various merit badges. Scoutmaster A. L. Howard and R. F. Hermann were advanced to Life Rank; also receiving merit badges.

A number of other scouters also received awards: Mate Walter Green, Assistant, Byrl McCartney; Scoutmaster, Charles Billotte; Assistant, Robert Moore, and assistant Robert McConaghy. A delegation from New Wilmington arrived in time to receive awards in merit badge work, Silver Palm, Joe Ferris, William Evans, John White, Robert Shaffer, Robert Newton, John Francis, being among this group, while Robert Johns who is ill at present, will receive his through Dr. R. F. Galbreath as proxy for the court of honor. Oliver Kerr will also receive his through proxy. Charles Kelly was warranted as a Junior Assistant Scoutmaster by the court.

Court Calls For Cole

The court then called on Life Scout Robert Cole of V-37 to come forward with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeLace Cole, and Dr. R. C. Lutz then made some appropriate remarks and presented Bob with the silver miniature Eagle, asking him to pin it on his mother, which he did. Mr. Cole then received the silver badge and pinned it on his son while the audience stood at attention and then applauded.

Seascout Mate Walter Green of the Neshannock unit, and the scout executive were then called up, and certified to the National Court of Honor for the Eagle award to be given at the March court; which Rev. Stump set for Thursday evening, March 28; with the board of review on the 25th.

E. D. Hawk, board of review chairman for February, then addressed the audience on the need for having scouts bring in their cards, completely filled out, before the board of review; so as to give the council office time to thoroughly check up on dates, time, etc., before the review itself. All cards for second and first class rank must therefore be in the council office by Saturday night, March 23, to be eligible for the board of review on the 25th. Any other cards coming in after that time will be held for the April court of honor.

Ralph Davis mentioned the Merit Badge show, and urged the various troops to make a quick return on tickets so shares might be allowed the troops that have earned them.

Rev. Stump spoke of the National Jamboree, and set the committee meeting for next Tuesday afternoon. Assistant George Winters briefly mentioned the 1929 Jamboree and the values of attending such an affair. The session was dismissed with the "Taps".

Scoutmasters E. D. Hawk and J. Arthur Turek received diplomas for their two weeks in camp with their troops, this counting credit on the Scoutmaster's Key degree.

None of the actions rise above the misdemeanor classification of crime.

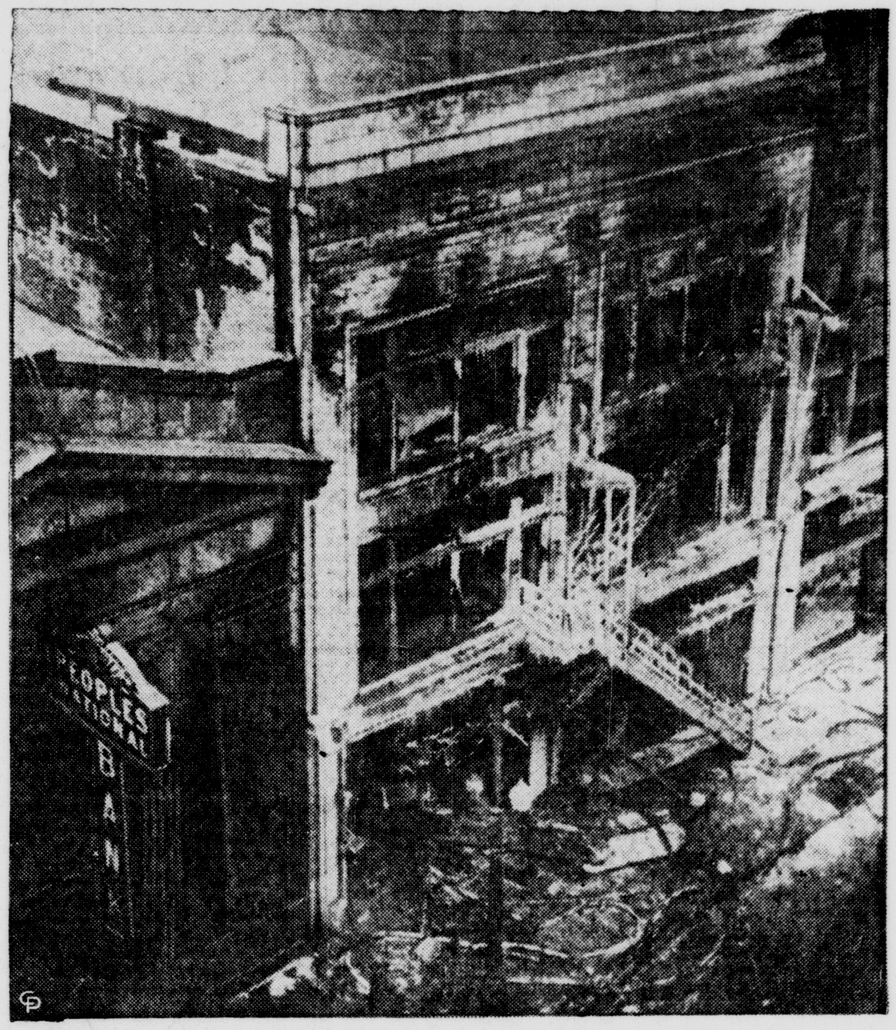
Conflagration Ruins Department Store Building



Firemen of ten cities fought a fire at Steubenville, O., which destroyed a department store, damaged a theater building, and caused injury of three firemen. The three-story department building is shown, above, gutted by the conflagration, resulting in property damage of $200,000. More than 800 persons in the theater were forced to flee for safety as the fire spread to that building.

Stage Settings Add To Success

One of the features attending the success of "Ladies of the Jury" on Thursday evening in the senior high school auditorium were the stage settings. Built entirely by members of the Civic Theatre Guild, they were realistically done and while this fact may have escaped the attention of some of the audience, the playgoer realized it and added his commendation.

The settings were built by the following people: Fulton R. Magill, stage manager; Charles Jamison, electrician; Jack Boyles, assistant electrician; John Stanley, technician, and the following assistants: Francis Hennen, Mildred Sneckenberger, Dorothy Stadelhofer, Joe Fisher, John Muse, Ed Brown and Wayne Sines, the latter in charge of sound effects.

Lewis Presents Steel Petition

PLEASED WITH HIS RECEPTION

Pleased with the audience given him by Vice President L. H. Burnett, of the Carnegie Steel company in Pittsburgh, on Thursday afternoon, Alderman Richard Lewis, of South Mill street, returned here late yesterday, after presenting his plan of employe participation in the cost of new equipment for the local steel plant. Mr. Burnett promised to present the plan to President I. Lamont Hughes, who is away for a few weeks.

During the conference, Alderman Lewis presented a petition signed by 500 local steel workers of the company, endorsing Lewis' plan which is this: that the cost involved in changing the New Castle plant from a plant under the Bessemer system to a combination of Bessemer and Open Hearth steel system will be shared by the workers under a co-operative plan whereby they will voluntarily pay, through a deduction from their semi-monthly pay, the expense involved in making this change.

Mr. Burnett seemed pleased with the plan, according to Alderman Lewis. Lewis quoted Burnett as saying: "In all my experiences I have never received such a fine extraordinary co-operative plan. We have never received any finer cooperation than we have from men of the New Castle plant. We look at these men with the highest esteem and will do all that is possible." Alderman Lewis also presented a petition signed by bankers of New Castle, all members of the New Castle Clearing House Association, asking action to reopen the local plant.

The plan will be presented to President I. Lamont Hughes. It will then probably be given to the United States Steel Corporation directors conference to be held sometime in April. Charles L. Hughes, a personnell officer of the company, also attended the meeting.

Alderman Lewis attended the meeting alone, representing the workers of the New Castle plan.

Kiwanis Party, Featuring 'Broadcast Of Armateurs', Enlivens Hotel Ballroom

New Castle's Kiwanis club set a "new high" for Ladies' Night programs at The Castleton last night when its own talented "armateurs" presented a la radio broadcast style, a full evening of entertainment with the able cooperation of the city's new 20 piece civic orchestra.

The 102 Kiwanians, Kiwanis wives and Kiwanis sons and daughters and guests who attended it went home knowing that Kiwanis—no matter how hilarious past social events have been—never has enjoyed itself so.

A dinner preceded the merrymaking which continued until late.

A host of Kiwanis' "scream and radio" stars were produced by Chairman C. Wolford and his capable Ladies' Night committee, and as the audience found out—"Walter Winchell," "Lanny Ross" "Jack Benny" and other famed celebrities sent special messages over the air to the clubmen and their ladies.

The pride of its citizens, the new civic orchestra, its members in uniform dress, performed to the delight of the dinner crowd under the direction of Kiwanian Harry Hammond and the conductorship of Judy Sypher. Hammond and Sypher alternated in leading musicians.

Back where no one could see were the radio broadcasters, L. C. Mantz, and Orville Potter, who impersonated so many "bright lights" of the air they should feel dizzy today.

Into the ballroom the air program flowed and General Chairman Wolford, the jovial master of ceremonies for the night, engineered the entertainment like a veteran of Broadway.

Program

And here's the program:

Act by "The Boy Orator"—By Clarence M. England

Vocal solos—By Mrs. Harry G. Gormley

Radio interview of "Hooey" Long of "Louzyanna" by "Lowell Thomas"—"Hooey" was Orville Potter and Lowell was L. C. Mantz

Radio bedtime story—By L. C. Mantz

Closing orchestra number

Early in the after-dinner program President Gilbert E. Long spoke briefly and called upon James Mayberry to introduce 'everybody present" And Mr. Mayberry did—from memory. Invocation before dinner was pronounced by Mr. Meermans.

To the committee in charge last night, Mr. Wolford, Mr. Mantz and W. T. Reed, and to the performers, all credit is due for the evening's entertainment.

Among the guests was Elmer R. Patterson, supervisor of Emergency Education Relief undertaking here, the work of which the new civic orchestra is a part.

PEACE GROUP HAS NIGHT DISCUSSION

Neutrality And Freedom Of Seas' Is Topic; Kaplan In Charge

Under the leadership of Bernard Kaplan, members of the Lawrence County Council on the Cause and Cure of War met at the Y. W. C. A. last night and considered another phase of their marathon round-table discussions on "the Evolving Foreign Policy of the United States.

"Neutrality and Freedom of the Seas' was the topic considered last night.

"Restatement of the traditional American policy of neutrality will promote not only the welfare of the universal body politic but will guarantee the realization of a cherished ideal world peace," the discussion brought out.

"Greedy interests who pretend to hold dear the doctrine of freedom of the seas and insist upon trading with aggressive belligerents," the council agreed, "do not warrant government protection with its inheritent sacrifices. World harmony demands our passive cooperation and justified economic blockade of belligerent powers. This does not endanger our traditional non-aggression policy."

Mrs. Miriam L. Cosel, chairman of the council, presided. At the next meeting the round-table discussion will be continued.

Girl Is Winning Fight With Death

Evelyn Ann Gravatt, Aged 3, Wins Fight Against Infectious Disease

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Mar. 1.—A merry smile curved the lips of a tiny tot whose twinkling feet pedalled a tricycle through hospital corridors today, evidence of a gallant will-to-live which resulted in a practically miraculous escape from death.

Streptococcic infection—the ailment that cost the life of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., and Stanley Walker, Jr.—beset frail little Evelyn Ann Gravatt, aged three, two months ago.

Will To Live

Leading specialists came into the fight, admittedly with little hope but cheered on by Evelyn's infectious grin. Again and again drains were applied at various parts of her body, until she had had 25 drains in all. Blood transfusion followed blood transfusion. Finally, mastoid operations on both ears.

Today, under the happy eyes of her father, Frank P. Gravatt, the indomitable patient was placed upon the tricycle and given the hospital corridors as a playground.

With all credit to modern medical science, participating specialists attributed her recovery to her remarkable will-to-live, courage and good cheer.

Favor Repeal Of Income Publicity

Kidnapers Too Easily Informed Of Victims Through Practice, Leaders Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—House leaders favor immediate repeal of the "pink slip" income tax publicity law despite the apparent opposition of members of the Senate Finance committee who were the first to approve the law.

A house ways and means subcommittee, headed by Rep. Cullen (D) of New York, plans to meet today to consider preparation of a bill which would prevent the income taxpayer's personal financial status from being made a public record. Speaker Byrns favors giving a repeal bill right-of-way in the house with a vote taken after brief discussion.

Listless Stage In Mellon Case

Relate Vast Property Holdings Of Andrew W. Mellon At Hearing

JOINT ACCOUNT IS BEING AIRED

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1—The three-million dollar income tax battle between Andrew W. Mellon and the government he served as secretary of the treasury for 11 years reached a listless stage today with a recital of vast property holdings of the financier.

From Mellon's confidential secretary, government Counsel F. R. Shearer learned holdings in a joint account of the former cabinet member and his brother, the late Richard B. Mellon, had a net worth of more than $20,000,000 in 1931. The joint account showed these holdings included two Pittsburgh hotels and at least 37 blocks of real estate in this city.

This joint account has become an important factor in the proceedings which Mellon hopes will bring him a refund of $139,045 on his 1931 income tax. The government claims he took "fictitious" losses and wants $3,089,261 in additional taxes and penalties.

To prove its contention the government has gone into the joint account with the intention of showing it actually was a partnership between "A. W." and "R. B." If successful counsel will argue Mellon was entitled to deduct only half of the $6,000,000 loss he claimed on Pittsburgh Coal Company stock in 1931.

Many other losses have been claimed by Mellon on transactions involving this joint account which he asserts was not a partnership.

With Shearer pressing for complete details, the trusted secretary, Howard M. Johnson, described transactions, real estate holdings and building investments of the Mellon Banking and Industrial empire. He revealed the financier has vast holdings in the city he has helped make the "workshop" of America.

'Baby Bonds' Placed On Public Sale Here

Sales Total At Noon Is Reported As $525; Steen First Buyer

Uncle Sam's newest securities—"Baby Bonds"—went on sale at the New Castle post office and in every other post office in the nation today.

Postmaster Richard A. Steen purchased the first bond here, while Stanley J. Fruit of Rigby was the only outsider to make a purchase this morning. The total amount of bonds sold at noon amounted to $525. They are being sold at the money order window.

President Roosevelt, the International News Service reported, purchased the first of the new issue in Washington.

The issue is unlimited. While the local office is well supplied with bonds of the $25, $50, $100 and $500 denominations, officials here anticipate "no rush for a while". In other parts of the nation it was reported the demands were surprisingly heavy.

The $1,000 bonds cost $750 now and are not worth their full value until maturity, 10 years hence.

Butler Man Will Soon Know Fate

Jury Will Get Case Today In Federal Court Of Fraud Against Auto Tire Dealer

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 1.—Trial of George Varnum, Butler auto tire dealer, on a charge of fraudulently concealing $20,000 in assets from a receiver and trustee in bankruptcy, was to go to a federal court jury in Judge Nelson McVicar's court today.

George W. Kelly, Butler police chief, and Sergeant Edward Price of the state police testified for the government. Kelly said Varnum told him on September 5, 1931, which was about three weeks before an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the dealer, that $20,000 had been stolen from his safe while Price said the defendant told him the money was hidden in his car before it was placed in the safe.

The government charges Varnum received amounts from auto sales prior to the bankruptcy filing much larger than the approximate $800 in cash and merchandise which D. C. McCandless of Butler, receiver and trustee, testified he received from the estate.

He said that he has taken many fingerprints here, especially when former service men applied for their bonus. Men who carried a revolver into the deer country also were fingerprinted and he said that if businessmen or anyone else wants their fingerprints taken they can do so. The figures show that the amount of snow which fell amounted to almost 19 inches, most which was recorded on two days, when around six inches was noted on each occasion.

The temperature for the month was near the normal figure, in contrast to the daily deficiency of 14.2 degrees recorded in February, 1934. The daily deficiency this year was but a half degree per day.

The figures for the month show the mean maximum 36.8 degrees and the mean minimum, 18.9 degrees, the mean for the month being 27.9 degrees. The normal mean for February is 28.4 degrees, the deficiency being .05 degree. The highest temperature recorded was 53 degrees on the 16th and the lowest was two below zero on the 7th. The greatest daily range was 35 degrees on the 6th.

The total precipitation for the month was 2.65 inches, the normal for February being 2.42 inches, an excess of .23 inches being shown. The greatest precipitation in 24 hours was .61 inches on the 23rd. The snowfall was 18.9 inches. Days with .01 inches or more in precipitation were 18, days clear three, days partly cloudy 12 and days cloudy 13.

In February of 1934, the precipitation was 1.23 inches below normal, and the temperature 14.2 degrees below. It will be remembered that sub-zero weather was recorded on 16 days of the month, making it the coldest February in the history of the United States weather bureau. U. S. Marines Get Record Recruit

(International News Service)

BOSTON.—Because he wears a size 13 shoe, it took congressional "pressure" to keep Joseph W. Martin Jr., 18, of Billerica, in the U. S. Marine corps.

Officials were considering ejecting Martin because he could not find shoes for him. Three weeks ago he sailed from Boston for Parris Island as a Marine recruit. Storehouses of the Army, the Navy and the Marine corps were ransacked in a vain attempt to find shoes for him.

Just as he was about to be ejected, Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers intervened at Washington and the Marine Corps was persuaded to allow him to remain, though it necessitates special tailoring and shoemaking jobs. Martin is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weights 210 pounds.

Sidelights On News At State Capitol

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 1—The trials and tribulations of the Democratic administration in finding jobs for party workers brought about a curious situation in the governor's office....A Republican who aided Gov. George H. Earle in his campaign last fall came up to the executive offices to find out why he hadn't been appointed to a $5,000 job for which he had been sponsored and expected to get....While waiting, a Democratic fraternity brother came in.

Conversation developed they were both waiting to find out why they had not yet been given jobs....Further conversation developed they both had been sponsored for the same position....Now, party leaders are hunting around for another $5,000 job to satisfy both....Names of the principals in the incident are "off the record."

It wasn't as unusual as it might seem that two friends hunting jobs should meet in the governor's office these days....The executive reception room is filled with jobhunters from morning to night every day of the week....They are attracted by newspaper articles of "firings" of Republican personnel in various departments.

None of them seem to understand when they are told the dismissals to date have been jobs which the administration is abolishing for economy and for which there are to be no successors....This is one reason the administration is so chary in giving out names of persons who have been dismissed....The personnel office has given out no lists as yet....Department heads have admitted some dismissals....Others have been learned when payroll sheets cleared through the fiscal offices.

Echoes—Senator Leon C. Prince, Cumberland, who sponsored the abortive request that Senator John J. McClure, Delaware, resign his seat, is planning to be a congressional candidate next year....He is expected to seek the seat of Rep. Isaac Doutrich representing the Dauphin, Cumberland, Lebanon district....Whether he will run as a Republican has political circles guessing in view of his remark that if the senate refused to pass his resolution Republicans who wanted to remain such "can not and will not remain Republicans."

The speeches of Prince and McClure and the other Senators who felt called upon to speak their minds on the resolution against the Delaware solon filled 10½ pages in the quaint legislative journal....It cost $5.50 a page to print the journal....So it cost only $57.25 to record their thoughts for posterity....In those pages are some of the most acrimonious and bitter words in the English language....Paragraph after paragraph of legal citations offered by Sen. George L. Reed, Dauphin, in McClure's defense....And some of the most impassioned oratory ever uttered in legislative halls.

Natural science students will find a scholarly lecture on the life of the eel in the journal....The discourse, with some emphasis on the sex life of the eel, was delivered by pontificial Rep. Harvey Surface during a debate on the sanctity of eel chutes late one afternoon.

Although Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, who also is secretary of the commonwealth, frequently can be seen leaning over the railing on the minority wing of the senate, he was not visible the night the showdown was staged on the Prince resolution....He was on hand a short time later, however. Senators Charles E. Miller, Northumberland, and Charles E. Sones, Lycoming, the Democrats who deserted their party, were understood to have been given the political "cold shoulder"....Democratis in those counties may have a hard time crashing the patronage gate.

Political note: Over in a health department office there is a calendar of the kind widely circulated by a large Mellon Oil Company....All the advertising matter on the calendar has been cut off....Employes explained they didn't want to be known as Republicans anymore....But a portrait of former President Herbert Hoover still hangs in the offices of the board of finance and revenue which is still under G. O. P. rules.

Rep. Ralph S. McCreary, Erie, has some very positive views about legislative procedure....One of them is that members ought to answer to their names immediately on roll calls to save time....At this session, many members have been dilatory about this function....Taking the floor on personal privilege, McCreary expressed his sentiments with the remark that "an eight-year-old boy or a collie dog" will answer to his name so there is no reason why legislators can't do the same....McCreary is the chap who don't go home week-ends anymore because his constituents ask him why he isn't in Harrisburg legislatin' inasmuch as that was what they elected him to do.

The first obituary of a capitol hill official voluntarily furnished news men came from Robert L. Johnson, relief director....It was very complete, including comments on his hobbies....His preferred sport was listed as horseback riding, "but he also plays tennis and wretched golf which he likes. He owns three dogs, one of them very unpopular."

A remarkably lifelike crayon sketch of George A. Brennan, one of the founders of the Pennsylvania legislative correspondents association and for years considered the best authority on Pennsylvania politics, has been hung in the capitol news room in memory of the "grand old man"....He died last October, this being the first session in years his diminutive stature has been missing from legislative halls and press galleries.

Drawn by Charles E. Bell, the sketch portrays Brennan as thousands knew him....Straight-forward eyes looking directly at you from any direction....Chin erect, held up by the stiff formal collar, encircled with a loosely-knotted necktie studded with the diamond horseshoe pin....Inevitable curved umbrella handle crooked over the right arm which holds a newspaper turned to the column "who's who in Pennsylvania" which Brennan created and wrote.

Episcopal Vestry Closed To Women

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND.—The long-debated issue of whether women should be admitted to membership in the vestry of an Epsicopal church was unceremoniously squelched at the118th annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio here when a majority committee report upheld the ban on women in the vestry.

The committee gave four reasons for a continued ban of women. They were: First, the admission of women would detrimental to the peace of the parish: second it is a false mental conclusion that women must exercise their equality with men by endeavoring to be their equals in everything; third, the men don't want it; and fourth, the women don't want it.

British House of Commons Votes $1,435,000,000 to Continue the War.

Two U. S. Ships Sunk by Mines in North Sea.

These were the most significant war headlines, 20 years ago this week.

The traditional policy of the U. S. in supporting the principle of "freedom of the seas" was being put to the test. Washington was insisting upon the right of neutral nations to trade impartially with belligerent nations. But Britain was enforcing a blockade against Germany, and Germany was endeavoring to enforce a blockade against the British isles. Germany outspokenly, and Britain, tacitly, had disclaimed all responsibility for consequent damage to neutral vessels.

President Wilson was protesting to London against the use of the Stars and Stripes by British vessels running the submarine blockade. He was protesting to Berlin against the blockade itself. He was politely ignored, just as he was when he addressed identic notes to London and Berlin suggesting an agreement whereby (1) Britain would not interfere with food cargoes intended to be used in feeding the German civilian population, and (2) Germany would abate its submarine warfare.

Mr. Wilson, the idealist, wanted to keep the war from affecting the civilian populations. The realists in London and Berlin realized now that the war could only be won by bringing the strongest possible effect upon the civilian populations. There was a deadlock on the warfront, therefore the home fronts must be attacked.

The realists in London and Berlin considered President Wilson's protests as actuated by humane interests. They suspected that he was endeavoring to protect the rich business American manufacturers had built up in trading with "the enemy." Regardless of the motives that actuated him, they were in no mood to acquiesce. Contraband was controband, irrespective of the flag it flew. To them wheat, sugar and oil were as surely contraband as shot and shell, for one was as vital to the home front as the other to the battle lines.

With the U. S., in the name of freedom of the seas, maintaining its rights to send its ships to any country with which it was not at war, it was apparent to more than one discerning American that sooner or later the United States would be drawn into the conflict. And in this last week of February, 1915, the Senate passed a record-sized Army appropriation bill for $105,000,000. "Preparedness' was becoming a popular word, with its advocates arguing that preparedness is insurance for peace!

Mr. Shapiro's address was delivered after the business meeting of the lodge, and at the close of the evening's program, refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

The A. V. A. group, sponsored by the local B'Nai B'Rith, will meet Sunday afternoon, and the officers are anxious that every member attend to lend encouragement to this youth program. The place of meeting and time will be posted at the Cosmo Club.

Indo-Vin Medicine Astounds This Whole Section

New, Scientific Formula Is A Complete Sensation Here In New Castle And Throngs Flock Daily to Eckerd's Drug Store For It.

Day after day, the new medicine, known as Indo-Vin, continues to increase in sales and demand here in the city of New Castle, and vicinity. In fact, at the present time, thousands of bottles of this remarkable mixture of Nature's Finest Ingredients are being purchased here and crowds are flocking in daily to Eckerd's Drug Store, where Indo-Vin is being introduced to the general public.

MRS. C. BARKER

WHAT INDO-VIN IS!

It is a new and scientific mixture of extracts from medicinal plants which act upon EACH of the FOUR important organs—Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Indo-Vin is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas pains, sourness, bloat and belching.

It will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe) as they were NEVER CLEANSED BEFORE, bringing out old, foul impurities that may have been inside of you for a long time, contaminating your blood and inner-organs.

Indo-Vin will drive the poisons from the kidneys, and relieve backaches, bladder irritation and weakness. Relieves rheumatism and neuritis, driving out the organic poisons that cause the terrible aches and pains, giving quick relief.

IT WILL put a stop to the skin eruptions that are caused by impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver, and will put the ROSY GLOW OF HEALTH into your cheeks. Indo-Vin will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active; build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT and FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN OR WOMAN, years younger than your real age.

Following are JUST A FEW testimonials, selected at random from among the HUNDREDS that are being received from this immediate vicinity, praising Indo-Vin and urging ALL WHO SUFFER to get it and take it. Read these statements:

Dizzy Spells

MRS. C. BARKER, of 2021 Fairland St., Pittsburgh, Pa., said: (photo appears above) "My meals would sour in my stomach and bloat me up with so much gas that I thought my insides were going to burst. The stomach gas would press on my heart and put me in so much pain with my chest that I would get dizzy all over and I kept having terrible sick headaches due to the awful condition of my stomach. My liver was badly disordered and this caused me to feel bilious ALL THE TIME, and I was subject to the most dreadful headaches that lasted for DAYS. I tried everything under the sun but nothing helped me until I got Indo-Vin and it has done me more good than everything else PUT TOGETHER. The awful gas misery is gone now and I don't have the pains in my chest or around my heart, and the dizzy spells don't come over me. The headaches have vanished. I don't have the bilious spells like I had before and the headaches are a thing of the past. It simply improved my WHOLE SYSTEM and I want to publicly endorse it to all suffering people and urge them to get it and take it."

Stomach and Bowels

MR. JOSEPH L. GARNER, of 626 Woodbine St., Harrisburg, Pa., said: "My meals simply would not digest AT ALL, but would lay there is my stomach organs and sour and turn to gas and I'd keep belching up a sour, bitter substance and would get into an awful state of pain and misery. Was also having bowel trouble, in fact, this had gone on so long it had gotten chronic with me and I was always taking physics, and finally I got into a rundown condition in GENERAL. My condition was awful and Indo-Vin was the first medicine in YEARS that had any effect on me, and it has worked the misery out of my whole body. My food never turns to gas and bloating inside of me any more and I can eat a hearty meal without suffering. It gave my bowels a great cleansing and they have gotten so they are regular each day, and I never need a laxative or physic. This medicine has almost changed me into a NEW PERSON and I want to endorse it to everyone who suffers."

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store. Also being sold in all the nearby towns by every good druggist throughout this hole New Castle section.

Big League Clubs Depend On Rookies

Wealth Of New Material This Year Will Be Looked Over Very Carefully

Giants Hope To Land Starting Pitcher Out Of Group Of First Year Men

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 1.—With the eyes of the baseball world centered about the training camps of Florida, with rookies straining at the leash for the one "big" opportunity, and managers laying plans for the 1935 campaign, a birds-eye view of the camps discloses a fine crop of youngsters seeking to make the grade.

From the New York Giants, who led the National league parade last season until the last two days, only to be nosed out by the St. Louis Cardinals who went on to win the world series, down to the lowly Reds, efforts are being made to strengthen each team to make a better race.

Hopes On Rooks.

The Terrymen base their hopes for a fifth starting pitcher in Clydell Castleman, a young right hander from Nashville. Joseph Malay, a first baseman understudy to Bill Terry, will be given the chance to make the grade. Frank Gabler, another right-hander, will vie for a coveted berth with the Giants.

Terry thinks he has the best ball club in either circuit. With the signing of Dick Bartell, an ace shortstop, imminent, the Giants will plug a leak in the infield caused by Travis Jackson's failing legs.

Over at Tinker field, in Orlando, the Brooklyn Dodger batteries are limbering up, and Casey Stengel is banking on the return to form of William Watson Clark to aid Van Mungo and the other twirlers. Brooklyn's rookies include some valuable material in Stan Bordagaray, outfielder from Sacramento; Frank Lamanske, southpaw pitcher, who won both ends of a double bill from Omaha last season; Harvey Green, right hander who won 14 and lost 2 while batting .312 for Kenosha last year.

Brandt Unsigned.

Boston Braves, at St. Pete, have Ed Brandt in camp, exhibiting his old finesse, although still unsigned. With the acquisition of Babe Ruth, veteran slugger, as playing assistant manager, the Braves' attack will be enlivened. And Rabbit Maranville, vest pocket fly catcher, is in there testing his creaky leg which was in a cast for over three months last season. Buddy Lewis, hard hitting catcher, who came from the Cards; and Kack Tyler, Harrisburg outfielder, are the oustanding newcomers getting a test.

The Red Sox, sharers of the Boston limelight, are up at Sarasota, hardly unpacked from their trek southward. Lefty Grove, former Philadelphia ace, is in the rookie class, forced to prove his ailing arm of last year can take it.

Considerable Material.

At Tampa, the Cincy Reds have been hard at work ironing the kinks out of the arms, legs and backs of the batteries for over a week. Today the rest of the squad arrives for preliminary workouts. The Reds have a large crop of new material headed by John Robert Mize, first baseman who may step into Jim Bottomley's shoes. Ray Davis, a right-hander; Junie Barnes and Lee Grissom, southpaws, will be watched for mound duty.

Lakeland is prepared to play host to the Detroit Tigers, scheduled to arrive March 3. Three young pitchers—Clyde M. Hatter, Joe Sullivan and Jake Wade—show promise of staying up with the Bengals, but that remains to be seen after a week or so at the Lakeland camp.

What Baseball Clubs Are Doing

Big League Teams Are In South And Getting Started On Training Grind

(International News Service)

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 1.—There was joy in camp today. Van Mungo out loose with his "hot" one yesterday, and he's still the ace.

Freddie Maass, the big rookie, did some noble work catching the speedster.

Tom Zachary may do some flinging today, if it warms up. It's been too cold for the veteran's soup-bone.

HOLDOUTS WORRY GIANTS

Miami Beach, Fla., Mar. 1.—The Giants get down to serious work here today, with the arrival of the rest of the squad.

Hank Leiber, Dick Bartell, and Joe Moore, with mild causes of "holdout-itis" are here to "talk" to Boss Terry.

"Skeets" Dickey, Yankee Bill's kid brother, looked good yesterday, and Terry considers him an excellent catching prospect.

ARRANGE EXHIBITIONS

San Bernardino, Cal., Mar. 1.—Efforts were being made today to arrange two opening exhibition games with the Chicago Cubs as an inaugural for the Pittsburgh Pirates' new training camp here. Manager "Pie" Traynor, after putting his men through three days of workouts, agreed to the contests, which now await the sanction of Charley Grimm, Cub manager, the games would be played on March 9 and 10.

CUBS UNDER WAY

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Mar. 1.—Real work got under way for the revamped Chicago Cubs as they took their first drill of 1935 at the island training camp today. Manager Charlie Grimm's schedule called for a three-and-half hour session of batting practice, infield work and trotting around the park.

WHITE SOX DRILL

Pasadena, Calif., Mar. 1.—Safety ensconced in their spring home, the Chicago White Sox prepared to open the 1935 training drills under a hot sun this afternoon. Thirteen of the hired hands arrived this morning after a 2,300 mile overland journey that started Tuesday night in Chicago.

Mt. Jackson At Shenango High

Shenango High Will Play At Home Tonight With Mt. Jackson High

While New Wilmington and Bessemer are fighting it out for the lead at the Bessemer High floor tonight, the third co-leaders of the County High School league Shenango High will be playing Mt. Jackson High. The girls game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Coach Ed Raney has had a tough job this week to keep the Shenango boys from getting too confident, and has given them many a stern lecture. The Mt. Jackson team is slowly coming into its own and may make trouble for the league leaders tonight. Shenango won in the game played earlier at the Mt. Jackson floor, and for that reason the Spearmen would like to reverse the result.

Babe Ruth Back In New York After Eating Boston Beans And Pork

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 1.—Mushing through the slush on Broadway today we find . . . Sammy Fuller, Boston biffer, rated 6 to 5, to take Lou Ambers, Herkimer hurricane, over the 15 round trail in the Garden tonight. . .

Fight mob hopes they live up to their fancy monikers. . . Most of 'em figures Ambers will outgallop old Sam. . . Ambers is No. 1 lightweight challenger in New York; Fuller is No. 1 in Illinois. . .

Ah, Babe Ruth, back in town. . . After chowder and contract signing party in Boston last night. . . Got two days of packing ahead. . . Buying new golf hose to scare the snakes at St. Petersburg's Jungle club. . . and going to tote more baggage than a man actor. . .

How About Money

Where are the Braves going to get the dough to pay his salary?—Yankee official says National League will lend it. . . Some sources say Babe is to get 25 percent of Braves' end on all exhibition games . . . and he'll make plenty along the whistle stops. . .

Here's Ned Irish, ex-sports writer, walking in clouds after drawing way over $100,000 with eight basketball shows in Garden. . . Now wondering why he ever worked for a living.

And Jack Dempsey, the big steak and chop man, insisting all heavyweights should be made to fight 15 rounds. . . They have to be right to go that far, opineth Jack. . .

Here's Ed Barrow, Yankee Major Domo, denying he's going to buy a retriever dog to send Wally Berger to help that fleet centerfielder of the Braves shag balls that get away from the Bambino. . .

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Scotty Riffle of the Zan Athletic club of Morgantown, W. Va., was crowned champion in the 175 pound division of tht junior amateur athletic union tourney at Pittsburgh last night when he stopped Steve Mazur of St. Mathias Lyceum, Natrona. Steve is the chap who has fought several good fights at Ellwood City. Lou Berg of the Pittsburgh Lyceum and Jerry Gebhardt of Allegheny Y reached the finals in the heavyweight division. Berg halted John Keenan of Herminie in the first round and Gebhardt won from Jimmie Mayne of Ellwood City in the second round.

Junior members of the Columbus society will have a round-up, Monday night at Columbus hall, Seventh ward. A new athletic club is planned, and Paris Cangey, the former lightweight having been named physical director. Paris stated today that he has matched Eddie Gillest, Charlie Arkett and Frankie Massa for amateur boxing bouts at Sharon, March 7.

Although nothing much of a concrete nature is expected to be done at tonight's meeting of Lawrence loop managers, the officials of the circuit will be able to draw a line as to whether or not all of the clubs will be back in the fold when the umpire calls "play ball" this season. The circuit has been in existence since 1923 and enjoyed a wonderful season in 1934.

Feature Games At "Y" Tonight

St. Michaels Will Play Youngstown Polish Nationals, Sacred Hearts To Play

The first game of the program will find the Kirppus of the City league opposing the Epworth M. E. team of the New Castle Church League. This game will start at 8 o'clock.

St. Mikes To Play

In the second game the strong St. Michaels team, church league leaders will play the Youngstown Polish Nationals Alliance team of Youngstown, Ohio. This game will no doubt be the highlights of the evening's menu. Coach Michael "Jake" Babovky will start his strongest lineup in an effort to wrest a victory over the Polish Nationals rated as one of the best teams in the Eastern Ohio area. It is hoped that Andy Motsko and "Peanuts" Hnat will be in shape to play with the St. Mikes tonight.

Sacred Hearts of the New Castle league also known as the Keystone A. C. will play the strong College Hill Markets of Beaver Falls, Pa., in the third game. The Beaver Falls team will have such well known former Geneva College stars as Art Grahamme, Nave, Robbins, Cooper, and Dershimer in the lineup and expect to take the measure of the Hearts. The College Hill team won the first half of the Beaver County league and are on a winning streak. The Sacred Hearts are all set for a fine program tonight and may surprise the visitors.

Pulaski Juniors With John Slizeski Starring With 37 Points Win 65 To 19

Led by the sensational shooting of "Tillie" Slizeski, who set what is believed a New Castle and Lawrence County record, if not some other kind of a record last night by getting 37 points in the game in which the Pulaski Juniors handed the Acmes a drubbing 65 to 19. The 65 points scored by the Juniors also constitutes a record. J. Soho and Bozar played good basketball for the Juniors at forward, getting six points apiece.

Falcons Defeat West Middlesex

Polish Falcons Hand Surprise Defeat To West Middlesex Merchants, 26 To 25

BUDAI HERO IN EXCITING GAME

Polish Falcons basketball team gained considerable prestige last night at the Falcon floor on Miller avenue, by handing a surprise package 26 to 25 defeat onto the strong West Middlesex Merchants. The game was one of the best of the year at the Falcon floor.

The West Middlesex lineup was dotted with star performers, with Rudich, former Westminster College player center, McSherry at a guard.

The Falcons led 6 to 4 at the first period, and 10 to 8 at the half, with the third period finding the Falcons leading by the slim margin of 19 to 18. The fourth and final period saw a lot of action, with the lead see-sawing back and forth several times. The Merchants led by one point at 25 to 24 with about one minute left to play when Budai a sub forward for the Falcons dropped in a sensational one-hand shot that gave the Falcons their coveted victory.

Kawa and Kendra the "Falcon Twin Scorers" had eight points apiece, while "Slim" Augustyn had four points and played a fine game at center. Rudish and McSherry led the visitors in scoring.

Ruth Slated To Become Manager

Bill McKechnie Will Be Promoted To General Manager In 1936 Is Report

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mar. 1.—Babe Ruth will become manager of the Boston Braves in 1936-37 if he proves he is qualified for the post.

Bill McKechnie, present manager of the club, will be promoted to position of general manager, similar to that held by Eddie Collins of the Red Sox, if he so elects.

This season Ruth will be just a player. He will play in any position, except the sun-field, and at any time Bill McKechnie calls him. He hopes to play in 100 games. It was reported Ruth will receive $40,000 a year for the three seasons.

This was the status of Babe Ruth today.

His three-year contract signed and tucked away, Ruth was headed for New York and then south for St. Petersburg, Fla., to join the club in training.

"The Bam" was given a tremendous ovation on his "return home" after 15 years absence from the city where he started to baseball fame.

New Wilmington At Bessemer For Important Game

County League Lead At Stake Tonight At Bessemer High Floor

(Special To News)

BESSEMER, Pa., Mar. 1—Bessemer High School will be the scene of buzzing humanity tonight. New Wilmington High school basketball team will go to Bessemer for a battle that has all the earmarks of a championship affair. The Lawrence County High school league will be at stake. The girls of the two schools will play the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock.

No doubt the largest crowd of the year will pack into the Bessemer High gym floor. These two teams are natural rivals and both are at the top of the league along with Shenango High, and they sport championship hopes.

Who Will Win

The hopes of one of the two teams will be dragged down tonight, but which one will it be? You can't talk about anything but basketball out in Bessemer today and even another robbery could not excite the populace out of the spell of this crucial floor engagement.

Coaches Fredericks of Bessemer and Eagleson of New Wilmington have given their boys the final instructions. Practice sessions last night for both teams took away the rough edges.

New Wilmington won at New Wilmington earlier in the year, and the Bessemers are out for revenge.

It was reported at Bessemer today that two of the best basketball officials in the city of Youngstown, Ohio will handle the game tonight.

Boys League Games Saturday

Four games will be played in the Boys league at the "Y" floor Saturday afternoon. The first game will start at 2 o'clock.

The Imperials will battle the "Y" Juniors. The Trojans will clash with the Intermediates. The Keystone Midgets will play the Syrian Eagles, and the "Y" Devil Dog Juniors will tangle with the Second U. P. Juniors.

BABE STILL A BASEBALL POWER

It was only about six weeks ago that the entire baseball world was worrying over the situation of the Boston Braves. At that time the club was in dire need of financial strength, and it seemed that almost anything could happen when the National league called a special meeting to straighten out matters.

Now the team can look into the future with optimism. By July of 1935 the club will likely be completely out of the red and on its way to a profitable season. This sudden about-face in the conditions at Boston was made possible by one man, a baseball player who himself reversed his ways just as remarkably ten years ago when he changed from baseball's playboy to an earnest and conscientious player.

The fact that Ruth could cause such a change is a tribute to his baseball power. He may be past his peak but he is still a powerful influence on the game. Even the league moguls could not make rigid the shaky pillars of the tottering Brave franchise.

Babe it appears is to be paraded chiefly as a player this season with his managerial debut being held for a 1936 attraction. It looks like a wise move on the part of Fuchs and Co. A year as a National league player should be a gate attraction in all eight cities but especially in Boston, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. And then when 1936 rolls around it will be Manager Ruth, another novel role by which he can interest the fans.

In other words, by displaying Ruth, first as a player and later as a manager, Fuchs is having two seasons of the Sultan of Swat as a highlight, whereas, if he had made Babe the manager immediately, he would have only 1935 before the novelty of Ruth as a National leaguer would be worn off.

And if Babe's legs will not permit him to play this season or if he fails to draw the crowds as a player, then Fuchs can install him as the team's manager and nothing will be lost.

It is very improbable, however, that Ruth will fail as a gate attraction. There are too many interesting sidelights available that will draw the interest of the fans in all cities. In St. Louis it will be Ruth vs. Deans, in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh he will be comparatively new as a player, in New York it will be Ruth vs. Hubbell, and so forth.

Babe has always been popular in Boston, and the town itself is a good baseball center if conditions are satisfactory. The Braves haven't been doing so well but it is more the fault of the club than of the community. In recent years the team has been unable to add additional playing strength. The club usually goes into spring training with only 23 to 25 players on hand.

The way the Redsox have drawn the fans since Yawkey began assembling a strong club is proof that the town will support a good ball team. So with Ruth as a drawing power and as a means of building a strong team, the future of the Braves seems even brighter now than it was gloomy, six weeks ago.

Ten Pin Tourney Attracts Interest

Much interest is being displayed in Lawrence county's first annual ten pin tourney which got under way a few days ago.

Lefty Robinson, regarded as one of the best pin demolishers in the county, was the first man to enter the event. Nine splits in three games spoiled Robinson's score. He rolled 476. Anderson and Cable of Ellwood City rolled over 500 in three games. James E. Thomas, assistant fire chief, is the latest entry in the tournament.

Three loving cups and 26 cash prizes await the winners in the singles and doubles.

Market Today Reactionary

Stock Market Starts Off Month Of March Very Quiet, Pressure Continues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The stock market started off the month of March today on a reactionary tone, trading was very quiet.

Pressure on industrial issues, which has become pronounced in the last two days, continued. John Manville sold down nearly a point. Du Pont was heavy. U. S. Steel sagged and Chrysler and General Motors were in supply around the lows of the year.

Rails also pointed down after their short-lived rally on Wednesday and early yesterday. A sharp decline in traffic last week contributed to the unsettlement resulting from the great western and Rio Grande difficulties. Losses were largely fractional, however.

Utilities were easier after resisting the downtrend in the market for several days. Consolidated Gas declined a sizeable fraction. Commonwealth and Southern preferred was a strong exception.

Mining shares made the best showing as a group, with Cerro De Pasco advancing in response to the new high in London silver prices. Gold shares were firm.

Columbia Pictures sold at a new high in the amusements, and Loew's was beter after an early dip. American Safety Razor sold at a record high. Allied Chemical gained a point, counter to the trend in other industrials.

Oils were sluggish. Alcohols were easier after yesterday's flurry. Otherwise the list was dull.

The Pound Sterling met better support in foreign exchanges and firmed up. Gains were easy and bonds mixed.

Ruth May Start At First Base In Lineup Of Braves

Says He Could Play First Without Much Trouble, Thinks Dean Is Great Pitcher

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Babe Ruth, that rookie first baseman in the Braves are all hopped up over——

Now wait a minute. As I was saying, that rookie first baseman today goes back to Boston where they're throwing a chawder party for him tonight and where he'll sign his first National league contract.

Yep, that's right. First base is the spot the Big Bam has picked out for himself. And don't think the old boy doesn't fancy himself as a first baseman. Listen to him:

"Say, I'm pretty good around that bag. I've always wanted to take a shot at it. It's a lot softer than the outfield, especially one like the Braves got and it's a lot easier on the dogs."

Maranville and Ruth.

It was suggested that he and Rabbit Maranville, whose combined age is 85, would make a sight for sore eyes on the infield to which the Babe responded:

"Now don't worry about the Rab and me. Neither of us is through yet by a long shot. We may not be as young or as fast as we were but we got plenty left and we still know our way around."

The Babe has no illusions about himself nor his ability to patrol the vast expanse of Braves outfield, no matter what he may say for public consumption. He played first base in nearly all the Yankees' exhibition games for many years and he's far better than a green pea at the job.

Says Dean Is Great.

He also is well aware that he could play nearly every Saturday, Sunday and holiday at first base but it's no cinch that he could do as much if he were in the outfield.

And what does Mr. Ruth think about the National league pitchers, especially Dizzy Dean, who was the only one in baseball to weigh in with an anti-Ruth blast?

The Babe guffawed: "That Dean's a great pitcher all right. He showed me plenty in the last world series but they can all be hit and if he happens to come down the middle with that fast one of his some day, well, I may give it a ride."

Ellwood To Meet Rochester High

Tubers Favored To Win Another Inter-Sectional Game Here Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 1—Ellwood City High cagers are out for another inter-sectional victory when they meet Rochester High at Lincoln gym this evening. The Reserves of both schools will met in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

The locals tapered off drilling for this game with a hard scrimmage yesterday and are in top form. Coach "Ganzy" Benedict will have his entire varsity squad available for the game and is planning to try several combinations. Flanagan and Young of the Reserves were used in the game with Union Township High last Tuesday, and gave a creditable performance. They are expected to see some action tonight.

Bill Cole, local star forward, and second high scorer in Section 3 will be a marked man tonight. The visitors have especially formed their defense to stop him. But judging from past performances the local ace will be hard to stop, since he appears to do better under pressure. The locals revealed a fine attack last Tuesday and hope to get clicking again.

Rochester High in Section 12 has won three games and lost seven. They are primed for the Tubers.

Gets Perfect Bridge Hand

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 1—Wonder of wonders that happens in so many millions of deals according to mathematicians occurred here last evening when Tom Barnes held the perfect bridge hand—13 spades.

Young Barnes was playing with Miss Kay Wilson, Miss Frances Sharpe, and Fred Robuck. Barnes had shuffled the cards which were cut by Robuck. After dealing them out one by one he was so surprised with his hand that he decided to have some fun.

After the bidding in auction had started it developed that all had good hands. Miss Sharpe and Robuck had run the bidding to five hearts. Of course Barnes had promptly made it five spades and was doubled by Robuck. He redoubled and of course made a grand slam. Test Papers Give Congressman Jar

Some Of The "Boners" Which Were Pulled By Applicants For Jobs

(International News Service)

SUNBURY, Pa. Mar. 1—Congressman James Gildea, of this district, admittedly is "shocked" by some of the answers recorded on the test papers by his candidates to the naval academy at Annapolis, answers which he believes every high school student should know.

None of his appointees passed the entrance examinations and Gildea attributes the failures to over emphasis on football and less stress on academic studies.

Gildea has selected a few "boners" as representative answers from some of the examination papers. "One student," he revealed, "said Zane Grey wrote, "As You Like It," while another was of the opinion that Milton Sills was the author.

"Then that good old American poet, Longfellow, added a best seller to his long list of writings when another student gave him credit for writing 'Main Street,' the work of Sinclair Lewis. And the Revolutionary War General, Baron Von Steuben, was listed as an ace with the French air forces during the World War."

The highest score attained by any of the eight candidates who took the examination was 47.61 per cent while the low was 9.64, according to Gildea. Of the group, there was only one applicant who has had both four years of high school and college training and his average was a fraction better than 42, he said.

"Boys who are interested in entering the military or naval academy will have to put more stress on their studies and less time on football if they expect to pass the examinations," Gildea observed. "They spend entirely too much time on the game and are very poorly prepared when they meet such examinations as the academies require."

Plumbing Only New Thing About Modern Housing

Otherwise Houses Are Much The Same As Before Christian Era

(International News Service)

BOSTON,—That modern man has contributed little to architecture except modern plumbing is the conclusion drawn from a glimpse at an exhibition of miniature houses dating from 12,000 B. C., on display at Massachusetts Institute of Technology's school of architecture.

"Modernistic" dwellings of the present had their counterpart in the houses of Egyptian noblemen of 4,000 B. C., while log cabins and summer houses now in architectural style, carry more than a note of similarity to the "long houses" of the Iroquois Indians in the 17th century.

Reproductions of early American homes now that the standardization of lumber into four and eight-foot lengths has done nothing to improve the beauty of modern reproductions over originals which were laid out "by rule of thumb."

Modern architects seem reluctant to digress from classical or modern modes in designing houses. Replicas of Norman and Georgian mansions in Wellesley and West Newton might have been lifted from another century save that they have modern plumbing.

One of the features of the exhibit is a model of a thatched neolithic lake house of 12,000 B. C., resembling in many respects, including, the steep-roofed river huts of tribes which still exist in Africa and the Orient.
